TRAIN CRASH ADVENTURE

Wreck Injuries Trivial

ing of Signals said to Have Caused Collision of Padre and Lark

[illegible] Passengers Hurt Suffer Only Minor Sprains and Cuts

FRANCISCO, Aug. 28. (Exclusive)—Comparatively trivial injuries received by passengers and [illegible] crew members in the rear-end [illegible] of the Lark and Padre of Southern Pacific at San Luis [illegible] early today made the affair [illegible] adventure rather than [illegible], so that it was a gayly [illegible] throng that descended [illegible] the two trains upon their arrival in the Bay District later, the [illegible] in San Francisco and the [illegible] at Oakland.

[illegible]-four persons were listed [illegible], twenty of them passengers, the others railway employees. The Lark crashed into the [illegible] of the Padre as the latter was standing at the station at San Luis Obispo undergoing regular inspection. The observation car [illegible] Padre was telescoped by the [illegible] engine. It was reported that the Lark's engine crew had ignored [illegible] signals set against it, but this [illegible] is being investigated by a [illegible] board of inquiry.

SHOUP PADRE PASSENGER

Among the passengers on the Padre was Paul Shoup, president of Southern Pacific, whose private car was attached to the train. He had with him as guests, T. E. [illegible], the latter's wife and their daughter Polly, 5 years of age, and Mary Ellsworth, New York. [illegible] was hurt. Shoup expressed his pleasure at the manner in which the situation had been handled and was gratified to realize the company's record of ten years without a fatal accident to a passenger remained unblemished. He refused to advance an idea as to the cause until all the reports [illegible].

"The station was well lighted," he said, "and there was no fog. I can't [illegible] what caused the accident. I [illegible] reports from all concerned before making any decision. I am glad there was no confusion and the passengers were calm. That [illegible] a great deal."

[illegible], investment broker of New York, declared "it was a most fortunate unfortunate accident," because if it had occurred a short time previously persons in the observation car, which was telescoped, probably would have been killed. [illegible] was, they had retired for the [illegible].

ACTRESS THRILLED

"It was awfully thrilling," said Edna Purviance, film actress and former leading woman for Charlie Chaplin, who is here to visit friends. "I was sound asleep and the first thing I knew there was a crash, a jar and I found myself all tumbled up in a corner of my berth. My suitcase fell on my

Will Rogers Remarks:

TAHOE TAVERN, Aug. 28.—[To the Editor of The Times:] When Jimmy Gerard said that fifty-seven men run this country, everybody thought it was an ad for Heinz pickles, so he had to add Bishop Cannon and Al Capone. Poor Jimmy, everybody jumped on his selections, everybody that wasn't mentioned. The Senate was broken hearted, in fact. The funny part about the whole thing is, the ones that are running it don't want their names mentioned, not this year anyway. They are liable to sue Gerard for slander.

Yours,
WILL ROGERS.

TRADE PLAN SHAPING UP

Pan-American Ideal Gains

Permanent Institute to Aid Business Reciprocity will be Achieved

Conference at Sacramento Attacks Obstacles to Prosperity

BY CHARLES C. COHAN
"Times" Staff Representative

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 28. (Exclusive)—Formation of a permanent organization to be known as the Pan-American Institute of Reciprocal Trade is to be the paramount achievement of the Pan-American Reciprocal Trade Conference now in session here, according to present expressions. While the launching of such an institute is contingent on the action of the general conference in its closing sessions, there already is visioned the largest organization ever formed for the promotion of international trade, mutual understanding and prosperity.

This sentiment, freely expressed and indorsed by delegates here, is substantiated by recommendations adopted today in the committee on permanency which has been studying a plan for permanent organization.

The committee outlined the aims of the institute as follows:

FOG TERROR LESSENED

New Device Aids Blind-Flying

Invention Enables Pilot to "Hear" Light as Guide to Airport

Magnetic Waves Shot from Neon Tubes Picked Up as Signals

CHICAGO, Aug. 28. (AP)—A new aid for airplane pilots seeking to land on a fog-bound airport, a device that "hears" light, was revealed today.

It is the invention of Earl C. Hanson, Chicago scientist, who disclosed the development to a group of aeronautic experts attending the National Air Races, including Maj. James Doolittle, noted for his blind-landing work last year for the Guggenheim Fund.

MAGNETIC WAVES USED

Hanson utilizes invisible magnetic waves emanating from a bank of neon tubes, intercepting them with a device in the cockpit that causes a steady hum in earphones clapped to the pilot's ears and activates an electrical altimeter that shows the number of feet the plane is above the ground.

The neon tubing, Hanson said, would be placed on a landing field to act as a signal in clear weather, but giving out its invisible stream of electrons that, in fog, could be picked up by the pilot to tell him not only where the airport is, but lead him safely to a landing.

WEIGHT SLIGHT

While the demonstration was made on a miniature scale, he said the entire equipment installed in an airplane would weigh not more than fifty pounds.

It would consist of a "pick-up" device, he said, for intercepting the waves and feeding into an amplifier to which the earphones would be connected for the sound signal and the electrical meter for the optical signal.

NEED STRESSED

The neon waves, he explained, could not be detected at a great distance from an airport, so pilots would have to rely on radio-compasses for guidance en route, but signals could be caught over the landing field at altitudes of 2000 feet or more.

"Something of this sort," Maj. Doolittle said after the demonstration, "which would allow airplanes to keep schedules in all kinds of weather is imperative to the complete success of air transportation."

Hanson said the new development was not only useful as a fog-landing aid, but could be utilized to warn pilots flying in fog of the proximity of other aircraft.

NEW PERU PRESIDENT INSTALLED

Sanchez Cerro Sworn in as Nation Returns to Normal Following Revolt

LIMA (Peru) Aug. 28. (AP)—Peru today apparently had returned to the normal status existing before a revolt last Friday stirred the nation and resulted in the installation of Lieut.-Col. Luis M. Sanchez Cerro as the new head of the government.

Sanchez Cerro, arriving from Arequipa by airplane, succeeded a military junta which on Monday ousted President Augusto B. Leguia, and was sworn in last night as President of the new junta without portfolio. His Cabinet was installed at the same time.

The new administration began to reorganize the government, intending to oust those officials who were adherents of the former President, now lying ill aboard the cruiser Almirante Grau in Callao.

Sugar Industry Aid Formulated

NEW YORK, Aug. 28. (AP)—Asserting the $6,000,000,000 world sugar industry is prostrate because of overproduction, Thomas L. Chadbourne, chairman of the conference of Cuban and American sugar producers, announced today definite progress has been made toward formulation of a plan to bring about equilibrium between supply and demand.

At the conference were thirty men representing the industry which, in the United States, the Philippines, Hawaii, Porto Rico and Cuba, the statement said, aggregates an investment of about $2,000,000,000.

Pugilist Shot by Gang Dies

NEW YORK, Aug. 28. (AP)—Joseph Silverman, known to pugilism as Joie Silver and to police as a slot-machine racketeer, died today of wounds inflicted Tuesday by Brooklyn gangsters.

Silverman, when he was in the ring, was a lightweight. He had three brothers, Pal, Marty and Babe, all of whom were boxers.

CIVIL WAR THREATENS ARGENTINA

Buenos Aires Arms with Plot to Overthrow Regime of Yrigoyen Reported

BUENOS AIRES, Aug. 28. (AP)—The Argentine capital was armed tonight for a possible revolutionary outbreak against the government of President Hipolito Yrigoyen, for forty years a powerful figure in his country's politics and twice its chief of state.

Warning that a revolution might break out immediately in part of the army was said today by the newspaper La Critica to have been given the President by Dr. Juan De la Campa, Minister of Justice. Dr. De la Campa said certain political leaders are involved.

The President was reported to have replied he did not fear any revolutionary outbreak against the state, but believed an attack might be made against himself.

After a night and a day of feverish political and police activity, all military units here were confined to barracks. The President's home and the Presidential palace are heavily guarded.

Machine-gun crews are mounted on the roofs of surrounding buildings and a mounted police squadron augmented the regular palace guards. Soldiers and police are concentrated at strategic points.

Heat in England Kills Nine More

LONDON, Aug. 28. (Excusive)—The heat wave in Great Britain approached an all-time record of 93 deg. today as the oven-like temperature claimed nine lives from sunstroke, caused scores of prostrations and sent thousands swarming to the beaches and swimming pools in search of relief. The death toll for two days is sixteen persons.

The temperature this afternoon was higher than it has been for seven years with no indication of a let up.

Borglum Agrees to Conference

RAPID CITY (S. D.) Aug. 28. (AP) Gutzon Borglum, sculptor of the national memorial on Mt. Rushmore, has accepted an invitation of Mayor-elect James L. Key of Atlanta to return to Georgia for a conference on the Confederate memorial project on Stone Mountain, which he left five years ago, when he disagreed with the commission in charge of it.

New York Fetes German Flyers

NEW YORK, Aug. 28. (AP)—The German trans-Atlantic flyers were welcomed at City Hall today at a ceremony broadcast in this country and Germany.

Mayor Walker greeted the flyers and Capt. Von Gronau replied, both speaking in English. Then Gustave Hauser, acting German Consul-General, and Capt. Von Gronau spoke briefly in German.

G.A.R. Attacks Impersonation of Abe Lincoln

CINCINNATI, Aug. 28. (AP)—James E. Jewel, Fort Morgan, Colo., was elected commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic as its sixty-fourth encampment drew to a close today.

Jacob Secrist, Cincinnati, former commander of the Ohio department of the G.A.R., was elected senior vice-commander-in-chief and Charles H. Lewis, Pawtucket, R. I., junior vice-commander-in-chief.

The veterans voted condemnation of the impersonation of Abraham Lincoln by Charles Edward Bull of Hollywood, Cal. Bull gave several presentations of his play during the encampment.

Bids on State Structure Not Satisfactory

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 28. (AP)—Award of contracts for construction of the new State building in Los Angeles has been delayed because low bids were not entirely satisfactory, Bert B. Meek, director of public works, said at a meeting of the Governor's Council here today.

Meek said a conference had been called in Sacramento next Tuesday with John Austin, architect of the building, in an endeavor to bring about early awarding of contracts.

Clerks Favor Postage Rise

DALLAS, Aug. 28. (AP)—The United National Association of Postoffice Clerks today recommended that 3 cents postage be required for letters, 10 cents for air mail and 2 cents for postcards.

The longevity salary increase plan, which would provide a $100 salary rise after ten years of service and $100 for every additional five years, was adopted as the principal goal for the coming year, as it has been for the preceding two years.

A resolution was also passed asking for a five-day week.

Will of Phelan Goes to Probate

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 28. (Exclusive)—The will of the late James D. Phelan, former Mayor and Senator, was admitted to probate today, with its huge bequests to relatives, friends and charity out of an estate estimated to total about $10,000,000.

The executors are Noel Sullivan, nephew; Charles W. Fay and R. D. McElroy, lifelong friends and business associates, and Thomas B. Doyle, Phelan's secretary.

MEXICO ARCHBISHOP FACES FINE FOR RITE

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 28. (AP)—Riva Palacio, Secretary of Interior, announced today a fine of $100 will be levied against Mgr. Pascual Diaz, archbishop of Mexico, for violation of the Mexican religious laws. The archbishop was charged with conducting a ceremony in Belen prison for confirmation of a group of children of prisoners.

HOME BREW GIFT BEYOND KICK OF LAW

Policeman's Truckload for Legion Men Regarded as Slightly Innocent

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 28. (AP)—Declining to charge a violation of the prohibition law against Charles M. Howell, New Orleans, a policeman, for escorting a truckload of beer to headquarters here of the American Legion, U. S. Dist.-Atty. Talbot drew a distinction today between beer manufactured for home consumption and that made for commercial use.

The patrolman, an officer in the American Legion, was guarding a load of beer carried to the Legion headquarters where installation of officers was in progress. Howell was arrested but the truck driver escaped.

The District Attorney was told Howell had made the beer at his home and was donating it for the celebration. The case, the District Attorney said, "did not constitute a clear-cut case of prohibition law violation, as no criminal feature was involved."

Two Saved when Street Collapses

SCRANTON (Pa.) Aug. 28. (AP)—Two men who were plunged twenty feet into the earth when a street over a mine operation caved in were rescued at midnight after nine hours' imprisonment.

The men, Ralph Massankiel, 25 years of age, and William Williams, 52, were repairing the street after a subsidence earlier in the day caused several thousand dollars' damage to homes and injury to residents.

The second subsidence came without warning, burying the men.

Dynamite Used in Mine Strike

PROVIDENCE (Ky.) Aug. 28. (AP) This coal-mining community, its nerves on edge from a recent airplane bombing, was the scene of new disorders last night when three dynamite explosions jarred the city. The dynamite, discharged in open fields at the edge of the city, caused no damage.

Firearms were discharged in the streets.

New Mexican Governor Sworn

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 28. (AP)—Gen. Arturo Bernal, new Governor of the northern district of Lower California, was given the oath of office last night by the Secretary of the Interior at the Interior Building.

He left today for Mexicali to begin his duties.

TWO RADICALS FINED FOR BOSTON SPEECHES

BOSTON, Aug. 28. (AP) — Israel Prager and Norman Kay, the latter an organizer for the international labor defense, arrested during a Sacco-Vanzetti demonstration on Boston Common Friday, were fined $20 each in Municipal Court today. They were charged with carrying banners without permits and with making an address on the Common without a license.

Republican Brochure Says Platform Pledges Have Been Made Effective

Wide Scope of Work Done by Administration Noted in Committee Report

BY LAURENCE M. BENEDICT
"Times" Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28. (Exclusive)—The achievements of the Hoover administration during its eighteen months' tenure in the redemption of platform pledges are set forth in an elaborate brochure made public today by the Republican National Committee. It reviews in great detail the work of the administration, setting forth in parallel columns the pledges written into the Kansas City platform and the manner in which the administration has translated them into action.

It is demonstrated that definite, constructive action has been taken by the administration on virtually every plank approved by the Republican convention and thus the document constitutes an effective answer to critics of the administration's record of accomplishments.

DEALS WITH PLATFORM

Only inferential account is taken of the work of the administration on the numerous problems which have confronted the President since he has been in office, such as the emergencies growing out of the stock market crash, the drought situation or other unforeseen developments. It is confined almost wholly to the issues set forth in the platform. When the record of accomplishment thus set forth is considered in connection with the performances of the administration in other directions the volume of achievements of the first eighteen months of the Hoover regime is graphically illustrated.

Taking the platform planks in numerical order the national committee sets forth that in relation to public economies the President in his first message to Congress held Federal expenditures to the same sum provided the year before under the Coolidge administration and "yet by shifts of expenditures provided for expansion of the merchant marine and internal waterways and for increased services of the Labor, Commerce and Agriculture departments."

SURPLUS IN TREASURY

In like manner the financial policies of previous Republican administrations were adhered to, it is pointed out, and "have been carried forward with the result that at the end of the first fiscal year of the Hoover administration there was a Treasury surplus of $184,000,000."

The Republican platform pledged continued reduction of the public debt and the committee cites "an additional reduction of $1,160,000,000 in the Federal indebtedness made from the beginning of the administration to the end of the fiscal year June 30, 1930."

The pledge of further tax reduction was redeemed, the committee says, when income taxes were reduced on recommendation by the President by $160,000,000.

TARIFF PROTECTION

In connection with the plank pledging revision of the tariff in those schedules affecting "lagging industries" the committee says:

"The 1922 tariff law was revised to furnish greater protection both to American labor and agriculture, with a strengthened flexible provision under which the President may change rates within a limited scope, with a view to making unnecessary general legislative tariff revision for many years to come."

The platform pledged adherence to the foreign debt policy established by the previous Republican administrations and the committee says that under this policy the French debt settlement of $4,000,000,000 was ratified, thus completing the refundment of $11,577,000,000 of war indebtedness by foreign governments. It is also pointed out that upon recommendation by the administration Congress passed legislation to settle war claims and debts between the United States and Germany and Austria.

PEACE PACT CITED

Under the head of foreign policies the committee says the administration redeemed the pledge to "further the cause of peace and of

WARD BOSS INDICTED

Court Graft Laid to Tammanyite

Federal Jury Eyes $10,000 Ewald "Loan" to Healy as Price of Job

Mayor Walker Served with Subpoena in $250,000 Slander Action

NEW YORK, Aug. 28. (Exclusive)—The various investigations into the municipal scandals today had these developments:

Martin J. Healy, Tammany district leader, was indicted in Federal court on charge of failing to report income in 1927, the year Mrs. George F. Ewald transferred $10,000 to him and Ewald was appointed a city magistrate. Although Healy's salary was only $7000 a year, the grand jury charged that, in fact, the year Ewald was appointed to the bench it amounted to "approximately $35,000 or more."

Mayor Walker was served with summons in a $250,000 slander action by Jacob Cash, deposed city marshal, who says he paid $2000 to Healy after he received reappointment in 1927.

Atty.-Gen. Ward opened his inquiry and delved first into a report that Magistrate Andrew Macrery died after being beaten because he failed to pay a final $5000 installment on the price of his appointment.

SPOTLIGHT ON HEALY

Healy, Tammany boss of the Nineteenth Assembly District, who used to be a playmate of Jimmie Walker years ago in Greenwich Village, had the center of the spotlight.

Before a New York county grand jury that investigated the Ewald appointment, both Mrs. Ewald and Healy swore that the $10,000 was nothing more or less than a loan, but the Federal grand jury, by returning its indictment, indicated its belief that the $10,000 was part of the district leader's income.

There are two counts in the indictment, one reciting failure to make a return, the other failure to furnish the government with proper figures on his income, and the maximum penalty is two years in prison and a $20,000 fine.

INQUIRY CONTINUED

Shortly after 3 o'clock Healy and his attorney, Albert E. Schwartz, went before Federal Judge Adler and pleaded not guilty to the indictment. Bail was fixed at $2000 and it was furnished at once.

U. S. Atty. Charles H. Tuttle revealed that he isn't yet through with Healy. The investigation will be continued with the view of determining whether he did right by the income-tax law in 1928 and 1929.

Healy's indictment comes after his resignation from his post as deputy commissioner of plant and structures and on the heels of persistent rumors that he will resign as the Tammany leader of his district.

MAYOR INTERRUPTED

The subpoena in Jacob Cash's $250,000 suit against Mayor Walker was served upon him under dramatic circumstances—while the Mayor stood on the City Hall steps in front of 3000 persons and a microphone into which he was saying complimentary things about the German aviators who have just flown the Atlantic.

The Mayor faltered a bit, recovered himself and forged ahead with his kind words. Then, his speech completed, he looked at the paper in his hand, discerned that he was being sued by Jacob Cash, to whom the Mayor administered a tongue lashing via the newspapers a couple of days ago.

The suit against the Mayor is based on his statement that Cash as a city marshal "preyed upon poor people" and that he was discharged from his job on the basis of twenty-nine charges filed against him. Cash contends he was fired on the strength of one charge, and that it was a frame-up.

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 28. (AP)—Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow told correspondents in the Foreign Press Club today his tentative program calls for his leaving Mexico about September 20.

He hopes to go for a short vacation to his estate at North Haven, Me.

DIET FADDISTS ASSAILED

London Doctor Asserts Moderate Eating of Foods One Likes Gives Safest Nourishment

WINNIPEG (Man.) Aug. 28. (AP)—Diet, in the opinion of Dr. Robert Hutchison of London, should be a matter of likes and dislikes.

The diet faddist, he told the ninety-eighth annual meeting of the British Medical Association, is perhaps the commonest and most malignant crank. "The scientific truth about all this diet business," he said, "can be summed up as follows: Eat moderately, taking ordinary mixed diet, and don't worry about anything else—to take no thought for what you shall eat or drink is wiser than to be always fussing over it. Likes and dislikes, however, should be listened to; they are nature's indication of what probably agrees or disagrees."

Harking back to the "days of mud pies," Dr. Hutchison said children were probably healthier and happier then than the oft-weighed, pampered, dieted and psychoanalyzed infants of today.

He laughed at calory counters and vitamin victims, and held up as ideal the easy-going individual who "merely meanders to health."

"What we need for attainment of health as individuals is not more knowledge, but a change of heart."

He adjured humans to "leave raw vegetables, except salads, to herbivorous animals and let the calories look after themselves."

Jews and Americans, he said, are especially prone to think too much about health.

"I often think it is a pity Moses ever laid down a sanitary code for the children of Israel, for it has implanted the seeds of hypochondriasis, which has flourished ever since."

strict justice between nations" by the following accomplishments:

"Negotiated the London naval treaty; assisted Mexico in curbing a purely military revolt; adopted a new policy in dealing with Haiti by replacing the high military commission with a diplomatic mission; an early withdrawal of all marines from Nicaragua; contributed to bringing about a settlement of the dispute between China and Russia; assisted in settlement of Tacna-Arica dispute and further improved relations with Latin America by manning the missions there with men trained for their duties, and speaking the language of the peoples."

FARM BOARD CREATED

One of the chief planks of the Republican platform pledged some measure of farm relief and the committee points out that Farm Board was created to assist agriculture in orderly marketing; that agricultural tariffs have been increased and provision has been made further to improve international and waterways to provide lower transport costs.

The accomplishments of the administration in connection with improved and increased highways are illustrated by the statement that appropriations in Federal aid to highway construction have been increased from $75,000,000 to $125,000,000 for a period of three years.

The platform pledged the Republican party to continue efforts to maintain the standard of living and a high-wage scale. To this end it is instanced that tariff revisions have been effected to maintain wage scales and that the administration at the inception of the depression induced industrialists to agree not to disturb the level of wages.

RAIL MERGER SPEEDED

Under the plank dealing with the railroads the committee points out that with a view to furnishing more effective railroad service at lowest rates consistent with proper maintenance and operation, the Interstate Commerce Commission, at the suggestion of the President, speeded up its work on a tentative plan of railroad consolidation, which has been presented to Congress.

The committee cites the fact that the platform declared for "an American-built, American-owned and American-operated merchant marine" and in support of that pledge says:

"President Hoover has perfected and Congress has authorized a program for the development of the merchant marine, which will result in the construction of nearly 500,000 tons of new American merchant ships within the next five years at a cost of only $5,000,000 yearly in mail contracts."

Reorganization of the Federal Radio Commission, increased appropriations for flood control and for the enlargement of the program of development of the Mississippi system have been provided the committee points out in accordance with definite platform pledges.

Full and adequate relief was pledged veterans and the committee asserts that legislation providing for disabled veterans has been worked out on a liberal scale including aid to some 380,000 disabled men whose earning power has been decreased as a result of service, and an appropriation of $15,000,000 for additional hospital facilities.

Under the pledge to protect the public from exactions or burdens in rates for service by reason of monopoly control the committee says that authority has been given the President to reorganize the Federal Power Commission and recommendations for extending the authority of the commission now is before Congress.

DRY ENFORCEMENT

Law enforcement was another of the major Republican platform pledges and the committee cites the fact that to bring about improved enforcement of the Eighteenth Amendment "the Prohibition Bureau has been transferred from the Treasury to the Justice Department; district attorneys' offices have been reorganized and arrangements have been made with Canada to tighten up further the export of intoxicating liquors to the United States.

Under the pledge that the Republican party would maintain honesty and efficiency in government, the committee says:

"The Hoover administration has been especially successful in recruiting strong men from all parts of the country for high administrative posts in the government with the result that at no time in history has the personnel of the administration been of so high an average order as it is today."

The Kansas City convention pledged the party that no deficit would exist at the end of the Presidential campaign.

"The 1928 campaign was concluded," says the committee, "with a surplus in fulfillment of the party pledge."

Restricted immigration was a pledge of the platform and the committee says that through rigid enforcement of the law, Mexican immigration was reduced by many thousands during the first year of the Hoover administration.

In conformity with the pledge to "round out and maintain the Navy" in accordance with treaty obligations the committee says a comprehensive program for enlarging the American cruiser fleet and making replacements of other auxiliary craft when necessary is being carried forward.

DRAFT RESOURCES

Under the pledge of the party to draft not only citizens but the nation's resources in the event of war, the committee says that Congress had enacted, and the President has signed a joint resolution appointing a commission to study a constitutional amendment for the drafting of material resources and wealth in the event of war.

The platform accepted "wholehearted equality on the part of women, in the legal, diplomatic, judicial, Treasury, and other governmental departments."

In accordance with this it is pointed out that additional recognition has been given women in government departments and the public service.

AID FOR INDIANS

The committee says the Indian Service in the Interior Department has been so reorganized as to promote "the industrial and educational development of the Indians with a view to making them self-supporting and self-sustaining citizens rather than continuing them indefinitely as wards of the government."

The final platform pledge asserted the Republican party would never support "the effort being continually made to have the Federal government move into the field of State activities."

In this connection the committee says:

"A firm believer in this declaration of the party, President Hoover has proceeded energetically to uphold the vigor and the balance of the dual system of Federal and State governments while encouraging the greatest measure of co-operation between the two."

DRYS MAP RACE AGAINST ROLPH

Leaders to Meet Tomorrow for Drafting Plan

Larger Session on Tuesday to Work Out Details

Final Count Shows No Real Change in Results

With the Los Angeles county tally on Tuesday's primary complete last night and showing no changes in the results already announced, interest in the political field turned to a meeting of dry forces to be held tomorrow at Temperance Temple to consider the possibility of running a "dry" candidate as an independent against the Republican nominee, Mayor Rolph.

As announced by Mrs. Eva C. Wheeler, State president of the W. C. T. U., the gathering will be attended by representatives of ten "dry" organizations, six of which are State-wide and the other four county-wide in their activities. The session will be an executive one. Under the present plans, if it is decided at tomorrow's meeting that the proposal to run a "dry" candidate against Rolph is feasible, there will be a second and larger meeting of the dry forces to be held next Tuesday. Such a meeting would lay a foundation for an all-State convention and an active campaign.

RESULTS UNCHANGED

The last few precincts in the county missing in the general tally were located yesterday, but the general results as announced were nowhere disturbed. One of the closest races in the election proved to be that in the Seventy-second Assembly District, where the final count showed Ben A. Hill winner over Frank McGinley by a vote of 6069 to 6040. The winner will run against Alice W. Anderson, Socialist, in November. His election is, of course, assured.

Practically complete returns from other counties in the Fourth District for the Board of Equalization, including San Bernardino, Imperial, Ventura, Santa Barbara and San Diego, showed H. G. Cattell, of Pasadena, incumbent, nominated over his nearest competitor, Alfred J. Barnes. J. W. Erlich is the Democratic nominee.

BOARD TO CANVASS

The final returns on the election in the county having been received, the Board of Supervisors began yesterday sitting as the official election canvassing board to canvass the vote. The board is being assisted by 130 extra civil service clerks. Up to last night no glaring irregularities had been uncovered. Under the law the canvass must be completed by September 11.

Through his campaign chairman, Leo Daze, Senator Frank Merriam yesterday issued a statement expressing his gratification at being nominated by the Republican party for Lieutenant-Governor. It was noted in the statement that although the contest was very vigorously fought Senator Merriam never saw a greater display of sportsmanship manifested in an election campaign. Thanks were expressed to the Senator's friends who worked for him and voted for him.

COLLINS WINS IN EQUALIZATION BOARD RACE

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 28. (AP)—Returns tabulated tonight by the Associated Press from 1007 precincts of the 1325 in the Third Equalization District, including most of the northern part of the State, gave Richard E. Collins of Redding, present member for the district of the State board, a safe lead over Robert Madison of Santa Rosa. The count was Collins, 36,188; Madison, 27,222.

POSITIONS UNCHANGED IN GOVERNOR RACE

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 28. (AP)—The relative position of the three leading candidates for the Republican gubernatorial nomination remained unchanged as the Associated Press tonight tabulated the State's ten-thousandth precinct vote cast in Tuesday's primary. The count in 10,039 of the State's 10,283 precincts gave:

James Rolph, Jr., Mayor of San Francisco, 371,416.

C. C. Young, Berkeley, the present Governor, 346,023.

Buron Fitts, Los Angeles District Attorney, 286,491.

A tabulating error earlier had accorded Fitts a larger total. The vote for other candidates was:

Clara Shortridge Foltz, Los Angeles, 3435. Milton Young, Los Angeles, Republican, 14,910; Democratic, 42,167. Upton Sinclair, Socialist, 1561.

Rolph will oppose Milton Young and Sinclair in the general election in November.

The much split vote for the Republican nomination for Lieutenant-Governor, had definitely resolved itself tonight into victory for Frank F. Merriam of Long Beach. The balloting in 9779 of the State's 10,283 precincts showed: Merriam, 242,122; H. L. Carnahan (incumbent,) 222,894; Tallant Tubbs, 218,000; Harry A. Chamberlin, 106,249; William I. Kinsley, 45,452.

Martin I. Welsh of Sacramento was unopposed for the Democratic nomination, and Chaim Shapiro of Los Angeles for that of the Socialist party.

ANTISALOON HEAD IN DARK ON DRY RACE

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 28. (Exclusive)—Dr. A. H. Briggs, superintendent of the California Anti-Saloon League, said today the organization, "as far as I know," is making no move to support an independent candidate of known dry tendencies to compete at the November election with Mayor Rolph, Republican gubernatorial nominee, considered a "wet." Dr. Briggs was asked following reports from Los Angeles such a move might be made.

"Whether an independent candidate will be placed in the field will depend upon many things," he said.

"It has not been the practice of the league in the past to lend itself to such actions after the primary."

INDEPENDENT MUST HAVE 18,461 SPONSORS

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 28. (AP)—Voters of the State are to cast ballots in the November election for James Rolph, Jr., Republican; Milton K. Young, Los Angeles, Democrat, Upton Sinclair, Pasadena, Socialist, and any independent candidate who can get into the Gubernatorial race. But, the Secretary of State's office said today, an independent will have to be approved first by 18,461 registered voters who did not vote in the primary.

The State law provides anyone may run in the November election provided he is sponsored by 1 per cent of the vote cast in the preceding general election. In November, 1928, 1,846,107 persons voted so an independent entering next November would need 18,461 sponsors. The list of sponsors would have to be filed with the clerk of the independent's county before September 25, next.

ROLPH MAKES PLEA FOR STATEWIDE UNITY

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 28. (AP)—Statewide co-operation for the building of a greater California was urged by Mayor Rolph today in his first formal public appearance since his nomination as Republican candidate for Governor.

"We are interested in the whole State and not one particular section of it," he told a Shriner luncheon club. "The way we are growing there is no reason for not having 10,000,000 people in California in ten years."

He deplored any feeling of sectionalism and spoke highly of Los Angeles, pointing out the county has a population of 2,500,000 as compared with 5,500,000 for the State.

M. K. YOUNG OUTLINES CAMPAIGN POLICIES

Demanding overthrow of machine politics, support of Federal and State constitutions and enforcement of State laws without fear or favor, Milton K. Young, Democratic nominee, last night announced his plans for his campaign for Governorship until the general election November 4.

Young appealed to the 400,000 registered Democrats to support him against the Republican nominee.

"If elected," he said, "I pledge the people of the State of California that my administration will stand for those things that make for better citizenship and wholesome conditions as well as the proper development of the resources of our great State."

YOUNG PLEASED BY VOTE

Indorsement by Two-thirds of Counties Regarded as Ample Reward for Service to State

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 28. (AP)—Gov. Young wants to turn over the State government to his successor in the best possible condition, he said here today after issuing a statement thanking his supporters in his fight for the Republican nomination. He said his plans for the future, after leaving office in January, are undetermined.

The Governor said he hoped the system of State departments, developed under his administration, will be retained.

"I very much doubt if any one would want to destroy the department system," he said. "It is the only way to make things go."

The Governor's prepared statement follows:

YOUNG'S STATEMENT

"I yesterday sent a telegram to Mayor James Rolph, Jr., congratulating him on his victory, and, as a fellow-candidate in the Republican direct primary, am looking forward to his election in November. As the returns continued to come in the margin of plurality grew less and less, but I soon became convinced that unless there was some error in the count it was a margin which could not be overcome.

"I have spent an extremely busy four years in trying to build up here in California an economical, efficient and businesslike government, devoted to the interests of every portion of the State. It naturally pleases me to note in the returns that no less than two-thirds of the counties understood this sufficiently to give our administration their indorsement at the election.

ADEQUATE REWARD

"This generous indorsement, together with the splendidly unselfish support of my friends in all portions of California, is an adequate reward for my long continued efforts in public service. I have the satisfaction of turning over to my successor what I believe is as fine and sound a condition of State government as I have ever known during my twenty-two years connection with State affairs.

"I wish to thank the citizens of California for their splendid encouragement and support during the past four years. To the many whose names I may never know, I desire to take this means of expressing my heartfelt appreciation for all they have done for me in the recent campaign. To my successor in office, I would repeat my message of good will and sincere congratulations."

PAN-AMERICAN IDEA SHAPES UP

shall be to make permanent the work of the Pan-American Reciprocal Trade Conference by organizing future conferences and assisting in executing the resolutions and recommendations approved by this conference; to establish active and permanent relations with all organizations connected with inter-American trade, tourist travel and culture; to serve as a medium for the dissemination of information on Pan-American subjects and to co-operate with the governments directly or through the Pan-American union."

Another statement that has just emanated from the permanency committee discloses a suggestion to the effect that in order to permit the creation of the institute without having to defer it to the next conference this conference name an executive board with full powers to carry out the organization and program.

There is understood to be a tentative plan to have the institute function through a general headquarters with affiliated bureaus in each of the nations interested.

IMMIGRATION LAWS

Referring to an asserted "lack of co-ordination between the State Department and Labor Department of the United States," a group conference resolution declares:

"Too much emphasis cannot be given to this particular factor and this round-table recommends most strongly that the conference take steps to bring about an understanding of the immigration laws of the United States by representatives of the Department of State."

A group conference has approved a motion by the Argentine delegation that each country represented should submit a statement showing all goods which can be exchanged among them. It also was suggested that all sugar-producing countries represented hold a special meeting on the sugar problems.

Group conferences today took up the consideration of the financing of shipments comprising perishable commodities and manufactured goods, food culture, involving co-operation to eradicate fruit pests and co-operation to improve fruit culture, and also discussed terminals.

These topics came under the general designation of "obstacles to reciprocity," which conference groups have been analyzing for the last several days.

The present conference has been emphasized as "unofficial" so far as governments are concerned, but there is a disposition apparent among the delegates to regard its activities as of surmounting importance to the governments of the nations represented. A resolution presented today by F. Wailer, Guatemalan Consul at Los Angeles, representing the Department of Foreign Affairs of Guatemala at the conference, declares that "I have been equipped with credentials which not only make me an official government representative at this conference, but which authorize me to sign on behalf of my government, whatever I see fit to or judge to my government's interest."

COMMITTEE PROPOSED

He suggests the appointment of a committee "for the benefit of everybody concerned to pass on to official channels such as the United States Department of Commerce, local, State or national chambers of commerce, and the Pan-American Union, respectively, questions which may be brought up during the sessions pertaining directly to either our instructions from our respective governments or to our individual aims as commercial representatives, or representatives of certain organizations. I refer to questions where the further commentations and decisions are not within the jurisdiction of this conference."

head and whacked me, but I wasn't hurt."

Mrs. F. F. Dickey of Pasadena, wife of an official of the Western Pipe and Steel Company, was on the train coming here for a visit. She was in a lower berth and her two children, Buddy, 7, and June, 6, were in the upper.

"The first I knew was when the two children tumbled down on top of me," said Mrs. Dickey. "They were frightened but were not hurt, and they enjoyed the excitement thoroughly after they had calmed down."

THE INJURED

The Southern Pacific announced the passengers injured as:

J. Morris, 1523 Westerly Terrace, Los Angeles, sprained neck.

H. M. Bayley, 340 Sixth street, San Francisco, sprained neck.

E. W. Parker, San Francisco, sprained neck.

E. O. Burr, Los Angeles, bruised head.

Mrs. Ruth Murphy, 1914 Van Ness avenue, Los Angeles, leg bruised.

Mrs. C. W. Bixby, New York City, bruised head.

Robert E. Proctor, Elkhart, Ind., cut on neck.

Thomas Fitzgerald, Chicago, cut over eye.

Lillian McArthur, Denver, knee bruised.

Miss Kenny, Denver, sprained ankle.

The most seriously injured among the railroad employees was Peter Leon, car inspector, San Luis Obispo, whose leg was amputated. He was underneath one of the cars of the Padre when the collision occurred.

ATHEARN QUITS BLUE SKY POST

Corporation Commissioner Tenders Resignation

Garland May be Appointed to Fill Vacancy

Men Named by Young will Dominate Rail Board

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 28. (Exclusive)—Fred G. Athearn, State Corporation Commissioner, today tendered his resignation to Gov. Young to become effective within a week, it was learned from authoritative sources today. Arthur H. Garland of Los Angeles, chief assistant commissioner, who served as commissioner when Athearn took a leave of absence some months ago, probably will get the appointment.

Athearn announced during the gubernatorial campaign that he did not intend to remain in the position, regardless of whether Young was renominated. He has expressed the desire to retire to private business affairs. He is an attorney and resides in Alameda county.

Corporation Commissioner is one of a number of State positions whose occupants hold at the pleasure of the Governor and who are likely to be retired from the State service with the passing of the Young administration next January. It pays $7500 a year.

Gov. Young will have two appointments to make to the State Railroad Commission before he leaves office in January, the terms of Ezra Decoto and Thomas Louttit, Richardson appointees, expiring on December 31. These positions are for six years and pay $8000 annually.

With these two appointments the commission will be controlled, four to one, by Young appointees. It was reported today that B. B. Meek, Director of Public Works, may be offered one of the Railroad Commission vacancies.

KIDNAPED GIRL FOUND MURDERED

South Bend (Ind.) Fiend Hunted by Posses of Citizens and Police

SOUTH BEND (Ind.) Aug. 28. (Exclusive)—Lured into an automobile and kidnaped Wednesday evening, 8-year-old Marberine Appel, daughter of Mrs. Eula Appel of 206 East Bronson street, was found murdered tonight in an alley two blocks south of her home.

All of South Bend's police department, consisting of 150 patrolmen and detectives, and a volunteer posse of citizens were mobilized within an hour and the greatest man hunt in the history of this city was under way.

The body of the child, missing for thirty hours, was discovered by Mr. and Mrs. Richard Buschatz alongside the garage of their home in the rear of 710 Carroll street.

Marberine was still wearing the pink house dress with the white collar she had on Wednesday evening. She was hatless and barefoot. A wound two inches long had been inflicted, apparently with a monkey wrench, on the left side of the head. A length of bailing wire was drawn around the throat. She had been choked to death.

Deputy Coroner Mikesch of St. Joseph's county, expressed the opinion she had not been dead more than an hour and a half when found.

EAGLE HAILED AT AIR RACES

Lindbergh and Wife Draw Sky Show Spotlight

Noted Couple Target for Amateur Photographers

Ace Not Expected to Take Part in Events

CURTISS-REYNOLDS AIRPORT (Chicago) Aug. 28. (AP)—Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh became the center of attraction for 40,000 persons at the National Air Races today.

The popular hero and his wife set their black-and-red Lockheed Sirius low-winged monoplane in the middle of the airport in the afternoon, coming here from Columbus, O., by way of Indianapolis. After taxiing across the field they were met by race officials and cameramen and escorted to the grand stand by a small auto parade.

CROWD CHEERS

The crowd cheered as the famous couple was taken to a box and several hundred persons left their good seats to stand in front of the Lindbergh space. Jimmie Doolittle was stunting his Doodlebug, an event which usually keeps all eyes turned skyward, but only the Lindberghs were watching him. The crowd was watching the Lindberghs.

Amateur photographers in droves climbed the railing around the box and pointed cameras at the couple, some staying long enough to expose whole film roles. Finally Maj. R. W. Schroeder, chairman of contests, led the Lindberghs out of the boxes to the chief judge's stand above the press box. There they could see the races without themselves being seen.

SPEED TEST WATCHED

Col. Lindbergh said he is not planning to do any flying in the air races, although he will attend them again tomorrow before hopping off for Detroit. They arrived in time to see Lloyd O'Donnell of Long Beach, Cal., fly a Waco 10-T open ship 152.05 miles an hour to win a twenty-five-mile race limited to motors of less than 800 cubic-inch piston displacement.

O'Donnell is the husband of Gladys O'Donnell, winner of the women's derby from Long Beach. A. J. Davis of East Lansing, Mich., was second in the race, his speed being 147.44 miles an hour, and J. W. Killips of La Grange, Ill., was third, with a speed of 143.52 miles an hour.

MAY HAIZLIP WINS

May Haizlip of Kansas City won the first closed-course race for women in the meet when she flew around the pylons at 121.08 miles an hour. Vera Dawn Walker of Los Angeles was runner-up at 120.66 miles, and Laura Ingalls of St. Louis third at 111.55 miles. The race was for open ships of 500 cubic-inch piston displacement or less.

The dead-stick landing contest for women pilots, postponed for several days because, executives said, the contestants slept too late, was finally held. The competition involves the shutting off of motors in the air and landing without power as close as possible to the center of a circle in the field.

Charity Langdon, Norfolk, Va., put her plant down within 150ft. 1in. of the center, taking first place. Betty Lund, Troy, O., was second; Nancy Hopkins, Garden City, Long Island, was third.

WRESTLER'S WIFE SEEKS FINISH BOUT

No Holds Barred When Secret Bride of Zbyszko Enters Divorce Ring

NEW YORK, Aug. 28. (Exclusive) Vila Milli, show girl, whose euphonious real name is Winifred Stark Zbyszko, wants to lay her dainty hands on her husband, Wladek Zbyszko, the big muscle and biceps man of the wrestling world, so she can toss him for a divorce.

Most people did not even know that Vila was a bride, and the reason for that, she confided today, was because her muscle man, who married her in Jersey on June 30, 1928, imposed secrecy upon her.

But her life has been just one disillusionment after another, beginning with her wedding day when she found her big brigedroom had broken a date with an Italian girl friend to marry her.

The wrestling champion's girl bride—she was 17 years of age when they were married—charges that her strong man is up in Old Orchard, Me., with a chorus girl. Process servers are en route north to give him papers in a divorce action.

Radio Board Denies Station Cut Considered

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28. (Exclusive)—The Federal Radio Commission "is not considering a reduction in the number of broadcasting stations in California and no such reduction is contemplated," the commission declared in a formal statement today repudiating a popularity poll among radio stations being conducted by a California trade magazine.

According to the Federal commission, this magazine has represented that a number of California broadcasting stations must go off the air and the results of its poll "may be the deciding factor" in their fate. The commission said in its statement that it will "wholly ignore any such 'survey' or 'poll' as that being conducted by any organ where it appears such a contest has as its real purpose the increase of such paper's circulation."

RED-HAIRED BEAUTY SLAIN BY PARAMOUR

Mrs. Frances M. Kirkwood

GIRL INSULT HELD CAUSE OF TRAGEDY

Van Clief's Parents Tell Why New Yorker Killed Mrs. Kirkwood and Self

NEW YORK, Aug. 28. (Exclusive) Although he stood in mortal terror of the titian-haired beauty who had knifed one husband to death only two years ago in "self-defense," and had threatened him with a like fate, Eugene Van Clief, paramour of Mrs. Frances McAvoy Kirkwood, shot her to death because he blamed her for an insult to his 16-year-old daughter.

This sidelight on the mental collapse of Van Clief, who killed the knife slayer of Dr. Glen Kirkwood and then himself in their apartment in Brooklyn yesterday, was cast by his elderly parents today at the same time that the text of Van Clief's fear-ridden affidavit became public.

Van Clief, who was unable to resist the fascination of Mrs. Kirkwood's beauty, squandered $50,000, his parents said, in attempting to retain merely the empty shadow of her love. She had threatened him with Dr. Kirkwood's fate. She had attempted to carry the threat into execution.

But, according to his well-to-do parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Van Clief of St. Albans, Queens, when Mrs. Kirkwood was the unwitting cause of bringing pain in the form of social ostracism to Ida Van Clief, his daughter, the bond which enslaved him to the lovely slayer snapped.

The girl had been invited to a party of her school-mates, but the invitation was canceled, and Ida was made aware that her father's doubtful status with Mrs. Kirkwood was the reason.

Masonic Group Elects Officers

TACOMA, Aug. 28. (AP)—The Forty-first triennial convocation of the General Grand Chapter, Royal Arch Masons, now in session here, elected officers for the succeeding three years today.

John William Neilson of Concordia, Kan., was chosen to succeed Charles Clark Davis of Centralia, Ill., as General Grand High Priest, and William Tecumseh Sherman O'Hara of Toledo, O., was advanced from General Grand King to Deputy General Grand High Priest.

Mattison Boyd Jones of Glendale, Cal., stepped up from General Grand Scribe to General Grand King, and John Huske Anderson of Raleigh, N. C., was elected to the office of General Grand Scribe.

State Highway Work Expands

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 28. (Exclusive)—More than $2,600,000 in highway work was placed under contract in August and $1,350,000 in contracts are pending and advertised, B. B. Meek, State Director of Public Works, reported at today's meeting of the Governor's Council.

Meek declared it is the desire of the department to keep highway construction at the peak in order to help employment during the fall and winter months.

THREE GIRLS CONFESS STARTING FORTY FIRES

PONTIAC (Mich.) Aug. 28. (Exclusive)—Three girls, ranging in age from 11 to 15 years, today cleared up a fire mystery that has created interest all over Central Michigan, and kept officials of the State fire marshal's office on the verge of distraction for weeks. The girls, Dorothy, 15 years of age; Evelyn, 13, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Crother, and Helen, 11, confessed that with another sister, Frances, 9, they were responsible for more than forty fires which have followed the Crother family in four communities.

DRY AIDE MAKES PLEA FOR HELP

Youngquist Asks Assistance of States and Cities

Says Prohibition Forces Not Strong Enough Alone

Assistant Attorney-General Talks Over Network

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28. (AP)—Effective enforcement of prohibition by Federal agencies alone was declared an "utter impossibility" tonight by Asst. Atty.-Gen. Youngquist in the course of an appeal for increased co-operation from State and municipal authorities.

Estimating the number of Federal agents at one to every 70,000 of population, he termed the force "pitifully inadequate" and said it is the duty of the States to lend their assistance.

The assistant Attorney-General's remarks were made in an address broadcast over the Columbia system under the auspices of the Washington Star. His appeal for State co-operation was a reiteration of similar assertions heard recently from Atty.-Gen. Mitchell, Prohibition Director Woodcock and Chairman Wickersham of the Law Enforcement Commission.

VALUABLE HELP

The local authorities in many sections are already giving valuable help, he said, expressing the opinion that enforcement is "becoming more effective" and predicting improvements for the future.

Every State but five has an enforcement law of its own, he said, and so have many city governments, with these, in some cases more stringent than the Federal statutes. They have the machinery, too, for making them effective, he added, placing the number of local peace officers at 175,000 as compared with the 1750 agents in the Prohibition Bureau. Youngquist said it is not a matter of enforcing the prohibition laws alone.

JOB IMPORTANT

"The enforcement of those laws constitutes merely one part of the tremendously important task of enforcing the criminal laws generally," he continued. "The associations and ramifications of the criminal element generally are such that prosecutions and convictions under the prohibition laws tend to prevent the commission and effect the punishment of other crimes. Through application of the civil-service laws and other circumstances, he said, the grade of the men employed as prohibition agents has shown constant improvement together with "the effectiveness of their work and their way of doing it."

"No mercy will be shown the corrupt or unfit agent," Youngquist said. "The job is more important than the man who happens to fill it."

IMPETUS GIVEN INDIA STRUGGLE

Arrest of Congress Leaders Spurs Resistance

New Committee Named to Carry on Revolt

Six Months Imprisonment Meted Offenders

NEW DELHI (India) Aug. 28. (AP) The conflict of authority on one hand and passive resistance on the other was resumed in India today. Word from Madras said that province, following the lead of Delhi, yesterday declared the working committee of the all-India National Congress an unlawful association while the six members of the working committee arrested here when the ban went into effect yesterday were sentenced today to terms of six months' simple imprisonment each.

Several other provinces have banned the working committee, adopting this action so they can move against agitators if new disorders occur.

The Delhi Nationalists countered by naming a new working committee, while leaders of the Bombay committee called for volunteers to assemble on the Esplanade Maidan Sunday despite a prohibiting ordinance. Such meetings were banned early in the summer by the chief magistrate, who said he feared their effect on native troops quartered near by. Police broke up several large demonstrations to enforce the order.

The six Congress leaders sentenced here today were V. J. Patel, who resigned as president of the Legislative Assembly to participate in the civil disobedience movement; Pandit Malaviya, Mangal Singh, Deepnarany Singh, B. C. Roy, Matradas Tricumji, Dr. Ansari, president of the congress, and Raja Rao, permanent undersecretary of the congress. As a result of the arrests the city has gone on a passive strike.

Those appointed to succeed the imprisoned congress members comprise six Moslems, six Hindus and three members of the old committee not arrested. They include Khalil Ul Zaman, a Lucknow advocate, acting president; Harkarannath Musra, a Lucknow lawyer, and Mr. Brevil, editor of the Bombay Chronicle.

Two Moslem girls who were arrested at Calcutta on charges of picketing cloth shops were released today because of their youth and given in custody of their grandfather, Abdul Karim, a retired school inspector, who is a member of the congress commission.

At Calcutta sixteen arrests were made today as the result of an attack last night on J. N. Taluq Dar, an Indian civil servant. He was assaulted and wounded at Barisal while dining with his wife. The assailant was a youth wearing the dress of a congress volunteer.

1930 IS REWARDING CAREFUL SAVERS

THIS CONCERNS YOU AS WELL..

Our loaning policies are not only important to borrowers but to you as an actual or prospective user of our facilities for savings. Therefore it is important to you to know that our loaning rate is 7% . . . outstandingly lower than the going rate in our field.

We established this lower rate as the surest way of bringing us the "pick of the loan crop" . . . the choicest first lien collateral offered to any California building and loan association.

Naturally such security is an important factor of protection to our savers . . . one which ranks with these factors, distinguishing our financial structure . . . the largest non-withdrawable invested capital of any building and loan association in the West . . . the largest voluntary cash and bond reserve . . . a statement free from real estate, furniture and fixtures and bank indebtedness.

On the basis of such distinguishing conservatism and liquidity, we solicit your consideration of our 6% and 5¼% facilities for savings.

PEACE REQUIRED TO SAVE CHINA

Capt. Dollar and Denroche Point Economic Cures

Little Hope for Immediate End of War Seen

Trade Inquiry Body Told Gold Standard Needed

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 28. (Exclusive)—Two witnesses, Capt. Robert Dollar, dean of Pacific Coast shipping, and P. C. Denroche, exporter and importer for forty years, told the Senate subcommittee on United States-China trade conditions today that cessation of fighting and stabilization of the Chinese government are the first requisites toward curing China's economic ills. Both witnesses testified from four decades of experience in shipping to and from China and other points in the Near West.

The sessions are for the double purpose of learning what is wrong with trade between the United States and China and what can be done to rectify it.

GOLD STANDARD URGED

Capt. Dollar advocated establishment of the gold standard for China, decrying the difficulties of doing business on a silver standard with prices fluctuating daily.

Asked by Senator Pittman, Nevada, chairman, why gold is not governed by the law of supply and demand, as Capt. Dollar testified silver is, the witness replied:

"Gold is scarce. If there should be an oversupply of gold, its price would drop, but the prices of commodities and silver would go up."

QUICK PEACE UNLIKELY

Asked if he has any reason to believe, from his close contacts in China, if the present civil war is near its end, Capt. Dollar was pessimistic, saying:

"I cannot see any immediate hope for a stop to the fighting. Outside influence might help but great care must be taken in offering help to China. If the war can be stopped and a stable currency established, China will soon be one of the greatest countries in the world.

"If the millions of men now fighting can be put to work building roads, canals and other improvements, it will cost less to hire them as workmen than as soldiers.

TROOPS FIGHT FOR MONEY

"The soldiers are fighting only for the money that's in it; that is what makes the problem so impossible of solution.

"If the government had money enough it could buy off the rebels and keep them bought. That method has been tried before several times, the only trouble being that the armies did not stay bought. Another leader offered a higher price to desert to him. The so-called Christian general was bought off twice and refused to stay bought."

Denroche agreed the civil war is the cause of China's present bad condition. He said millions of men, women and children die annually from fighting, banditry, disease and starvation, all directly due to the incessant warfare.

Denroche offered what Senator Pittman called "the first constructive suggestion" toward the cure of China's ills. The plans in brief calls for "pooling" of all China's external debt and establishment of a new pool silver loan, which would remove all liens on China's revenues and scientific readjustment of all forms of taxation in China."

DAWES SEES SPAIN'S ART TREASURES

Ambassador Quits Caves of Ancient Man to Visit Prado Galleries

MADRID, Aug. 28. (AP)—Ambassador Dawes today followed the trail of prehistoric man from his primitive lairs into Spain's intensely modern capital.

The general, whose knowledge of archeology is no less than his grasp of diplomacy and finance, spent the day visiting the museums of prehistory and natural history, where are on view some of the finest archeological exhibits. Then, for variety's sake, the visitor went to the Prado Galleries and saw the world's most complete collection of Velasquez paintings, and other old masters.

Today messages were received from Bilbao announcing local archeologists have just discovered another cave, about the fiftieth, containing carved bones and horn of the Stone Age similar to those the American diplomat saw yesterday near Santander.

Women Steal Taxi from Man

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 28. (AP)—Two women robbed a taxicab driver of his cab here last night and were arrested after a fight with a man in another automobile they attempted to commandeer.

The women, Christine Albertson, 26 years of age, and Jean Boksch, 28, forced Edward Bell, a cab driver, to give up his machine at the point of a knife. After cruising about in it for an hour they abandoned it.

Then they attempted to enter a car owned by Joseph Kenney. He disarmed the Boksch woman, who carried a knife, and summoned a policeman.

Woman Killed in Auto Crash

GLENN'S FERRY (Idaho) Aug. 28. (AP)—Mrs. C. Sinnott of Sierra Madre, Cal., is dead and William Hanlon of Eugene, Or., is in a serious condition following a head-on collision between their automobiles four miles west of here today.

Katherine Sinnott, 16-year-old daughter of Mrs. Sinnott and Jack Sutton, Hanlon's companion, were slightly injured.

SERASALMO RHOMBEUS STUMPS POLICE FORCE

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 28. (AP)—Some culprit with a mania for stealing tropical fishes has disrupted the McKeesport police department.

Last night in walked Ralph C. Walker to report six of his finest specimens stolen. Then the trouble started. How to distinguish a stolen fish from another was what upset everybody, frayed nerves and strained friendships. All last night they pored over fish lore.

"This here book tells the difference between the Loricarichthys Microdon and the Serasalmo Rhombeus," ventured one patrolman, looking up from a stack of books.

"Aw, how do we know its them kind of fish?" replied another.

"Fishes — don't say fish," snapped the captain.

AIRPLANE CRASH AT FAIR INJURES FOUR

Doctor to Face Kidnaping Trial

SAUSALITO, Aug. 28. (AP)—Dr. Clifford L. Bartlett, Pasadena, was held for trial in Superior Court on a Justice Court order here today, charged with kidnaping his own children, Mary Alice and Rachael.

Dr. Bartlett's former wife, Mrs. Harriet M. Busschart, charged he detained them while they were visiting him in Los Angeles, and in other ways violated their divorce agreement, which specified the children never were to spend a night under his roof.

HOOVER FILLING FEW VACANCIES

President Dislikes Making Recess Appointments

He Prefers to Act With Congress in Session

Consideration Shown Senate and Men Selected

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28. (AP)—President Hoover is adhering as closely as exigencies permit to a quietly adopted policy of keeping recess appointments at a minimum.

The Chief Executive has taken the view unless situations arise requiring immediate filling of Federal posts to carry on the proper functions of the government, appointments should be deferred until Congress is in session.

From authoritative sources it was ascertained Mr. Hoover reached this conclusion out of consideration to both the Senate and his prospective appointees.

POSTS AFFECTED

In line with this policy he has deferred until December appointment of five members to the Independent Federal Power Board.

In addition he has postponed making appointments to fill vacancies in Federal courts.

Whenever necessary, however, the Chief Executive has not hesitated to name recess appointees, particularly to diplomatic posts and other positions where government business and relations would be enhanced by having them filled.

In the meantime Mr. Hoover is studying applicants for vacant positions and is understood to have chosen several.

TARIFF BOARD CHOICES

Within a few days he is expected to complete the personnel of the Tariff Commission, which under the Hawley-Smoot Tariff Act is to be reorganized by September 17. Henry P. Fletcher, Pennsylvania, Republican, and former Ambassador to Italy, has been named chairman, and Thomas W. Page of Virginia, a Democrat, and a former chairman, also has been designated. Four others are to be appointed.

Shortly, however, the President will be confronted with filling a place in his Cabinet — that held by Secretary of Labor Davis—Republican nominee for the Senate in Pennsylvania. Also, he has been looking for a successor to Ambassador Morrow to Mexico, Republican nominee for the Senate from New Jersey.

In addition the Chief Executive must consider appointing a chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, to succeed Roy A. Young, who resigned yesterday, and a chairman of the Merchant Fleet Corporation to take the place of John R. Gordon, who recently died.

Actress Sued by Bairnsfather's Wife for Balm

NEW YORK, Aug. 28. (AP)—Constance E. Collier, actress of note on the stages of England and the United States, was sued today for $100,000, by Mrs. Bruce Bairnsfather, who charged the actress had won away the love of her husband, the English cartoonist and the creator of "Ole Bill" and "The Better 'Ole."

Mrs. Bairnsfather asserted her husband was unfaithful while he was collaborating with Miss Collier last April and May on a play, and that while he was in Europe they tenanted an apartment together in the West Fifties in New York as "Mr. and Mrs. Bruce."

When she went to Europe in May, her complaint recited, her husband was to have followed a few weeks later. She charged Miss Collier with exercising influence to prevent his proceeding to Europe.

GERMAN PRINCESS VICTIM OF CRASH

RAVENSBURG (Germany) Aug. 28. (AP)—Princess Marie Therese of Waldburg-Zell, 61 years of age, was killed today in an automobile accident as she and other members of her family were returning from Friedrichshafen to the ancestral castle in Wurttemburg. Her son, Count Constantin, lost control of the car on a sharp curve and it dashed down an embankment. He was unhurt, but a daughter, Countess Gabriele, suffered several broken ribs.

"CHERIE" BACK AT SING SING

Prison Rejoices as Warden's Daughter Returns from Film Work in Hollywood

OSSINING (N. Y.) Aug. 28. (AP)—The sun smiled with special warmth on Sing Sing prison today, and inside the gray walls were gay greetings and laughter, for "Cherie" was home again.

Cherie is what the inmates call her. Her real name is Joan, and she is the 9-year-old daughter of Warden Lewis E. Lawes.

Today, after having been away for almost three months, she came home from Hollywood, where she has been playing the role of the warden's little girl in a picture.

And so all about Sing Sing, men in gray trousers and white shirts were smiling and asking each other, "Have you seen Cherie yet?"

COURT HELD ON LAWN

On the sunny lawn in front of the warden's house inside the prison walls, where she has lived since she was a baby, Cherie held court, around her gathered a little group of men in white ducks, trusties attached to the warden's household.

Present also were a very fat pony named Beauty, groomed until her coat glistened like satin; a poodle named Teddy, scrubbed so hard his skin showed pink through his white wool; and Bouncer, a St. Bernard just two years younger than Cherie, which had refused to come near the house while she was away.

"Daddy said I earned more money than he did," was Cherie's greeting as she came running out, brown curls bobbing, "isn't that funny?"

"How about a little touch?" grinned a sunburned young man in white ducks.

NICER AT HOME

"Sure," was Cherie's prompt reply.

They wanted to know all about Hollywood and the picture stars. Gradually Cherie will tell them, but today there were too many people to greet, haunts to revisit, presents to exchange.

"Did you like it a lot out there, Cherie?" someone asked, "better than here?"

Cherie's freckled face twisted into an earnest frown.

"It was nice out there," she said slowly, "but this is nicer."

There were presents for Cherie. Principal Keeper John J Sheehy gave her a model sailing ship, built out of a packing box by a man who was for thirty-five years a sailor before he came to Sing Sing.

MacNIDER IN OTTAWA AS ENVOY TO CANADA

OTTAWA, Aug. 28. (AP)—Hanford MacNider, who flew here from Washington, today prepared to present to Gov.-Gen. Viscount Willingdon his credentials as United States Minister to Canada. MacNider is the second United States Minister to the Dominion. He declined to discuss state affairs, but said he hopes for a long and pleasant sojourn in Canada.

BOMB WRECKS SHOP

CHICAGO, Aug. 28. (AP)—A black-powder bomb explosion last night wrecked the front of a sandwich shop near the Loop on North Wells street. The damage was placed at $1000.

DEATH PENALTY PAID BY THREE

Convicts Executed for Riot at Auburn Prison

Bravado Marks Trio as They Go to Their Deaths

Electrocutions Carried Out Few Minutes Apart

OSSINING (N. Y.) Aug. 28. (AP)—In a triple execution in Sing Sing prison tonight Claud Udwine, 29 years of age; William Force, 30, and Jesse Thomas, 20, were electrocuted for their part in the Auburn prison riot last December, in which ten lives were lost. They were convicted of responsibility for the death of Henry Sullivan, ringleader of the mutiny.

Thomas, the first to be executed, walked through the door of the death chamber at 11:02 p.m. Force and Udwine followed in quick succession.

All three spoke words of reckless bravado, interspersed with profanity, as they went to their deaths.

Nine prisoners and Principal Keeper George Durnford were killed in the riot.

PORTLAND PLANE UP FIFTY-EIGHT HOURS

PORTLAND (Or.) Aug. 28. (AP)—The monoplane On to Oregon, piloted by Tex and Dick Rankin, tonight continued to circle above Portland in the fourth attempt to set a new refueling endurance record. At 6:45 p.m. the plane had been aloft fifty-eight hours and apparently all was well aboard.

ILY TRANSPORTATION

urday . . . and next week

'S a little card that bring you a whole carefree daily transportation at a cost of less than of other means of the Pacific Electric Pass. It will be on day and next week during September.

Electric Monthly Pass mutation fares are fraction over ONE mile. If you are not regular rider on the Cars, this means a saving from $10 to $35 a daily travel, depending the distance you live. Figure the saving case, then note these advantages of Red portation:

strain—traffic worries No crowded high- parking problems, or

2. More leisure—time to rest and relax, read and plan your day's activities.
3. Greater safety—a carefully trained man pilots your train swiftly and safely over smooth steel rails and private rights-of-way.
4. Convenience—schedules are carefully planned to meet your needs. Trains start and arrive at regular times, an aid to punctuality.

With a Monthly Pass, there are no tickets or cash to handle...just show your pass to the conductor on the train. The pass is also good for local fares anywhere in Los Angeles inner zone. It may be used for as many trips as you like every day, by you or members of your family, an additional saving.

Get a Monthly Pass Saturday or the first of next week from agent or conductor. Prove for yourself the Big Red Cars' economy and other advantages listed above. For further information phone TUcker 7272.

Dawes Contempla los Tesoros Artísticos de España

MADRID, Agosto 28.—El embajador Dawes ha seguido hoy las huellas del hombre prehistórico, desde sus cavernas primitivas hasta la capital de España, ciudad intensamente moderna.

El general, cuyos conocimientos arqueológicos no van a la zaga de sus alcances como diplomático y hacendista, pasó el día visitando los museos de prehistoria e historia natural, donde se exhiben algunas de las más hermosas colecciones arqueológicas. Luego, por variar, fue el ilustre huésped a las galerías del Museo del Prado, y vio la más completa colección de pinturas de Velázquez y de otros maestros clásicos del pincel.

Hoy se recibieron mensajes de Bilbao, que anuncian haber sido recién descubierta por los arqueólogos de esa ciudad otra cueva—ya es la quincuagésima—con huesos y cuernos esculpidos en la Edad de Piedra, semejantes a los que vio ayer el diplomático yanqui cerca de Santander.

Actriz Demandada por la Esposa de Bairnsfather

NUEVA YORK, Agosto 28.—Ha sido hoy interpuesto juicio por $100,000 de daños contra Constance E. Collier, actriz famosa en los teatros de Inglaterra y los Estados Unidos, por la señora Bruce Bairnsfather, quien acusa a la actriz de haberle enajenado el amor de su marido, el caricaturista inglés, creador de "Ole Bill" y del "Better 'Ole."

Asegura la señora Bairnsfather que su esposo faltó a la fidelidad conyugal en Abril y Mayo último, en que colaboraba en una pieza teatral con la señorita Collier, y que, estando la querellante en Europa, su marido y la actriz alquilaron juntos un apartamiento en Nueva York, por la calle Cincuenta y Tantos Oeste, bajo el nombre de "Señor y Señora Bruce".

Agrega en su demanda que, al irse ella a Europa en Mayo, su marido le dijo que allá la alcanzaría unas cuantas semanas después, y acusa la quejosa a la señorita Collier de haber influído sobre su esposo para que no se fuera a Europa.

La Educación es el Remedio Contra la Criminalidad Infantil

PRESCOTT (Arizona), Agosto 28. Gastan los Estados Unidos cinco veces más en asilar y cuidar criminales jóvenes que en educarlos para convertirlos en ciudadanos útiles, según manifestó hoy aquí ante el Congreso de Educación Vocacional de Arizona, I. S. Noal, Inspector de Educación Comercial e Industrial del Estado de Utah.

"La mayor parte de este desembolso negativo", dijo el caballero de Utah, "podría evitarse mediante unas horas de educación vocacional a los jóvenes que se ven obligados a trabajar". Dijo que cuando promulgó Utah una ley que disponía que todos los niños que tuvieran edad para escuela preparatoria asistieran a ésta todas las horas reglamentarias, o parte de ellas, caso que tuvieran que trabajar, se vio que faltaban de la escuela 65 por ciento de los niños de edad escolar. "De estos niños que no van a la escuela", agregó, "y que no adquieren la debida educación económica, sale una gran proporción de criminales."

NOTAS LOCALES

Bautizo de la Niña de los Barrymores

En el bautizo de Dolores Ethel Mae Barrymore, de 4 meses de edad, hija del señor y la señora John Barrymore, estuvieron presentes, el padrino, Lionel Barrymore, la madre, Dolores Costello Barrymore, Dolores Ethel Mae, centro de la atención de todos, John Barrymore, el padre, y unos cuantos amigos íntimos convidados a la ceremonia.

Ayer mañana se verificó el bautizo de ese interesante vástago femenino de dos de las más conspicuas familias de artistas teatrales de Estados Unidos. La ceremonia se efectuó en la iglesia de San Andrés, en Pasadena.

Lionel Barrymore, tío de la niña, actuó de padrino, como queda dicho, y Ethel Colt, hija de Ethel Barrymore, fue la madrina, no obstante no hallarse presente por haberle sido imposible venir desde Nueva York para la ceremonia. Delegó su poder y representación en otra persona.

La chiquita de los Barrymores lleva una combinación de nombres de familia: Dolores, por su madre; Ethel, por su tía Ethel Barrymore, y Mae, en recuerdo de la madre de la señora Barrymore, la señora Maurice Costello.

Charlas Infantiles para Chiquillos de Escuela

IX.

Pero el padre de John James descubrió también que éste sabía muy poco de la historia de Roma, los límites de Alemania o la tabla de multiplicar. Y el padre de John James quería que su hijo fuera soldado, porque comenzaba en Francia esa época terrible llamada el Reinado del Terror; y, claro está, no podía nunca ser buen soldado en este mundo quien no se acordara de la capital de Persia o del producto de nueve por ocho (And John James's father wanted his son to be a soldier, for that dreadful time called the Reign of Terror was beginning in France, and, of course, one who couldn't remember the capital of Persia, or nine times eight, could never in this world be a good soldier). Y, por tal motivo, fue enviado John James a la escuela a aprender las muchas cosas que tiene que saber un buen soldado (So John James was sent away to school to learn the many things a good soldier ought to know).

Pero John James no aprendió en la escuela ni a portar el fusil, ni a marchar, ni a hacer ejercicio militar. En vez de ello, aprendió a tocar el violín y la flauta (But John James did not learn to carry a gun or to march or to drill at the school. Instead he learned to play on the violin and the flute).

EDUCATION HELD CHILD CRIME CURE

Penal Expense Higher than Training Cost, Vocational Convention Told

PRESCOTT (Ariz.) Aug. 28. (AP)—Five times as much is spent in the United States in taking care of young criminals as is used to educate them to become useful citizens, I. S. Noal, Utah State supervisor of trade and industrial education, told delegates to the Arizona Vocational Education Conference here today.

Most of "this negative expenditure," the Utah man said, "could be averted through part-time vocational training for youths who are forced to work." He said that when Utah passed a law requiring all children of high-school age to attend school full, or part time, if they were working, it was found 65 per cent of the school-age children were not in school.

"It is from this body of children who do not attend school and who do not get the proper economic training, that a great percentage of the criminals originate," he said.

DE SHAZO WILL HAVE GRAVE IN ARLINGTON

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28. (AP)—Lieut. Jack P. De Shazo, navy flyer, killed yesterday at the Chicago air races, will be buried in the Arlington National Cemetery. Capt. Sydney K. Evans of the chaplain corps of the Navy will officiate at funeral services Saturday at the receiving vault at Arlington.

LIQUOR SAPPING INDIAN MORALS

Missionary Tells Effect of Booze on Redmen

Drunkenness and Jazz Twin Evils Among Tribes

Plea Also Made for Better Hospital Service

OBERLIN (O.) Aug. 27. (AP)—Delegates to the convention of the Junior Brotherhood of St. Andrew today heard a description by Rev. C. C. Rouillard, Sioux Indian, of the influence of bootleg liquor among the American Indians.

Mr. Rouillard, a World War veteran, former circus trainer and now an Episcopalian missionary in South Dakota, told the convention the Indians still like "fire-water" and bootleg liquor is causing an increasing amount of drunkenness among them.

JAZZ HAS EVIL EFFECT

"Jazz music also is making inroads and combined with drinking is the cause of much of the immorality among the Indians," the missionary said. "Jazz is gradually affecting the Indian music and dancing customs and slowly the native dances are passing. The time will come when these dances will be extinct."

The missionary believes the Indians should acquire the white man's customs and practices and be gradually assimilated into the white race.

HOSPITAL CARE NEEDED

Unless better hospitalization is provided for the various tribes, however, Rev. Rouillard fears neither assimilation nor continuation of the Indian race will be accomplished. Tuberculosis and trachoma are making heavy inroads among his people and little modern hospitalization is provided to combat them, he said.

Thomas Compton Walsh, Jr., of Boston was elected president of the brotherhood, which is an Episcopalian order.

UNDER the non-skid tread of these famous Firestone Tires is a double breaker of two plies of cord fabric anchored in cushion rubber. This special construction absorbs road shocks—protects against punctures and blowouts—provides the foundation for the thick, tough tread with deeper grooves—giving longer non-skid wear.

OTHER makes of tires have only a single breaker of old-fashioned square woven fabric which Firestone discarded when they developed the balloon tire. Some makes do not have any breaker at all. The Firestone Tire is set apart as an "All Cord Tire".

NEWS OF SOUTHERN COUNTIES

NEW CONTEST AT COUNTY FAIR

First Entrants Plant Orange Tree

For Bridal Wreaths of the Future

Miss Eileen R. Snyder, first entrant in the sweetheart contest at this year's Southern California Fair at Riverside, planting first orange tree in Sweetheart Grove, which is to provide orange blossoms for the anticipated weddings of all sweetheart contestants.

RIVERSIDE, Aug. 28.—Inaugurating a new custom that is expected to become a traditional forerunner of the sweetheart contest, one of the features of the annual Southern California Fair to be held at Riverside from September 23 to 28, the first entrant in the contest each year will plant a young orange tree which will later be officially dedicated by the winner, it was announced yesterday by fair officials

The romantic object of the new idea is partially to commemorate the fact that Riverside is the home of the first navel orange tree, but principally to endow an ever-increasing grove of trees to provide orange blossoms for the anticipated weddings of all contestants in the "sweetheart event," according to Mrs. Cecelia G. Cravens, secretary. Due to the flood of sweetheart entries being received daily, officials do not expect the first tree will be able to provide ample blossoms for the probable crop of brides. However, arrangements have been made to insure an adequate supply from other trees until "Sweetheart Grove" as it will be called, is sufficiently large to meet all demands, it is said.

Although many other novel contests and entertainment features will attract a wide following at the eighteenth annual Southern California Fair, principal interest centers in the agricultural and live stock divisions. Agricultural exhibits of every kind, selected from some of the finest and richest farm and orchard lands in the West, will occupy more space than at any previous fair, it is said. Among the live stock entries are three herds of cattle and one drove of hogs which have already gained nation-wide recognition at numerous fairs, according to officials.

Aviation, always of great interest to modern stockmen and agriculturists alike, will be well represented by one of the biggest flying shows ever staged at an affair of this kind. Pursuit, combat and other types of war planes will be put through their paces by army flyers from March Field in addition to a number of special flying exhibitions by civilian flyers and pilots for commercial passenger and air transportation companies, it is said.

One of the major features of the week will be the junior fair, to be staged under the guidance of M. A. Kipf, superintendent of this division. The three main divisions of the junior fair will be exhibits of agricultural produce, pigeons, poultry and rabbits; live stock exhibits; Camp Richard J. Werner and judging contests.

: a special evening attraction, crowds will be entertained by the "Winter Garden Revue" brought direct from New York for the fair. The last days of the fair will see an entire change of program presented by this distinguished company of musical and dancing stars.

GARAGE FULL OF JUNK DESTROYED BY FIRE

SIERRA MADRE, Aug. 28.—A rare collection of junk along with an old Ford truck stored in a garage at 171 Adams street, was partially destroyed by fire today, the origin of which is a mystery.

The junk belonged to I. B. Goldberg of 249 West Highland avenue, who told firemen that he had been working on his car during the morning, and had removed the gasoline tank to have it repaired. Shortly after leaving the garage he noticed it in flames, the firemen stated.

Fire Chief Richards with his crew saved part of the garage, and the entire stock of junk destroyed was valued by Goldberg at $300.

BOAT OWNER IN SUIT FOR INJUNCTION

Barge Operator Asks Court to Stop Interference by Police

SANTA BARBARA, Aug. 28.—Failing to get a promise of immediate action in the Federal Courts in Los Angeles, attorneys for Hugh J. Campbell, owner of the shore boats operating between Stearns Wharf and the William H. Harriman, gambling barge, filed suit against George Sloan as Chief of Police for a permanent injunction to restrain the police from interfering with his boats.

No temporary restraining order was asked as it is understood that Judge S. E. Crow of Superior Court in consultation declined to grant the order without an adequate hearing on both sides.

Campbell claims the State law under which the police are operating in keeping people from leaving Stearns Wharf for the barge is "unreasonable and unduly burdens water traffic," and therefore is unconstitutional. He alleges he operates his shore boats to carry passengers to any place they desire within a few miles of the harbor and on the high sea.

Besides the Police Chief, members of the Police and Fire Commission are made defendants. No damages are asked for the police activities during the past few days to keep people away from the barge. Campbell alleges, however, that he is losing some $200 a day by being prevented from operating his shore boats.

Doctors Save Injured Eye

ONTARIO, Aug. 28.—Physicians today expressed confidence in saving the eyesight of Earl Vickerey, Jr., 13-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl E. Vickery, 729 East E street, after he had shot himself in one eye with a rubber band that was used as the explosive power for a home-made gun.

The heavy rubber band flew from the home-made gun while the youth was sighting it and inflicted a severe injury to the eyeball. For several anxious hours it was feared the sight of the eye might be destroyed, but it was announced today that no such serious results will probably follow.

AGED RESIDENT IS DEAD AT ARCADIA

ARCADIA, Aug. 28.—Following a protracted illness, Mrs. Nancy Mirium Day, 85 years of age, died last night at her home, 429 Norman avenue.

She was born on November 16, 1847, in Louisville, Ky., and had lived in Arcadia for the last eight years.

Funeral services will be conducted from the Arcadia chapel of Renaker's undertaking establishment next Tuesday at 2 p.m.

The Christian Science Church will be in charge of the services and interment will take place at Forest Lawn Cemetery.

The deceased leaves her husband, Samuel T. Day.

FIRE RISKS SUBJECT OF INSPECTION

Board of Underwriters Looks into Conditions at Ventura

VENTURA, Aug. 28.—A preliminary survey of fire conditions in Ventura, with a reduction in rates as its possible ultimate outcome, was opened today by the Board of Fire Underwriters of the Pacific.

Two board engineers, John H. Colton and Carl R. Small, arrived this morning from Los Angeles to begin a check of the fire defense and water supply systems. They both went into conference with Fire Chief H. A. Johnson, after which Small was to check over the city's fire-fighting equipment and Colton was to inspect the water sources, storage and distribution facilities with Supt. Myles Robinson.

The survey was ordered by the board because of many inquiries recently from various member organizations, Colton explained. He said that since no late data was on file on Ventura, the board decided to make a new inspection to find out how the recommendations made by it in April, 1926, had been carried out and what changes, if any, had taken place in fire conditions.

Colton said the survey would last about three days and would be a preliminary to a detailed examination lasting two weeks to be conducted at a later date, possibly next year.

No cut in rates is likely to result from the preliminary check-up, said Colton.

Citrus Cities to Fingerprint All Solicitors

UPLAND, Aug. 28.—Solicitors entering Upland or other citrus belt cities and communities in future, may be called upon to present a card showing they have been duly fingerprinted and tabulated at police headquarters, it was intimated here today.

The question of placing a "control" on solicitors will be taken up at a meeting of representatives of city councils and chambers of commerce to be held here in October, according to F. H. Manker, Upland business man.

The delegates will discuss the possibility of framing a new law that will require all solicitors to subject themselves to fingerprinting at the various police stations of the citrus belt.

They will then be issued a card notifying the public they have been investigated and their records are Okeh.

Such a measure can be made a law, if the communities pass on such a move unanimously, according to Attorney E. E. Gray.

SALVATION ARMY HOLDS ANNUAL CAMP

REDONDO BEACH, Aug. 28.—The second annual encampment of the staff of the Los Angeles and South Coast division of the Salvation Army opened with a public rally at the fresh-air camp of the army here last night. The encampment is participated in by over 100 officers of the twenty-five posts of the district, and their families. Brig. James C. Bell, officer commanding the division, and Mrs. Bell, commander of the fresh-air camp, are in charge.

Capt. Frank Mann, in charge of the citadel corps of Los Angeles, gave the opening address.

The encampment will continue through tomorrow, with morning and afternoon sessions in which papers dealing with different phases of the Salvation Army work will be a part of the discussions. The officers will also study the character-building work of the organization one of its chief interests, according to Brigadier Bell.

WORK ON SCHOOL TO START

NORTH HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 28. Work is to start here on the new Rio Vista school at 4245 Satsuma avenue. The building permit for the structure, to cost $84,000, was issued here today. It is understood the school will be ready for occupancy some time during the spring semester.

VENTURA FROLIC TO LURE MOOSE

Ten Thousand Members of Lodge Expected

National Officers will be at Conclave

Sessions will Extend Over Three Days

VENTURA, Aug. 28.—More than 10,000 members of the Moose lodges from Southern California will begin arriving in Ventura tomorrow for the gigantic annual conclave of the Southern California Mooseheart and Moosehaven Boosters' Association, which will officially get under way Saturday for a three-day stand.

Registration will begin at 10 a.m. Saturday at booths in Seaside Park. President A. M. Rogers of Wilmington and Secretary D. H. Hurley of Los Angeles have been in Ventura for several days completing all details of the convention.

Large delegations from all lodges in the State south of Fresno and San Luis Obispo will be here during the three days, according to reports from the various cities. Reservations at local hotels have been taken long ago for the eventful three days.

Features of the three-day conclave will include a large Labor Day parade Monday through the city. Saturday at 7 p.m. the visiting Moose and their friends officially will be welcomed to the city. Keys to the city will be presented to Moose officials by city heads.

Intense interest in the gigantic Moose initiation program which is scheduled for Saturday night at the I.O.O.F. Hall has been manifest by all Moose. A large class of candidates will be given the first degrees by a degree team composed of high Moose officials from all over the Southland.

Many other features, including dancing every evening at the pavilion, a band concert almost every noon, drill contests, various kinds of races and many other entertainment features have been planned.

Beach Boosters to Celebrate

REDONDO BEACH, Aug. 28.—Preparations for a celebration of record proportions for the coming week-end which marks the official close of the summer season are being made by the Boosters' Association and the Pacific Electric Railway Company. H. C. Prouide, resort manager for the Pacific Electric, with E. E. Williams, president of the Boosters' Association, is outlining the plans, which will include street entertainment, band concert and fireworks, both on Sunday and Labor Day.

Concessionaires report an unusually heavy attendance at the beach this summer.

VAN NUYS PAROCHIAL SCHOOL TO SHOW GAIN

VAN NUYS, Aug. 28.—St. Elizabeth parochial school here will open Tuesday for the new school year. Last year the enrollment was 180, with indications pointing to an increase to 250 in attendance this term. The school is conducted by five nuns of the Sisters of Providence, whose mother house is at St. Mary's-of-the-Woods, Indiana. The house is an order of nuns famous for its teaching qualities. Sister Mary Evangelista arrived this week from Indiana to teach the sixth grade. The rest of the faculty are the same as last year.

MASONS TO CONFER HONOR ON HOLLOWAY

VAN NUYS, Aug. 28.—B. R. Holloway, leading citizen and business man, will have the Legion of Honor, an honorary degree, conferred on him on the evening of September 6, next, at the Scottish Rite Cathedral in Los Angeles. The high honor comes as a recognition of the services he has performed for the De Molay organization in the State. Holloway is a pioneer of San Fernando Valley. Much of the membership growth of the Masonic lodges in the valley is accredited to him.

"LANCER" IS TRADE BOOSTER

Fame Comes to Road Cafe After Harry Carr Bravely Takes Chicken in Fingers and Eats It

ROSCOE, Aug. 28.—Fame still has the habit of coming by devious routes. This time it is likely to cause a going back to first principles, with the result that everybody now, sooner or later, will start to eating chicken with the fingers. Harry Carr, Los Angeles Times columnist, innocently may have started the new style.

Mrs. Carrie Henderson conducts a cafe business at 8571 San Fernando Road. Of a sudden, she has stepped into the Hall of Fame because now it is the stylish thing to pick up a piece of chicken in her place and nibble on it while holding it with the fingers.

Elven Henderson had to wash the dishes when he and Mrs. Henderson were in the restaurant business near Sunland, and when they sold out he said "never again." But Mrs. Henderson felt the urge to prepare food and serve it daintily, so she hit upon the idea of serving chicken without the use of knives and forks. In order to do away with dish washing altogether she uses paper plates, but gives her patrons cloth napkins.

One day a roly-poly stranger dressed in hiking clothes came into the restaurant. The tables were being cleared for waiting customers, and it seemed as if the stranger would have to wait longer than he wanted, to be served. Mrs. Henderson, with a kitchen spoon in her hand, came to the door and invited him in to eat from the kitchen table if he cared to do so. He assured her that he would be delighted and promptly followed into the rear of the restaurant. She made a chicken sandwich as carefully as if her unknown guest had been the Prince of Wales. He ate it, and as he departed he said, "That's the way everybody ought to eat chicken."

A few weeks later one of Mrs. Henderson's friends asked her if she knew that Harry Carr had been writing about her in his Lancer column of The Times. He mentioned no names, but told of a "little, bobbed-headed, short woman with a spoon in her hand" who invited him into the kitchen. He spoke of the charm of the place, and called the pick-a-bone sandwich a "creation."

As a result someone wrote a letter to the Lancer asking, where the place was located. When Mrs. Henderson learned who her unknown guest was she wrote Harry Carr a letter asking him to suggest a name for her new cafe. She has had no reply up to the present, but the Lancer may be taking his time to "think up" a suitable moniker for a cafe where men may eat chicken with their fingers and still be regarded gentlemen.

PASADENAN VICTIM OF GUNFIRE

Laundry Worker Survives in Spite of Bullets Fired by Jealous Husband

PASADENA, Aug. 28.—Despite three bullets in his body fired by the husband of a woman to whom he is asserted to have paid attention, Frank J. Hull, 40-year-old dry cleaning superintendent at the Royal Laundry, probably will live, Pasadena Hospital officials reported late today.

Nile R. Collins, 40, after being sought by police for several hours, surrendered himself at Central Police Station, Los Angeles, last night and was booked on a charge of assault with intent to commit murder. Collins, who resides at 1605 West Twenty-second street, Los Angeles, declared he had brooded over his wife's desertion, and that he blamed Hull for her defection.

Mrs. Betty Collins, 30, attractive Royal Laundry employee, was questioned by Detective Lieutenants Robert O'Rourke and Arthur Mansell tonight. Other laundry employees asserted that Mrs. Collins and Hull had been living at 440 South Marengo avenue, but the woman in the case branded their statements as false. She admitted that she and her husband separated nine months ago following a quarrel which involved her younger sister.

Shortly before noon, Collins entered the laundry and asked Mrs. Ines Pentland, telephone operator, where Hull could be found. She directed him to the dry cleaning room.

As Hull emerged from the cleaning room as the noon whistle blew, an unidentified man is reported to have signaled to Collins by waving a newspaper three times.

Rushing toward Hull, Collins shouted, "My name is Collins and you're going to die right now."

Hull turned and ran twenty feet where he was spun about by a bullet which struck his left shoulder. The victim, hotly pursued by Collins, raced back into the laundry building through the wagon entrance. J. W. Potter, a driver, attempted to grab Collins as he passed, but was brushed aside with the .32-caliber revolver. Two more shots were fired which buried themselves in the walls of the building, while more than twenty employees ran screaming for cover.

As Hull attempted to dodge behind the telephone booth, he slipped and fell and was unable to rise because of loss of blood. His assailant then fired two shots point blank, one of which crashed through the victim's hip, the other burying itself within a foot of Mrs. Pentland's head.

The husband then walked toward the west entrance of the building, but a few feet away, he turned and fired his last shot which missed the prostrate form.

Mrs. Collins, who had been hanging clothes on a rack, rushed to Hull's side and accompanied him in the ambulance which raced direct to the Pasadena Hospital.

City Officials Said to Fish in Forbidden Lake

CHATSWORTH, Aug. 28.—It is announced here today that an ordinance to prohibit fishing in the Chatsworth city water reservoir has been referred to the Water and Power Commission. The new law is intended to keep everybody out of the Chatsworth Lake.

Residents say that the lake is always full of fish and that city officials and friends fish in it, though the privilege is denied the general public. For five years San Fernando Valley fishermen have been striving to get the right to fish in Chatsworth Lake, but always have been turned down by the Los Angeles Health Department for sanitary reasons. When the lake was first established people were permitted to fish in it. Abuses followed and the lid was clamped.

Residents assert there would not now be a further controversy over the matter if "city officials didn't sneak out every once in a while and snake out a string of bass and perch."

PIONEER'S DEATH RECALLS OLD DAYS

MENTONE, Aug. 28.—The death of William P. McIntosh, at his home here during the night removes one of the early residents of Southern California and also of this section. For sixty-two years he has been active in the State.

Mr. McIntosh was born in Canada eighty-one years ago and came to San Francisco in 1868. Then he went to Nevada for a few years. In 1883 he decided to come to Southern California and with his family started the long drive to Los Angeles. geles. He followed about the same route from Bishop as the present aqueduct.

He entered the real estate business in Los Angeles and in 1875 he visited the Barton Flats section in the San Bernardino Mountains and at once realized the value of the timber there. Later he purchased a large section of land in the mountains but in 1897 came here to live.

Then he purchased a large amount of property around Mentone and for several years has been developing it and water rights. He leaves a wife and the following children by an early marriage, Walter M. McIntosh and Alan P. McIntosh.

NEW BRIDGE OPENS

VAN NUYS, Aug. 28.—The Kester-avenue bridge over the Los Angeles River, which cost $20,000, has been completed and is being used by traffic. The new bridge completes an important link in north and South San Fernando Valley transportation at the western edge of Van Nuys townsite. The long avenue was paved several years ago, but the lack of a bridge made it useless as a major cross-valley artery.

BEACH CHURCH HAS NEW ORGAN

Rev. C. H. Parlour

HERMOSA BEACH, Aug. 28.—Recent services in dedication of the new organ of St. Cross Episcopal Church, the bishop's chair and sedilia, combined with confirmation of a class of twenty-six persons, formed a milestone in the progress of the Church in the Garden here.

The services were the consummation of more than two years' work on the part of the vestry and Rev. C. H. Parlour, M.A., S.T.M., rector, who presented the class to the bishop suffragan of the diocese, Rt. Rev. Robert B. Gooden, D.D. A unique feature of the confirmation was the fact that the average age of the class was over 40 years.

St. Cross Church was organized twenty-six years ago and has shown a steady growth.

Veteran Jurist Has Birthday Anniversary

VENTURA, Aug. 28.—Judge W. H. Barnes, considered in his younger days one of the most able attorneys in Southern California, today celebrated his eighty-eighth birthday anniversary.

No special celebration was planned at the Barnes home, which is on the avenue, because the judge is confined to his bed, having recently been taken ill. Tuesday was the first election Judge Barnes has missed in sixty-seven years.

Beginning when he was 21 years of age, Barnes has voted a straight Republican ticket. The first President for whom he cast his ballot was Abraham Lincoln. Not anticipating being ill on election day, Judge Barnes naturally had not procured an absent-voter's ballot, and was not able to vote Tuesday.

Truck Crashes into House

REDLANDS, Aug. 28.—The cottage owned by J. Barck of Encinitas at 519 East State street here was wrecked today when a runaway truck and trailer loaded with ten tons of baled alfalfa hay climbed the curb and crashed into the house. Just a few days ago a family moved out of the house and it was empty.

The truck and trailer were coming down grade when Paul Schreiber, the driver, discovered his brakes did not hold. He knew the road and knew there was a turn at State street which he could scarcely make. He also knew that the house was empty, so he steered directly for the curb, jumped just as the truck struck it and watched the truck and hay pile into the house with a terrific crash.

Schreiber was hauling the hay from Imperial Valley for H. Bollinger of Chino.

END OF THE TRAIL FOR AGED PIONEER

EL MONTE, Aug. 28.—Mrs. Margaret Elizabeth Renfro, 87 years of age, resident of El Monte for forty-four years, died suddenly at her home on Valley Boulevard at 1 p.m. today.

Mr. and Mrs. Renfro, beloved pioneers of this section, had observed their sixty-eighth wedding anniversary quietly at their home last Friday. A number of friends and all the members of their family called during the day, but there were no festivities, as Mrs. Renfro was indisposed.

Mr. and Mrs. Renfro lived in California forty-eight years, all but four of which had been spent in the present home on Valley Boulevard. Mrs. Renfro had enjoyed good health up to the time of her last sudden illness. Mr. Renfro operates, as he has for more than forty years, a weighing station. She is survived by three children, Mrs. Charles Gidley and Mrs. Etta De Garmo of El Monte, and a son, Alva Renfro of Oakland. She is also survived by nine grandchildren, nine great-grandchildren and one great-great-grandchild, in Oakland.

LAW TO STOP NOISE

SOUTH GATE, Aug. 28.—Noise-making devices, including loud-speakers, are to be regulated by city ordinance, the City Attorney having been instructed to draw an ordinance of this nature. Complaints have been numerous recently, being made by persons residing in the neighborhoods of the miniature golf courses that these places have installed loud-speakers going at full blast all evening and until the early morning hours, with just one jazz tune after another. Slumber and night rest are being disturbed and for that reason the new city ordinance will soon be introduced in the City Council.

COUNTY BUYS ST. ANN'S INN

Popular Hotel to be Used for Offices

Purchase Forestalls Addition to Courthouse

Tavern Owners Sell Property for $145,000

SANTA ANA, Aug. 28.—St. Ann's Inn, for twelve years a center of civic gatherings for Santa Ana and Orange county, built by public sale of stock to supply the city's need for a tourist hotel of distinctive character, will pass into the possession of Orange county January 1, next, and be converted into offices to relieve the crowded condition of the Courthouse and the Hall of Records.

County Supervisor Charles Chapman, Santa Ana's representative on the County Board, announced today that the board had agreed to buy the property, which is situated on Broadway between Sixth and Eighth streets, for $145,000 cash.

Purchase of the hotel and its beautifully landscaped setting will obviate the necessity of building a connecting link between the Courthouse and the Hall of Records and will meet the growing needs of the county for office space for some years to come, Chapman said.

Negotiations for the sale of the property were completed by the directors of the inn, John [illegible], H. J. Forgy, George B. [illegible], Oliver Halsell and A. J. Cruickshank.

Despite the appeal of its surroundings, its central location and the charm of its old English construction, the inn has not attracted sufficient local patronage to meet its financial requirements and assessments have been found necessary against the 100 stockholders, it was said.

Woman Killed in Collision of Automobiles

SIERRA MADRE, Aug. 28.—A head-on collision between two automobiles caused the death today of Mrs. Mary L. Sinnott, of 274 West Laurel avenue, who with her 1[illegible]-year-old daughter Katherine was driving near Glenn Ferry, Idaho, when the accident occurred, according to information received here today by a close friend of the victim, Miss Helen Wones, local school teacher.

Mrs. Sinnott's daughter was at the wheel of the Sinnott car and William Hanlon of Eugene, Or., was driving the other machine. Mrs. Sinnott was killed instantly, while her daughter suffered only slight injuries as did Jack Hutton, companion of Hanlon.

The victim also leaves a son, James, high school boy, who left for Idaho today with Miss Wones to accompany the body of his mother home.

Mrs. Sinnott was well known here and had made her home in Sierra Madre for a good many years. With her daughter she had been vacationing with relatives near Boise, Idaho.

Tax Rate Set at South Gate

SOUTH GATE, Aug. 28.—The City Council has fixed the 1930-31 tax rate by placing the first addition at a total of $1.20 per $100 assessed valuation, and at $1 per $100 assessed valuation in Districts 2, 3, 4 and 5. In District No. 1, which has the $1.20 rate, the amount is divided into $1 for each $100, as in the other four districts, 2 cents on the City Hall bonds and 18 cents on the old water works bonds.

The Council has created three municipal improvement districts, the rate for the first district to be $1.[illegible]; in the second, $1.43, and in the third $2.26. Special assessment totals to be raised this year include Acquisition and Improvement District No. 3, which is the installation of sewers and cast-iron water mains and resurfacing streets in District No. 1, which amounts to $46,339.79. There are 875 [illegible] in this district.

Other totals are for acquisition and improvement (or known simply as A and I) No. 4, installation of sewers in Home Gardens which totals $45,058.72. A and I District No. 5, ornamental lights and sidewalks, $38,921.75. A and I District No. 9, the center forty-foot strip of paving on Firestone, is $8100.63. No. 11, sewers and water mains in Tweedy Park, $37,1[illegible]. The improvement of Wright Road is $4013.33 and No. 15, the paving of Hunt street and eight others west of it, reach a total of $17,861.02.

UPLAND MAN AT PEACE CONFERENCE

UPLAND, Aug. 28.—John D. Howe, prominent Upland lemon grower, will be one of California's delegates at the congress of Fidac at Washington, September 18 to 21, it was announced today. Fidac is a world-wide organization of war veterans designed to promote world peace.

Howe is a member of Upland post of the American Legion. Last year he represented California at the international convention in Paris.

Howe has been appointed by the National Commander of the American Legion to serve on the executive committee for the world congress next month.

A GOOD SCORE

ADELANTO, Aug. 27.—What is said to be a record for good citizenship was established here at Tuesday's primary election. This precinct, known as Adelanto, No. 1, has just 100 registered voters, ninety-seven of whom voted in the election.

Health Finer Than in Years; Thanks Sargon

"The Sargon treatment has surely set me right," recently stated James Anderson, 3060 L St., San Diego. "Almost as far back as I can remember I'd suffered with constipation, and during the past few years there was never a night that I didn't take some kind of purgative. Continual use of strong medicines completely upset my stomach, and my whole system got in a weakened condition. My kidneys seemed out of order, my back pained me amost continually and I had such cramps in my legs that I could hardly walk. I was dull and listless and although I was nearly always sleepy I'd lie awake for hours after going to bed.

"At last I found, in Sargon Soft Mass Pills, a laxative that has completely overcome my constipation and broken me of the purgative habit; and they acted without the least upsetting effect.

"The Sargon liquid put my stomach in such fine condition that I can now eat anything I like without a minute's trouble. My kidneys don't bother me, the pains and cramps in my back and legs have entirely disappeared, and I sleep fine every night. I've gained back weight that I lost during my trouble, and I'm actually stronger and better in every way than I've been in twenty years!"

Sargon may be obtained at all Owl Drug Stores and Liggett Drug Stores in Los Angeles and other cities—[Advertisement.

OCEAN BORGIA TO SAVE OYSTER

Girl Plans Poisonous Doom for Starfish

Pest Has Caused Huge Loss to Fishermen

Federal Scientist will Use Copper Sulphate

NEW YORK, Aug. 28. (NANA)—At the convention of the National Shellfisheries' Association and the Oyster Growers and Dealers' Association of North America, Inc., at Sayville, Long Island, they called her the starfish girl.

That doesn't mean, however, that dark-eyed Louise Palmer of the United States Bureau of Fisheries, Washington, has a fondness for starfish. Contrariwise, as Tweedledum and Tweedledee might put it.

POISONS STARFISH

Louise Palmer, 27 years of age, pretty and vivacious, has, so to speak, hitcher her wagon to a starfish, and by attending strictly to that stellar sea denizen she is making a name for herself in the scientific world and is creating for herself a particularly soft spot in the hearts of starfish-harried oystermen everywhere. When they speak of the starfish girl they do it with eyes humid with gratitude.

The starfish constitutes in many waters the chief menace to the oyster. Greedy tentacled, it descends upon oyster beds in northerly waters in immense schools, fastens upon the defenseless oyster hosts in a veritable blanket, and by an ingenious process of applying suction on the outside forces opens the shell. By an even more ingenious process of turning its internal organs inside out it inserts its stomach literally into the shell of the oyster and digests the luckless bivalve at will. Yearly pecuniary losses occasioned by the appetite of starfish for oysters have been tremendous.

CURE LONG SOUGHT

Oyster men have long striven for a cure for starfish trouble among oysters. It remained for Louise Palmer to discover that copper sulphate, the common blue vitriol used to clear algae out of fresh water ponds and kill insects o nplants, will slay the starfish and have no ill effect on the oysters.

"Of course, it was mere luck," said Miss Palmer. "I was assigned to this work and I tried everything that I could possibly think of that would have a toxic effect on the starfish. I tried a lot of things that wouldn't work, but eventually I found one that would. It still remains to be seen whether what is efficacious in a laboratory tank will have the same effect in the ocean."

SUCCESS ACHIEVED

Miss Palmer has been doing her work on tarfish in the laboratories of the Long Island Biological Association of Cold Spring Harbor. She plans this week to go down to the sea in motor launches and carry on her experiments on a wider scale.

Her idea is to drag by launch sacks of the copper sulphate crystals over the oyster beds at low tide, and there is considerable excitement in oyster-raising circles as to the outcome of the experiment. If it succeeds in the oyster beds as it has succeeded in the laboratory experiments, Miss Palmer will find herself a heroine and hailed as the savior of millions of oysters.

BORN IN KANSAS

Miss Palmer was born in Western Kansas and studied biology at the University of Pennsylvania. It was while she was still working there that her opportunity in the United States Bureau of Fisheries came to her, and she has spent months of intensive research on her task of destroying the oyster pest.

She says that, outside of her biological work, which is fun as well as work for her, she likes best to cook and keep house.

"Just a home girl at heart," smiled the young woman who is planning to act as a Lucretia Borgia to innumerable hordes of starfish.

Padre Forecast Discontinued for September

SANTA CLARA, Aug. 28. (Exclusive)—Temporary discontinuance of Father Ricard's monthly weather forecast, was announced here today by Rev. C. J. McCoy, S. J., president of Santa Clara University. This is the first time in more than thirty years the weather bulletin of the "padre of the rains" has failed to appear.

Illness of Father James Henry, S.J., chief assistant to Father Ricard, is the reason for the suspension of the forecast. Since Father Ricard's illness a year ago, Father Henry has prepared the weather bulletin.

ACTRESS IN NEW FIGHT WITH MATE

Expensive Car Attached in New York When She Flees French Stage

NEW YORK, Aug. 28. (Exclusive) It just seems as though Jean Aubert, actress wife of Nelson Morris, is always on the losing end of the game. Repeatedly she lost battles with her husband when she endeavored to appear on the French stage against the wishes of her spouse. Now she has returned to this country, and once more she loses, it is announced.

And again she blames her husband. Lebolt & Company, jewelers, wants to collect payments for two pearls her husband gave her. It was discovered the gems are at Paris, so the jewel firm had the Sheriff attach Miss Aubert's Renault automobile at the stage door of the Imperial Theater here.

Miss Aubert blames Mr. Morris because, she declares, he used to be a "partner or something" in Lebolt & Company.

ISLE OF WOE LOSES LAST INHABITANTS

Lonely St. Kilda Off Coast of Scotland Deserted for First Time in 1000 Years

GLASGOW (Scotland) Aug. 28. (AP)—The last phase of the evacuation of the lonely Island of St. Kilda took place tonight. The bleak place where people have lived only to suffer diseases and starve was bereft of inhabitants for the first time in 1000 years.

Early today the cruiser Hairbell, which the government designated to transport the islanders to their new homes on the mainland, dropped anchor close to the steamer Dunara Castle, which arrived the day before.

Then the islanders with their live stock and household goods were taken to the boats. Five hundred and ninety cattle and sheep were driven into the water and made to swim to the vessels, where they were hauled aboard. Hundreds of sheep which were too wild to catch were left behind.

The Earl of Cassalis, who owns the island, was responsible for the evacuation and said he never again will permit its settlement. Eighty years ago there were more than 100 St. Kildans, but now they have dwindled to thirty-five because of hardship and isolation. They lived in a primitive fashion, without trains and motor cars. There are no trees on the island. It was equally devoid of cats, rats and horses.

TWO GIRLS AND PILOT DIE IN PLANE CRASH

BUFFALO (N. Y.) Aug. 28. (AP)—One girl was instantly killed and another and a pilot were fatally injured in the crash of an airplane tonight at Cheektowaga, a short distance from this city. The victims were Rose Zajac, 20 years of age, of Buffalo, who died a few minutes after being removed from the wreckage; Pearl Jabczynska, 18, also of Buffalo, and Arthur J. Devlin of Kenmore, both of whom died later at a hospital. The cause had not been determined.

TOURISTS ROBBED IN SAN FRANCISCO

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 28. (Exclusive)—Theft of jewelry valued at $5200 from their parked automobile within an hour after their arrival in San Francisco on a tour of the Pacific Coast was reported to police tonight by Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Bacon of England. They reached this city from Pasadena at 7 p.m.

PICK UNCOVERS QUEER TRAGEDY

Man's Body Found Crushed Beneath Huge Rock

Apparently Had Toppled it Over Upon Himself

Two Faint Clews Give Hope of Identification

BAKERSFIELD, Aug. 28.—A wandering prospector yesterday brought to light a desert tragedy in the Red Mountain mining district of the Mojave Desert when he uncovered the crushed body of a man almost hidden beneath a huge boulder. Miners who viewed the discovery said fate must have balanced the huge rock so delicately that the touch of a hand or the tap of the prospector's pick brought it toppling over on him.

Who the ill-fated prospector was or where he came from may always be a mystery for the body is in such a state of decomposition that identification may be impossible, according to reports from the desert.

Two clews as to his identity are being traced, however. About two months ago a stranger rented a cabin from Judge Maginnis at Randsburg and a few days later dropped from sight. At about the same time an unknown man employed as a dishwasher in a restaurant at Inn City, a desert town, also disappeared.

Beside the body was a miner's pick and nothing else. He was found when another miner tried to find the source of a rich float on Red Mountain and was prospecting in the ravine back of the Big Four mine and opposite the Red Mountain postoffice.

The boulder almost covered the body of the man, which was clad in a green and blue sweater, dark trousers, brown coat and cap. Several miners expressed the opinion that the body had been there since last winter. A telegram from San Bernardino said the Coroner was on his way to the scene of the tragedy to conduct an inquest.

TULARE MURDER VICTIM STILL NOT IDENTIFIED

VISALIA, Aug. 28.—Identification of a dead man with badly battered head, found near Tulare Monday, remains as much a mystery as ever, Sheriff Hill said today. Local officers have enlisted aid from police officers in all towns of the valley. Clews to his identity are lacking.

Constable C. C. Castle of Tulare advanced the opinion that the man may have been a bandit, who attempted to hold up a petting party, several such hold-ups having been reported recently.

In support of his theory, Castle points out that there was only one set of tracks approaching from the railroad track, near which the body was found, and none leaving, and those tracks were those of the dead man. Tracks of an automobile which visited the site presumably at the time of the murder are being checked by officers.

Announcements in the press that the body had been variously identified as that of George Huff, and as Dayton M. Furnival, both of Turlock, were repudiated by relatives of the two men.

Theater Sues Operators' Union

OAKLAND, Aug. 28. (Exclusive) Twenty-five members of the motion-picture operators' union, Local No. 169, including five executive officers, were made defendants in a $100,000 damage suit filed in Alameda county court today by the Broadway Amusement Company, owners of the Broadway theater.

The suit charges that when the theater changed from silent to sound pictures, representatives of the union demanded that double the number of operators be employed. When the company refused, the union, it is asserted, "blacklisted" the theater, established pickets and drove away theatergoers.

Canada Ban Hits Hasty Weddings

VICTORIA (B. C.) Aug. 28. (AP)—If impulsive couples "marry in haste and repent at leasure" in future, they will have to go outside British Columbia to do it.

Under legislation which comes into effect the first of September, eight days must elapse between the time a license is issued and the time the ceremony is performed.

LOS ANGELES FIRMS RECEIVE GAS REFUNDS

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 28. (AP)—The State Railroad Commission, declaring gas rates charged eight Los Angeles companies by the Southern California Gas Company were excessive, today ordered a refund aggregating $10,000 made the firms. The following firms were named as recipients of the refund: The Batchelder-Wilson Company, McLaughlin Glass Company, White Memorial Hospital, Repcal Brass Company, E. A. Hoffman Candy Company, Junior Norris Galvanizing, Inc., Western Galvanizing Company, Union Tank and Pipe Company.

FLYER FACES TRIAL IN DEATH OF WOMAN

SOUTH BEND (Wash.) Aug. 28. (AP)—Clyde S. Murray, Vancouver, (Wash.) aviator, pilot of an airplane that struck and killed Mrs. Marian Williams, Astoria, Or., Monday at Long Beach, Wash., today faced a charge of manslaughter filed against him by the District Attorney. The charge is based on a law passed in 1901 making the Pacific Ocean beach a highway.

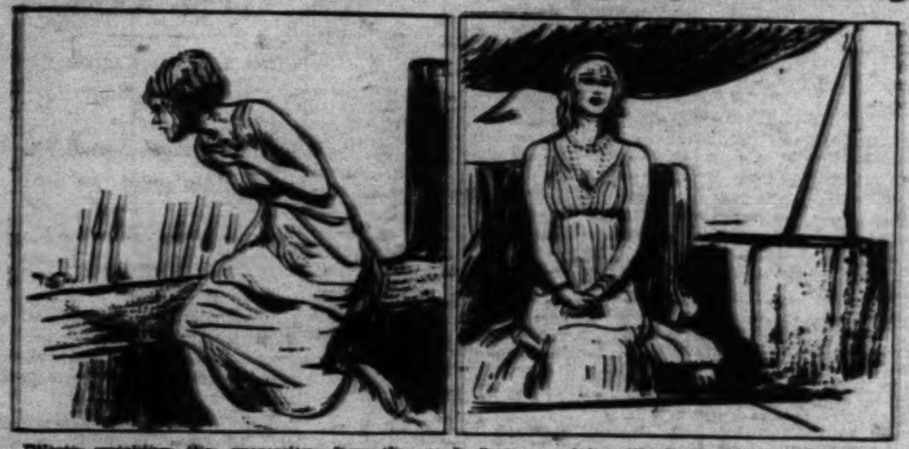
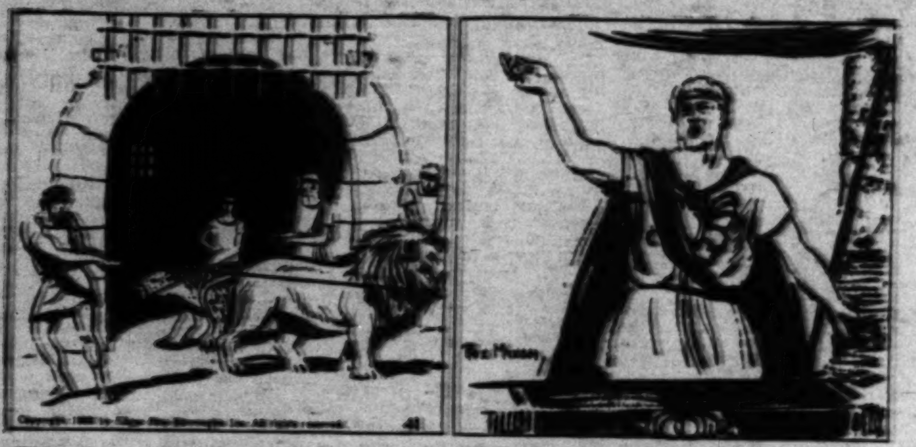
TARZAN AND THE LOST EMPIRE

By Edgar Rice Burroughs



Dilecta, watching the procession from the roof of her father's house, was filled with anxiety when she noticed that her fiance, Maximus Praeclarus, was not among the prisoners in the procession, for she knew that sometimes men who entered the dungeons of Caesar were never heard of again.

Custom and heredity had made her indifferent to the brutalities of the arena, but today, when she went to her father's loge, which was close to that of Caesar, she was trembling for the life of one she loved. Outwardly, however, she appeared calm, serene and beautiful as she awaited the opening of the games.



With the arrival of the Emperor, there emerged from from one of the barred gates at the far end of the arena the head of the procession. There were wild lions and leopards, some of which were drawn in wheeled cages, while others were led by slaves. The beasts strained ferociously at their leashes.

There were also two bull buffalos and several cages in which were confined man-like apes. Captives and beasts were formed in solid phalanx in front of Sublatus, who addressed the prisoners, promising freedom and reward to the victors. Then, sullen and lowering, the prisoners and beasts were herded back to their dungeons and cages.

PICK-UP IN TRAFFIC ON RAILS SEEN

Santa Fe Chieftain Looks for Seasonal Gain but Below 1929 Volume

CHICAGO, Aug. 28.—W. B. Storey, president of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe system, today stated the railroad should have the normal seasonal pick-up in traffic this fall, although he thought the loadings curve for the balance of the year would remain under the corresponding curves for the past several years.

"After the early rush, the wheat movement this year has been lighter than last, although the Kansas crop is larger," said Mr. Storey. "The movement of the wheat which is now being held back in our territory will be reflected in our revenues later this year or early next year. The time at which it moves will be important to us because of the lower grain rates which probably will go into effect on January 1.

"On the basis of our 1929 grain movement, the lower rates will cost us $3,000,000 annually. On the basis of our average grain movement, I should say they will cost us $2,500,000 a year. Our offset from the class rate increases will not amount to anything.

"The drought will have very little direct effect on our traffic. On the way back from the Coast I was amazed at the fine condition of feed crops outside of corn and considerable corn will make feed. Corn on our lines moves mostly in the form of live stock. Kansas has the third largest oat crop in its history. Texas as a whole is rather dry, but the Panhandle territory looks very well. Reports indicate we may be rather shy of cotton in our territory.

"The deciduous fruit crop in California is excellent all the way through. The only drawback is low prices. Canners there have agreed to can only 13,000,000 cases of peaches out of the 18,000,000 cases estimated on the trees."

Macmillan Oil Branching Out

Macmillan Petroleum Corporation has just completed a new bulk storage plant in the outer harbor at Richmond at a cost of nearly $100,000, and is now engaged in building a number of service stations in Central and Northern California to tie in with the plant, it was announced yesterday. A fleet of trucks is also being secured to facilitate distribution.

The plant is complete down to a warehouse for oil and siding facilities with tank-car loading racks designed to enable the plant to care for the demand of Macmillan products in the north, it was stated. Products will be shipped from the Los Angeles territory to the Parr-Richmond terminal, where a pipe line will connect with the bulk plant. The plant went into operation on the 22nd inst., when the first tanker discharged its cargo of Macmillan gasoline.

Prospects for Oils Reviewed

Prefaced by a statement on the outlook for oils, a pamphlet tabulating earnings and showing the current yields of leading oil stocks has just been issued by Howard G. Rath Company. The stocks are classified under investment oils, business men's investments and speculative oils.

Oil stocks have generally been well deflated and shares of a number of companies are selling close to their lowest levels in several years, the pamphlet sets forth. From the majority of first-half earnings reports it appears that most dividends should be maintained and should last-half earnings follow the usual rule of exceeding the first half the full-year result should not be much below that of 1929, except in a few individual situations, the review states.

RESTAURANT CHAIN RETIRES PREFERRED

BOSTON, Aug. 28.—Directors of the Waldorf System, Inc., voted today to retire at $11 a share, 10,000 shares of 8 per cent preferred stock of $10 par value. This will leave outstanding about 38,000 shares of the preferred issue which is the only obligation ahead of the 461,610 shares of no-par common stock outstanding.

PREFERRED YIELDS HIGHER

Senior Stocks Listed Here Selling at Prices to Attract Discriminating Investors; Group Reviewed

BY EARLE E. CROWE

Preferred stocks of California companies are, in many instances, selling at prices to return substantial yields to investors. Many seasoned investment stocks are virtually at bargain-counter prices as the result of forced liquidation to protect speculative accounts, or in reflection of the pessimistic tenor of the times.

Poor earnings and dubious prospects for the near future may account for the comparatively high yields offered by some of the popular stocks, but careful analysis will determine whether preferred dividends are safe or may be passed.

In recent months a school of investors has been advocating the purchase of seasoned preferred issues as the best media for investment funds until more is known of the business situation. The general unpopularity of stocks has reacted against preferred issues to some extent, which permits the careful investor to frequently obtain better yields than in bonds of comparable safety.

DIVIDENDS EXEMPT

Exemption of preferred dividends from income tax has always been a potent argument in favor of the preferred stock. But on the other side the tendency toward early retirement of preferred stocks at small premiums is regarded as a handicap to the holder, although the investor with serial or sinking funds runs into the same difficulty.

In the following table of representative preferred stocks listed on the Los Angeles Stock Exchange, the public-utility group shows an average yield of 5.7 per cent and the industrials 8.9 per cent.

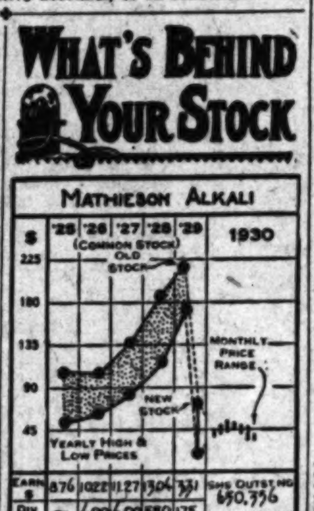
Industrials	Rate	Price	Return
Broadway Dept.	7.00	65	10.7
Goodyear Textile	7.00	94	7.4
Goodyear Tire	7.00	94½	7.4
Home Service 1st	2.00	22	9.1
Pacific Finance "A"	.80	10⅛	8.0
Pacific Finance "C"	.65	8	8.1
Pacific Finance "D"	.70	7½	9.3
Richfield Oil	1.75	[illegible]	10.2
Seaboard Dairy Credit	7.00	70	10.0
Public Utilities
Los Angeles Gas	6.00	107½	5.5
Pacific Gas	1.50	27⅝	5.4
Pacific Lighting	6.00	103	5.8
San Joaquin Light	6.00	104	5.7
San Joaquin Light prior	7.00	120	5.8
South. California Edison	1.75	29¼	5.9
South. California Edison	1.50	26⅝	5.6
South. California Edison	1.37½	24⅞	5.5
Southern California Gas	1.50	26	5.8
Southern Counties Gas	6.00	100	6.0

UTILITIES HOLD WELL

The public utilities apparently are still well regarded by investors. The average yield of 5.7 per cent is only slightly above the current price for long-term capital, indicating that senior obligations of the California utilities are still in demand. An average of 6 per cent would suggest the need of more urgent reconciliation of prices with the cost of money.

One or two utility issues, however, are selling on or close to a 6 per cent basis. Southern Counties Gas preferred shows a 6 per cent return and Edison 7 per cent preferred a return of 5.9 per cent.

In the industrialist list the highest yields are offered by Broadway Department at 10.7 per cent, Richfield Oil at 10.2 per cent and Seaboard Dairy Credit at 10 per cent.



With the disposal of its fine chemical division in 1929 the company now concentrates its production on heavy industrial chemicals, the most important being liquid chlorine, caustic soda, soda ash and synthetic ammonia. The development of a high-test hyperchlorate that can be shipped in concentrated form is expected to give still further stimulus to an expanding export trade. Domestic consumption of the company's products centers chiefly in the textile, paper and oil-refining industries.

Steadily increasing efficiency in production and distribution, coupled with scientific research for new products and new uses, has resulted in a consistent growth of earning power since 1921. The $3.31 earned per common share in 1929 compares with $3.26 for 1928, as adjusted for the 300 per cent stock dividend paid last year.

Texas Data on Oil Output Out

HOUSTON, Aug. 28.—Production of crude oil in Texas during the second quarter this year aggregated 73,555,005 barrels valued at $75,531,293, according to the gross production tax figures of the State Comptroller. Ten leading companies produced 40,869,104 barrels valued at $39,741,834.

Humble Oil and Refining Company led with 7,622,276 barrels followed by Gulf Producing Company with 4,361,235, Shell 4,166,995, Magnolia 3,137,380, Phillips 2,533,680, South Crude Oil Purchasing 2,450,790, Transcontinental (recently acquired by Ohio Oil Company) 2,399,073 and Pure Oil Company 2,000,960.

OUTPUT OF CROSLEY RADIO POINTING UP

CINCINNATI, Aug. 28.—Crosley Radio Corporation has increased its production schedules nearly 100 per cent in the past month and is now turning out between 1700 and 2000 sets daily. This schedule is being kept up to care for increased demands and to reduce the backlog of orders. Powell L. Crosley, Jr., president, stated: "The company is now making money and the way things look by September we will be ahead of September last year."

PROFITS ON BAKING POWDER REPORTED

NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—Royal Baking Powder Company and subsidiaries, including German and South African subsidiaries, reported today net profits for six months ended April 30, last, of $674,977 after all charges, equal after preferred dividends to 47 cents a share on 800,000 shares of no-par common stock.

ST. JOSEPH LEAD IN EARNINGS REPORT

NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—St. Joseph Lead Company and subsidiaries reported today net profits for six months ended June 30, of $3,366,369 after depreciation, Federal taxes and minority interests, equal to $1.72 a share on 1,950,460 capital shares. After deducting $1,340,544 for depletion the balance was $2,025,825, or $1.04 a share.

RESERVE BANK CREDITS OFF

Drop from Previous Week $21,000,000 and from 1928 Period $363,000,000 Reported

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28. (AP)—The daily average volume of Federal reserve credits outstanding during the week ending the 27th inst., as reported by the Federal Reserve Board today was $983,000,000, a decrease of $21,000,000 compared with the preceding week and of $363,000,000 compared with the corresponding week of 1929.

The Federal Reserve Board's weekly review said on the 27th inst. total Reserve Bank credits amounted to $984,000,000, a decrease of $2,000,000 for the week. This decrease corresponds with increases of $1,000,000 in monetary gold stocks and $2,000,000 in treasury currency offset in part by an increase of $6,000,000 in money in circulation and of $5,000,000 in member bank reserve balances.

Holdings of discounted bills decreased $3,000,000 during the week, the principal changes being decreases of $3,000,000 at the Federal Reserve Bank at Richmond and $2,000,000 at St. Louis and an increase of $2,000,000 at Boston. The system's holding of bills bought in open market increased $4,000,000 and of Treasury certificates and bills $2,000,000, while holdings of Treasury notes declined $3,000,000.

August 20 totals (in millions of dollars) with changes from a week ago and a year ago follow:

BORROWINGS OF BROKERS HIT BOTTOM

Security Loans Continue Falling Trend to Mark New Low Figure

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28. (AP)—Loans to brokers and dealers held by New York Federal Reserve member banks for the week ending the 27th inst. were announced by the Federal Reserve Board today as $3,102,000,000 representing a decrease of $26,000,000 compared with the preceding week. The loans for the week ending August 28, 1929, were $6,217,000,000.

The detailed distribution of the loans over three weeks dealt with in the board's report was:

For own account—Aug. 27, 1930, $1,665,000,000; Aug. 20, 1930, $1,747,000,000; Aug. 28, 1929, $992,000,000.

For account of out-of-town banks—Aug. 27, 1930, $655,000,000; Aug. 20, 1930, $714,000,000; Aug. 28, 1929, $1,756,000,000.

For account of others—Aug. 27, 1930, $782,000,000; Aug. 20, 1930, $667,000,000; Aug. 28, 1929, $3,469,000,000.

(The Federal Reserve Board adds and subtracts from the totals odd thousands of dollars not shown in its statement so that addition of the columns may not always agree with the Board's totals.)

Comparative weekly figures follow:

	1930	1929
January 8	$3,352,000,000	$5,313,000,000
January 15	3,368,000,000	5,399,000,000

Los Angeles brokers' loans for the week ended the 27th inst. as reported yesterday by members of the Los Angeles Stock Exchange totaled $18,965,304, an increase of $278,619 from the figure reported for the previous week.

The high loan figure for 1930 is $29,419,173, established for the week ending March 5; low for 1930 is $18,686,685 established the 20th inst.

Four Concerns Vote Change in Dividend Rates

Outstanding changes in dividend rates announced yesterday include the declaration of an extra for Texon Oil and Land Company, an increase for Nichols Copper Company Class A stock, a reduction in regular payments for Yale & Towne Manufacturing Company and an omission on the part of Ontario Manufacturing Company.

Texon Oil and Land declared an extra of $3 a share in addition to the regular quarterly of 25 cents a share payable October 1 to stockholders of record September 10. Nichols Copper voted a dividend of 75 cents a share on the Class A quarterly and 75 cents on Class B semiannually.

Yale & Towne declared a quarterly dividend of 50 cents a share on the common stock, against $1 a share formerly. The new dividend is payable October 1 to stockholders of record September 10. Directors of Ontario Manufacturing Company voted to omit the common dividend. Three months ago the rate was reduced to 50 cents a share from 75 cents previously.

Dobbs in Post of Gardner at Banks, Huntley

Walter V. Dobbs yesterday was appointed manager of the stock department of Banks, Huntley & Co., investment bankers and members of the Los Angeles Stock Exchange. Mr. Dobbs succeeds Frank L. Gardner, who has resigned after having directed the stock department for the last eight years.

Mr. Gardner has spent the last twenty years in the brokerage business, and plans now to devote the next few months to travel and the management of his own affairs. He entered the stock business in Chicago in 1910 and has been actively identified with the brokerage field in Los Angeles for the past sixteen years. He was formerly active in the affairs of the Los Angeles Stock Exchange as a member of the board of governors.

Mr. Dobbs, who has been Mr. Gardner's assistant for the last five years, has been connected with the brokerage business in Los Angeles for a number of years, having formerly been a partner in Miller & Dobbs, members of the Los Angeles Stock Exchange.

Municipal Issue Offered Today

Public offering of a $50,000 issue of Los Angeles county 6 per cent 1915 Act bonds, due serially 1931 to 1945, will be made today by the Municipal Bond Company.

The bonds are issued for the paving of Olive avenue from the eastern boundary of the city of Compton to Ocean avenue in Hynes. The assessed valuation of this district totals $391,120 as compared with the bonded indebtedness of this issue of approximately $50,000.

PERU UPHEAVAL MINIMIZED

Effect of Leguia Overthrow on American Business Expected to be Negligible

BY JOHN F. SINCLAIR

[Copyright, 1930, by the North American Newspaper Alliance]

NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—What effect will the overturn in Peru have on American business? Probably very little. Of the American interests there, estimated as high as $250,000,000, about $85,000,000 represents a government loan floated by the National City Bank of New York and Seligman & Co., an American investment house, which has specialized in South American securities.

American interests, too, are largely concerned in Peruvian mines. The Guggenheim brothers of New York are probably the largest, for they control the North Peruvian Smelting and Refining Company, a large copper and silver company. The All-American Cables Company, which controls the national telegraph business and also the Lima telephone system, is owned by another American concern—the International Telephone and Telegraph Company.

Other mining interests in Peru are companies controlled by the Cerro de Pasco Mining Company of New York and one or two substantial corporations, dominated by William Randolph Hearst, the American publisher.

Other American interests affected are the Foundation Company of New York, now working on several large construction contracts in Lima and throughout the country, and the International Petroleum Company, controlled by the Imperial Oil Company of Canada, which, in turn, is controlled by the powerful Standard Oil Company of New Jersey.

Whether the change from a civil to a military government means anything more than an internal struggle for power will develop in the next thirty days.

Even the political enemies of Alexander Legge, chairman of the Federal Farm Board, admire his frankness and candor. He has been a big business leader—a most successful one. He has been at his present job working many hours a day for over a year, and in a recent article in Current History he summarizes his conclusions in several pointed paragraphs.

"The fundamental trouble with agriculture is lack of effective organization . . . the adjustment of production to potential market requirements has been ignored in the past . . . agriculture will never be on a profitable basis until the farmers, like other producers, adjust their output, quantity, and quality as well, to potential market requirements, at the same time doing what they can to extend and expand those markets."

Later on in the article the Farm Board chairman admits the inability to meet the problem by any stabilization operation, "which would remove the depressing surplus from the market to be merchandized at some later date."

But on Monday at the Iowa State Fair, Chairman Legge touched upon another phase of the problem, the surplus of farm leaders.

"One of the most difficult surpluses we find is the surplus of leaders or managers of groups that have in the past attempted to solve the problem along different lines."

True. Put 100 farm leaders together, from all sections of the country, and more often than not a battle royal as to policy will result. Farmers, to advance their economic fortunes, must unite on one program. This is the Legge contention.

The Cambridge Associates, Inc., of Boston, have been taking issue with Prof. Carver of Harvard University, who disputed recently the contention of the Cambridge Associates that there was any definite relationship between wheat and silver prices. The associates contend that when silver declines the buying power of the wheat-consuming people of the Far East is seriously affected.

It is true that the eastern countries—China, India, Japan, etc.—produce less than one-tenth of the wheat of the world and consume more than one-half.

William T. Cobb II of the Cambridge Associates, contends that the decline in silver is not the sole or even the chief cause of the decline in wheat, but "merely a contributory cause."

It is hard to see how Prof. Carver can take issue with this position.

Dairy Concern Adds Eastern Units to Chain

CHICAGO, Aug. 27.—Beatrice Creamery Company has acquired Carry Ice Cream Company of Washington, D. C., and Maryland Creamery Company of Baltimore, through the exchange of stocks.

The company has made application to the New York Stock Exchange to list 19,057 additional shares of preferred and 58,648 additional common shares to take care of these new acquisitions, together with the acquisition of the other companies for which negotiations have previously been announced.

Additional shares will bring the preferred stock outstanding to 95,256 shares and the total common outstanding to 357,516 shares.

Refined Sugar Prices Advance

NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—General advances in prices for refined sugar were posted today by leading companies throughout various sections of the country. The new price, which becomes effective at the close of business Friday is 4.45 cents per pound, representing an advance of 10 points.

Among the companies announcing the new schedule are American Sugar Refining, Revere Sugar Refining, McCahan Sugar Company, Savannah Sugar Company and National Sugar Refining.

Growth of Phone Utility Shown

Stations served by the Associated Telephone Utilities System increased 72,010 in number during the first six months this year to a total of 449,800, which makes the system one of the largest independent telephone systems in the country, the company announced yesterday.

The greatest growth, exclusive of acquisitions, was in the territory surrounding Los Angeles, served by Associated Telephone Company, Ltd. This unit extended service to 1449 residential and 834 commercial stations. Substantial gains were also reported by companies serving in the industrial and petroleum centers of Pennsylvania, in the Panhandle section of Texas and in Wisconsin and Illinois.

BUCKEYE UNION OIL PAYS ON PREFERRED

Buckeye Union Oil Company yesterday declared a special dividend of 1 per cent on the $1 par preferred stock, payable October 1 to stock of record September 15. Since discontinuance of the regular quarterly of 1 per cent the policy of the company has been to declare dividends at intervals according to earnings and financial requirements.

Usual Preholiday Lethargy Marks Sessions

NEW YORK, Aug. 28. (AP)—The stock market swung about like a weather vane today in a day of frequently shifting but inconsequential gusts.

The general price level, measured by the index of ninety leading shares, ended the day virtually unchanged, the index showing a loss of one-tenth of one point. Trading was restricted by the approach of the Labor Day week-end closing and total sales aggregated only 1,437,210 shares, only about 60 per cent of the previous session's turnover.

Several pool operations, dormant for a few weeks, were renewed in some specialty shares, apparently in an effort to stir up a little interest preparatory to plans for post-holiday activity. The merchandising shares firmed up, under the leadership of Sears, Roebuck, in response to more cheerful trade reports. Most of the pivotal shares were unchanged.

Bearish operations were facilitated by news developments in a few issues. Report of political disorders in Argentina brought further selling into International Telephone, which sagged to a new low under 40, then rallied.

Goodyear was depressed about 5 points to the lowest price in two years on announcement of a 10 per cent wage reduction for sales and office employees. It rallied moderately later.

Atlantic Coast Line sagged 2 points to the lowest price since 1924.

The day's news was meager and not of a character to influence the list as a whole. The weekly brokerage loan tabulation, appearing after the close, showed a reduction of $26,000,000 to another new low since 1927. At $3,102,000,000 brokers' loans were about half the total of a year ago. Call money remained plentiful at 2 per cent.

Among the day's strong features Sears, Roebuck gained 4 points, and Delaware and Hudson jumped 6. McKeesport Tinplate, Cutler Hammer, Mack Truck, Mathieson Alkali and Childs gained 2 to nearly 4 and closed about 2 higher. Shares closing up a point included Woolworth, Montgomery Ward and General Electric. United States Steel fluctuated over a 2-point range.

The recent firmer tone in foreign exchanges resulted in a shipment of $1,000,000 more in gold to Canada. Sterling cables rallied to $4.87.

Net Income of Hawaiian Ship Line Declines

NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—American-Hawaiian Steamship Company, exclusive of subsidiaries, reported today net profits for six months ended June 30 of $163,428 after all charges, excepting Federal income taxes, against $378,348 in the same period last year after charges including a deduction of $265,256 for expenses in collection of mixed claim awards collected in 1928.

Gross earnings of the company aggregated $6,046,394 for the six months, against $6,163,143 for the first half of 1929, a decline of $116,749. Expenses increased from $5,724,128 in 1929 to $5,839,480 for the period just closed, a gain of $115,352.

The balance as net operating profits amounted to $206,914, as compared with $410,040 last year.

A "Legal" Rail Bond of the Highest Type

This issue is secured by a direct lien on the property and equipment of the major eastern railroad known as the Nickel Plate system. The company operates 1,691 miles of road through the important territory reaching from Buffalo through Detroit, Chicago, St. Louis and other mid-western cities—connecting with the principal western and southwestern lines. Auto Sales in Federal Region Sharply Lower

CHICAGO, Aug. 28.—Value of automobiles sold at retail in July by fifty-eight retailers in the Seventh Federal Reserve District was 16.5 per cent under June and 52.8 per cent under July, 1929. Stocks of new cars in the hands of dealers were 5.0 per cent under June 30 and 1.6 per cent under July 31, last year.

Value at wholesale of automobiles sold by thirty distributors during July increased 3.4 per cent over June but declined to 63.2 per cent under a year ago.

Number of used cars sold by fifty-eight reporting companies in the reserve district was 7.3 per cent under June and 22.2 per cent under July 1929. Salable used cars in the hands of the companies were 11.4 per cent under June, and 2.7 per cent under July last year while their value was 14.8 per cent under June and 16 per cent below a year ago.

BANK OF HOLLYWOOD DEPOSITS POINT UP

Reflecting an upward trend in business conditions in Hollywood, deposits of the Bank of Hollywood totaled $3,521,597 on the 1st inst., as compared with $2,858,989 on January 1, 1930, a gain of $662,607, or 23 per cent for the seven months' period, President G. R. Dexter, announced yesterday. In percentage of increase scored the showing made by the Bank of Hollywood is declared to be a 1930 record-breaker.

President Dexter in commenting on his institution's growth said that what really is needed to promote better business conditions is a greater degree of optimism on the part of recognized leaders in the business world.

BORDEN COMPANIES NAMED IN SUIT

CHICAGO, Aug. 27.—Charging violation of the Clayton Antitrust Act, an $800,000 damage suit was filed in Federal District Court against Borden Company and Borden Farm Products Company by Hilda F. Ellison, widow of the founder of Clover Leaf Milk Company. Thorwald Gregersen and Gunnar K. Gregsen, who once held the majority of Clover Leaf stock, were also named as defendants. Mrs. Ellison charges that she was induced to sell 315 shares of Clover Leaf stock when it was worth $1000 a share.

GOODYEAR RUBBER IN SALARY REDUCTION

AKRON (O.) Aug. 28. (AP)—A 10 per cent salary decrease for all sales and office employees of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company was declared today by President P. W. Litchfield, to "merely parallel the wage adjustment in the factory." Litchfield said the salary cut enables the company to retain as many as possible on the pay roll and that the salaried worker enjoys a present advantage in a greater purchasing power of the dollar.

PROFITS ON MANY STOCKS SHOW CUT

NEW YORK, Aug. 28. (AP)—A decrease of 27 per cent in net income from the similar period of 1929 is shown by 516 industrial, railroad and utility corporations so far reporting for the first six months this year, a compilation by Standard Statistics shows. The rail division shows a larger percentage of loss than the industrial. The utilities show a small gain.

LOSS SHOWN

DETROIT, Aug. 28.—Detroit Street Railway reported today net loss for July of $278,527 after charges against net income of $46,641 in July, 1929. For twelve months ended July 31, net loss was $887,468, against net income of $568,618 in the preceding year.

LOS ANGELES EXCHANGE

Stock Prices Fluctuate Narrowly on Local Market as Trading Activity Holds Quiet

While operations were spread over a broad area there was little change in the sum total of the day's volume of trading on the Los Angeles Stock Exchange yesterday. Price fluctuations were held within small fractional limits and with the market at no time displaying any inclination to move one way or the other the final bell closed on an irregular array of small gains and losses.

Petroleums, though dominating the market activity, held very close to Wednesday's closing prices with one or two exceptions. Rio Grande continued a brisk trader but yielded ½ to 15½. This issue has been a prominent trader for some time past pending announcement of financing arrangements which are generally believed to be in the offing.

Standard of California, which lately has remained in the background in so far as trading activity is concerned, sold in a relatively larger volume with a turnover of more than 1000 shares, but eased 3-8 to 60 1-4. Union Oil and Union Associates improved slightly on a small turnover. Shell dipped 1-8 to establish another new low at 14 3-8, and Signal Oil and Gas, an inactive, broke 1 5-8 to a new bottom at 26. Richfield was not called and Pacific Western and Macmillan held steady to 16 and 12½, respectively. Bolsa Chica, on small sales, advanced 3-4 to 12 3-4, and Republic Petroleum, under selling pressure, slumped 50 cents to 2.25.

Transamerica again headed the volume, but held firm to 21½. The balance of the list showed little change with the exception of San Joaquin prior preferred. This issue was traded to the extent of 262 shares and bounded up 1½ points to mark a new 1930 peak at 120. Southern California Edison and Pacific Public Service eased 3-8 each on a small turnover.

Sales totaled 16,155 shares, valued at 401,088; previous day, 11,701 shares, valued at $360,193.

WOOL MARKET

BOSTON, Aug. 28. (AP)—A fair volume of business in wool continues to be transacted by a few houses, but generally demand is very quiet. Prices, however, are steady and firm in spite of the quietness which is considered by many observers to be seasonal in character. Activity is mostly in 64 and finer domestic wools.

NEW YORK BOND PRICES

NEW YORK, Aug. 28. (AP)—The forward movement of the bond market which has continued steadily throughout the week was interrupted today.

An irregular price movement prevailed with prime investment issues steady to firm. A few profited from a strong demand to reach new peaks for the year, but the price level as measured by the averages showed some impairment.

The foreign bond list received more attention and such high-grade issues as Japan 4½s and Belgian 7s climbed to new peaks for the year. The prospect of political strife in Argentina unsettled the Latin-American list.

Selling in the railroad list affected many issues which have progressed in recent sessions but did not extend to standard investment obligations. Central New England 4s, Nickel Plate 5½s, Cleveland Union Terminal 5s and 4½s, and Oregon Railroad & Navigation 4s reached new highs for the year.

Utilities were steady to firm. There was heavy trading in American & Foreign Power 5s which yielded ½. American Telephone debenture 5s sagged ⅛. A feature was the weakness of International Telephone bonds. The debenture 5s reacted 2½, debenture 4½s 1⅛, and the convertible 4½s sold off ½.

Fisk Rubber reacted 2½. Manati Sugar 7½s rose 2.

Argentine, Brazilian, Bolivian and Uruguayan issues lost ground. Bolivian 7s sagged 4 points, Brazilian 5½s 1. Mexican governments rose 2 to 3 points each.

Liberty fourth 4¼s was the only active government issue and was firm.

The quotations represent sales of bonds (in thousands of dollars) and the high, low and closing prices in order given. To expedite transmission the close is omitted when the same as the low, and both low and close when same as high.

COPRA MARKET

Following is a review of the copra market at Manila, P. I. issued yesterday by the Department of Foreign and Domestic Commerce.

Market prices for copra remained fairly steady for the first half of July, but later gave way on a lack of buyers and heavy selling pressure to new low levels. Due to large supplies of competing fats and no indication of a reduction in the United States cotton crop local interests expect no improvement in copra prices for several months. Prices the 16th inst. Manila and Legaspi 9.00, Cebu 8.75, Hondagua 8.62½. Para.

RUBBER MARKET

NEW YORK, Aug. 28. (Exclusive)—The market was a featureless affair during the greater part of today's trading with no indication of a definite trend. There were no developments of interest in the situation and the market appeared to be in need of a new trading incentive. As a consequence the bulk of trading was still of the professional variety. The close was steady with No. 1 standard off 1 to 14 points and A contract unchanged to 10 points decline.

LOS ANGELES MARKET

CATTLE—Practically all of the limited fresh receipts and around 87 head of holdovers were sold during the morning at steady prices.

A load of medium 1140-pound fed Colorado Holstein steers brought 8.00 and a load of 778-pound grass and cake fed Californias made 7.50. Nothing else was available in the steer line.

A load of fairly good 944-pound Montana grass cows scored 6.50, with two loads of 992-pound weights at 6.35. Scattered lots of common to medium cows, mostly dairy types, brought 4.75@5.75, with low cutters and cutters at 2.50@4.50. No bulls were offered.

CALVES—A few lots of vealers, mostly holdovers, sold about steady, medium to choice kinds going at 10.00@12.00. A part load of 261-pound Texas calves cashed at 8.50, with light culls down to 6.00.

HOGS—Seven fresh loads and two loads of holdovers were moved before noon at prices mainly 25c lower. Five loads of 131 to 186-pound Nebraska, Colorado and Utah butchers topped at 11.75, with two loads of 173 to 186-pound Nebraskas and a load of 172-pound holdover New Mexicos at 11.65. A load of 169-pound holdover Nebraskas sold down to 11.35, with 227-pound weights at 11.10. A few lots of 167 to 207-pound local feds scored 11.00, with 215-pound kinds at 10.50. Odd packing sows were little changed at 8.25.

SHEEP—The estimated supply included six decks that had not arrived at 1 o'clock. Trade during the morning was slow, but prices held about steady with no choice lambs included. About three decks of medium to good 78-pound Utah lambs turned at 8.50, sorted 25 per cent at 6.00. Two decks of 66 to 67-pound Idaho lambs of common to medium quality were taken at 6.75@7.35. About a deck and a half were unsold. A few medium 118-pound ewes brought 3.25. Late Wednesday three decks of good 72-pound California lambs brought 8.50 straight.

YOUR INVESTMENT—
how much will it be 10 years from today?
Intelligent investment! It is the key to financial independence in the future.
But if you plan to retire at middle age, merely putting money at interest won't attain your goal. You must let your money multiply itself in the leading industries of the country which prosper as America prospers.
Leaders of Industry Shares offer you the opportunity to participate in the profits of thirty-three of America's giant corporations with a comparatively small investment—as little as $100 if you wish. Experience proves that an investment of this kind is secure, returns a steady income, and has an excellent chance to multiply itself several times over in the course of a few years.

These bonds were issued for the paving of Olive Avenue from the Eastern Boundary of the City of Compton, California to Ocean Avenue in Hynes. The District embraces a territory 2.4 miles long and a half mile wide connecting three main Boulevards; namely, Long Beach, Atlantic and Ocean. The major portion of the district is unsubdivided acreage devoted to dairying and truck gardening, although at each extremity there is a portion of subdivided territory adjacent to the City of Compton and the City of Hynes. This district has a population of at least 500.
1915 Act Provisions:
The 1915 Act, under which these bonds are issued, provides that the assessments levied to pay the costs of the improvements shall be collected with the general taxes on the same bill as other County Taxes. The Board of Supervisors may transfer money from the general fund to meet deficiencies and for each 1915 Act bond issue outstanding may levy a tax of one mill on all the taxable property within the County to provide a reserve fund to meet deficiencies.

NEW YORK CURB STOCKS

NEW YORK, Aug. 28. (AP)—The lassitude that usually precedes holiday periods descended upon the curb market today. Traders were content to let the market drift and stocks moved listlessly in a narrow range and were fairly steady at the close.

With trading largely of a professional character neither side seemed disposed to pursue their activities aggressively in view of the approach of the three-day week-end beginning Friday night. Gains and losses were of small proportions and about evenly divided. Sales totaled 325,300 shares.

Utility stocks were steady. The weight of offerings fractionally above the previous day checked an early advance in Electric Bond & Share, and selling pressure in the last hour forced the stock down to 81⅝. It closed at 82½, off ¾. Other active utilities were little changed. American Gas & Electric sagged 2⅝ and Duke Power rose 4.

Investment and holding company stocks were fairly active and closed firm. Goldman Sachs registered a small gain. In the petroleum stocks principal changes were mixed, Gulf and Houston yielding more than a point each. Humble moved up 2¼.

Texon Oil & Land advanced 2 points to a new high on the declaration of an extra dividend. Standard Oil of Indiana, International Petroleum and Cities Service were firm. Aviation and motor shares held their ground.

Turnover of industrials that have been among the busiest stocks in previous sessions was small. Technicolor reacted one point. American Cyanamid B sagged ¾.

The closing price is omitted when same as the low, and both low and close when same as the high.

Stock sales today, 325,300 shares.
Stock sales year ago, 1,865,700 shares.
Bond sales today, $1,979,000.
Bond sales year ago, $2,080,000.

nal Hill field this week recorded a 1000-barrel decline and now is flowing at the rate of 103,000 barrels daily, according to Umpire Neil H. Anderson. Several projects are nearing completion and should be on steady production within a week.

Another drop in daily production has also occurred in the Venice field, which is putting out 13,000 barrels per day. Ten wells are drilling ahead in oil sand and a number of these should be completed soon.

BANKS TO CLOSE SATURDAY NIGHTS

HUNTINGTON PARK, Aug. 28.—The five banks of Huntington Park have announced that, after Saturday of this week, the local financial institutions will be opened no more on Saturday nights. Instead, the banks will remain open an hour longer in the day time on Saturdays. They will open at 9:45 o'clock in the morning and close at 1 o'clock in the afternoon. Under the plan which has been in operation here for some time, the banks opened at the same time; closed at noon, opened again at 6 o'clock in the evening and closed at 8 o'clock.

MOTOR CARAVAN TO CLUB CONVENTION

REDONDO BEACH, Aug. 28.—Delegates of the local club to the national convention of 20-30 clubs which opens in San Jose next Saturday are H. E. Appenzeller, Wallace McBride, Tom Lilley and Flynn Sturges. Members who will accompany the delegates are Karl Varro, Phillip Blaid and Harold Briggs.

The Redondo group will join groups from other of the Southern California clubs at Cahuenga Pass and from there will have the escort of motorcycle officers of the State patrol.

LONDON RATE FIRM

LONDON, Aug. 28.—Bank of England's minimum rate of discount remained unchanged today at 3 per cent.

OLD-TIME BUILDER'S JOB IS DONE

Robert Bell of Oxnard Came to California at Close of Civil War

VENTURA, Aug. 28.—Robert Bell, 87, pioneer of this county and contractor on the first street grading in Ventura, died this morning in his home here. He had been ill one week, although not in robust health since he suffered a paralytic stroke six years ago.

Born in Richland county, Ohio, May 27, 1843, Bell served in the Civil War for three years, being mustered out in 1864. Later that year he came to California by way of New York and the Panama Canal, settling at Marysville in 1871.

He came to Ventura county with his brother, the late Thomas Bell, where he engaged in farming on an extensive scale in the Pas Posas section, continuing there until 1912.

In 1877 Bell married Rebecca L. Rice, daughter of Peter Rice, with whom Bell was farming. The couple had six children, three of whom still are living. They are Polly Ann Hooker of Oxnard, Bertha V. Deserpa of Ventura, and Walter R. Bell of Los Angeles. Eleven grandchildren also survive.

BOY STRUCK DOWN BY MOTOR VEHICLE

SANTA ANA, Aug. 28.—Injuries from which he may die were received today by Charles, 5-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Bieser, 917 South Garnsey street, when he was struck to the pavement by a taxicab in front of his home.

At the Santa Ana Valley Hospital, where the boy was taken following emergency treatment at his home, it was said his condition was critical. One leg was broken and serious internal hurts were believed to have resulted.

WORLD TOURIST DEMANDS SHIFT

Cruise Leader Notes Drift from Old Routes

Says Interest Increases in Pacific Itinerary

Views California as Among Chief Attractions

BY WALDO DRAKE

LOUIS D. STONE

California is the new mecca for world tourists, for whom the entire Pacific area holds chief interest, according to Louis D. Stone, cruise director of the American Express Company, who arrived from New York yesterday on a vacation trip aboard the Panama Mail liner Guatemala. Mr. Stone, who has cruised approximately 1,000,000 miles in the score of years he has held his present post, will take the Matson liner Malolo out from San Francisco on September 21 on her second around-the-Pacific cruise.

"California is the one spot that every cruise prospect demands on his itinerary," explained Mr. Stone. "Consequently, all world cruisers make their visits to Los Angeles and San Francisco the foremost features of their schedules. Until a few years ago, the West Indies and the Mediterranean ports were of leading interest to tourists. Today they have been definitely superseded by California, Hawaii, the East Indies, the South Sea Islands, the Orient and the Antipodes. The Pacific, in other words, has become the world's show place."

Mr. Stone is a true cosmopolite. He maintains the family home on Pa-Mao-Chang in Peiping and has an apartment in New York. Since his first cruise in 1911 he has visited nearly every place of tourist interest on the globe except North Cape, Norway and Capetown, South Africa.

Around-the-world passenger trade is steadily increasing despite depression in other sea-borne commerce, he says, because the family of small income is now making the same world trips formerly enjoyed only by those of independent means.

LASSCO FLAGSHIP IN FROM HAWAII TODAY

Three hundred and ninety-six passengers are due from Hawaii this morning on the liner City of Los Angeles, flagship of the Los Angeles Steamship Company. The steamer also is bringing heavy consignments of molasses, raw sugar, honey, sandstone, fresh and canned pineapples and mail.

On her return voyage, leaving here September 6, the liner will carry a special party on the fifteenth good-will tour of the islands under auspices of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce.

Passengers returning this morning include Ralph N. Begien, vice-president of the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad, Richmond, Va.; Miss Kathryn Coger, Los Angeles art director; John F. Dodge, professor of petroleum engineering at the University of Southern California; Mrs. Katheryn Lonetsaux, scientist at Columbia University, New York, and Jeromy Royse, secretary of Scottish Rite, Los Angeles.

Changing of chiefs at the port offices of the United States Public Health Office, was the occasion of an honoring luncheon by the Bilge Club yesterday noon. Through the agency of J. C. MacQuiddy, chairman, the club bade farewell to Maj. H. A. Spencer, who goes to direct the quarantine station at Angel Island, San Francisco, after six years here. Welcome also was extended his successor, Maj. H. E. Trimble, transferred here from Detroit. Maj. Trimble will take over his new duties September 1, while Maj. Spencer will depart September 4 for the north. During the latter's term here a marine hospital ward has been established; a quarantine station projected, the medical and clerical staff has been trebled, but still is rushed to meet demands of the growing port.

Panama-Pacific Line's electric flagship Pennsylvania, will arrive at San Diego this morning and at Los Angeles tomorrow with 500 cabin passengers and $1,000,000 worth of freight for those two ports and San Francisco.

Prominent among her passengers are Rear-Admiral H. H. Hough, United States Navy, and Mrs. Hough; Anne Nichols, playwright and author of "Able's Irish Rose," and Dr. George Edward Maurer, of New York.

Southern California passengers aboard include Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Binkley, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Christensen, Miss B. M. Creighton, Miss Ethel M. Ewens, Miss Jane Ewens, Miss Anne G. Wiggs, William C. Warmington, Jr., and Mrs. Irene C. Williams, all of Los Angeles; Mrs. Elizabeth Buckley and her daughter, Elizabeth, of Hollywood; Miss Marjorie Fairbanks of Bakersfield, Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Bliss, Jr., of Coronado, and Mrs. Daisy Hallett and Mrs. A. H. McDonald.

George C. Tanner, veteran ship supply executive at the port, returned yesterday with Mrs. Tanner from a year's tour of Europe and the British Isles.

The tug Commissioner, which has been stationed at New York will be brought to Los Angeles for salvage operations in October, according to Merritt, Chapman & Scott. It is an A-framed shallow draft craft with a twelve-ton steel boom, adapted particularly for salvaging small vessels. Capt. M. A. Varnum, master of the tug Peacock, now east on vacation, will start west with the Commissioner September 15. A new 650-horsepower Ingersoll-Rand Diesel engine has been installed in her.

A course of study in Diesel engines again will be offered mariners and machinists by the San Pedro Evening High School starting September 2, with classes between 7 and 9 p.m. on Mondays and Tuesdays. September study will cover Diesel engine theories and principles. From October 6 to November 30 attention will be given construction and types; from December 1 to January 1, operation and overhaul, followed by a study of auxiliary apparatus. The course will end January 23, and will be repeated starting January 26. Coaching for Diesel engineer license examinations are offered every Wednesday evening.

News of Ships and Sailings at Pacific Ports

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 28. (AP)—Inaugurating the service of the Pacific-Atlantic Line between the Pacific Coast and European ports, the Jefferson Myers is scheduled to sail from here Saturday, local officials of the company announced today.

The vessel is on its way down the coast from Columbia River ports. After crossing the Atlantic the vessel will call at Liverpool, Manchester and London. She is in command of Capt. Billups.

With vessels of the salmon fleet returning to port here after a search off the Alaska coast, officials of the various companies have estimated this year's catch at about one-third of average.

SEATTLE, Aug. 28.—City of Seattle or some other name suggested by residents here, will be the name of a big overseas freighter to be built in Great Britain by the Reardon-Smith Line for its trade to this range, officials of the company announced here today.

William Reardon Smith, Jr., son of the owner of the company, of Cardiff, Wales, and T. A. Lee, Vancouver; F. M. [illegible], San Francisco, and Robert [illegible], Portland, representatives in these coast cities for the Reardon Line, arrived here today on an inspection tour.

TACOMA, Aug. 28.—Total business at local piers during July amounted to 394,622 tons of cargo, valued at $11,936,742, it was announced today by the harbor statistician. Of this amount imports totaled 249,509 tons, valued at $6,231,325, and exports 145,113 tons, valued at $5,705,417.

Two large foreign motorships, the Los Angeles of the Hamburg-American Line, and the Washington of the French Line, were loading copper here today. The former is taking 953 tons to Germany, and the latter 1300 tons to France and Belgium.

The Danish motorship Australien sailed for Europe today with 5000 doors and a quantity of plywood and lumber. The vessel discharged a cargo of potash and firebrick from the United Kingdom and Germany.

PORTLAND, Aug. 28.—Construction of the second storage annex to the municipal grain elevator here virtually has been completed, A. D. Merrill, engineer, told the Commission of Public Docks today. Merrill said tests will be made next week.

First Delano Mother Buried

DELANO, Aug. 28.—Last rites were conducted today at Bakersfield for Mrs. Mary Josephine Orr, 79 years of age, one of the most widely known matrons of this district, who died Tuesday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Maude Quinn at Oil Center. She was the mother of the first child born in this city, the daughter at whose home she succumbed.

She leaves her husband, Tom Orr, and a son, Bud Orr. She was born in Ireland but had lived in this country for several decades and in this district more than thirty years.

BURGLARS IN HURRY ABANDON THEIR DOG

SEPULVEDA, Aug. 28.—B. S. Richards of 7120 Ranchito avenue went out in the back yard of his ranch to take a look at his thirty-five turkeys. They were gone. Instead he found a stray dog locked up in one of the pens. Footprints of burglars also were found. Police investigators report that when the thieves stole the turkeys valued at $150 they accidently locked their dog up in the pen and hurried away without him. Detectives have let the dog loose with the hope he may trail the police back to the burglars.

WOMAN SUES OVER INJURIES IN AUTO

BAKERSFIELD, Aug. 28.—Marie Finn has filed a civil complaint against J. C. Williams asking $30,900 for injuries suffered in an auto accident. The plaintiff asserts that she was riding as a guest in the auto of Williams on May 4, last. The accident occurred between Quincy and Florence streets at Brown Alley. She charges that negligence of the defendant caused the car to hit a ditch and that she suffered serious bodily injuries.

Figueroa, Figueroa at Santa Barbara—"Dangerous Nan McGrew." Helen Kane boop-boop-a-doops it all over the West.

Filmarte, 1228 North Vine—"A Throw of Dice." Opens tonight.

Forum, Pico at Norton—"Dancing Sweeties." Sue Carol cuts capers and so it goes.

Loew's State, Broadway at Seventh—"Call of the Flesh." Reviewed in today's Times.

News Reel Theater, Broadway near Eighth—Current Events.

Pantages, Hollywood at Vine—"Manslaughter." Heavy dramatic from Claudette Colbert.

Paramount, Hill at Sixth—"Animal Crackers." Reviewed in today's Times.

Ritz, Wilshire at La Brea—"Love Among the Millionaires." Clara Bow puts "It" into society.

R.K.O., Hill at Eighth—"Ladies Must Play." Reviewed in today's Times.

R.K.O. Orpheum, Broadway at Ninth—"The Dawn Patrol." An air victory, as well as a film one. Richard Barthelmess is excellent.

Tower, Broadway at Eighth—"The Way of All Men." Dorothy Revier and Doug Fairbanks, Jr., are good in average film.

United Artists, Broadway near 9th—"Eyes of the World." A moralizing ban on hypocrisy handled as well as possible by the cast with Una Merkel.

Uptown, Western and Tenth—"Love Among the Millionaires."

Warners' Downtown, Hill at Seventh—"Moby Dick." Sentiment is missing from this tale of the sea, though adventure isn't. John Barrymore.

Westlake, 636 Alvarado—"Good Intentions." The upper circle of the underworld becomes involved in good drama. Edmund Lowe.

Warners' Hollywood, Hollywood Blvd. at Wilcox—"Old English." Opens today.

STAGE

Belasco, Hill at 11th—"It's a Wise Child." A splendid cast enacts this modern treatment of an old theme. Recommended to those who take comedy with a grain of salt and lots of pepper.

Biltmore, Fifth and Grand—"Candlelight." Airy entertainment, frequently humorous, is this Viennese piece. Eugenie Leontovich leads the cast.

Kuan, Figueroa at Pico—"The Missing Witness." Hysterical courtroom highlights, all familiar, Maude Fealy.

El Capitan, Hollyw'd Blvd. nr. Highland—"The Poor Nut." The campus sap becomes a hero overnight and it's worth seeing. Elliott Nugent.

Hollywood Playhouse, Vine near Hollywood Blvd.—"The Champion." A British-American comedy of much entertainment. The excellent cast stars Grant Mitchell.

HIGH COURT TO RULE ON CAR SEARCH

Pair Arrested by Federal Dry Agents Contending Constitution Violated

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28. (AP)—The Supreme Court was asked today to rule on how far Federal prohibition agents lawfully can go in halting automobiles without a search warrant to look for illicit liquor.

Near Sturgis, Mich., last February, Edwin C. Kudy and Byron Langry were stopped by two warrantless Federal agents. They were convicted of violating the prohibition law.

They contended the search was illegal but the lower Federal courts refused to take that view and declined to prohibit the use of the seized liquor as evidence.

Asserting the action was illegal, the two men insisted they were being deprived of their constitutional rights. The Federal Circuit Court of Appeals sustained the stopping of the automobile and declared the agents had received information which warranted their action, as was disclosed by sagging automobile springs and the 192 quarts of liquor found in the car.

Inquiry Urged in Colorado on Campaign Costs

COLORADO SPRINGS (Colo.) Aug. 28. (AP)—Sensational reports concerning expenditures of some of Colorado's candidates for Senatorial nomination have been climaxed with the request of Clarence C. Hamlin, Republican National Committeeman, that the Senate investigating committee come to the State at once to look into asserted corruption.

Mr. Hamlin yesterday wrote to Senator Gerald P. Nye, chairman of the committee, saying "it is being openly charged, and I believe with much foundation, that an effort is being made to purchase the Republican Senatorship in this State."

The request for the investigation did not name any one candidate, specifically, but Mr. Hamlin is supporting the candidacy of George H. Shaw against William V. Hodges.

MEMBERSHIP IN CLUB PLUGHOFF'S ESTATE

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 28. (Exclusive)—The entire estate of Albert D. Plughoff, automobile company executive shot to death recently by his superior and close friend in business, J. W. Leavitt, Los Angeles and San Francisco automobile dealer, consisted of a $2500 membership in a gun club. Such was the surprising testimony today of Plughoff's widow, Myrtle Ruby Plughoff, as the will was admitted to probate.

OIL FIGHT WRIT WON BY JULIAN

Temporary Order Delays Action by Oklahoma in Proration Dispute

OKLAHOMA CITY (Okla.) Aug. 28. (AP)—A writ of prohibition preventing the State Corporation Commission from taking action against the C. C. Julian Oil and Royalty Company in its enforcement of the State oil proration order was issued here today by Charles W. Mason, chief justice of the State Supreme Court.

The writ is returnable September 2, when arguments will be heard on a request to make it permanent.

The order of the commission prescribes that the Oklahoma City field can produce only 8¼ per cent of its potential production. The commission cited Julian for asserted violation of the order along with sixty-one other companies and set September 8 as the date for hearing.

John Head, attorney for Julian, former Los Angeles producer, said the company has $100,000 in oil lands now being developed. He charged a conspiracy in the shipping of oil from the city field.

RICH RANCHER HELD INSANE IN SLAYNIG

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 28. (AP)—Warren R. Dutton, wealthy Mendocino county rancher, was found not guilty by reason of insanity today by a Superior Court jury which had tried him on a charge of slaying Robert E. Arnolde, 26 years of age, taxi driver, here last May. The jury deliberated nearly two hours. Superior Judge Trabuco ordered Dutton confined in the Napa State Hospital for the Insane.

The rancher claimed worry over his wife's asserted infidelity had unbalanced his mind and was responsible for his unprovoked assault of Arnolde, whom he shot to death while riding in the latter's cab.

PACIFIC LINER OPENS SERVICE TO EUROPE

PORTLAND (Or.) Aug. 28. (AP)—The steamship Jefferson Myers left the Columbia River today marking the official start of the new Pacific-Atlantic Steamship Company's service between Pacific Coast ports and European harbors. K. D. Dawson, president of the new steamship line, exchanged greetings yesterday by telephone with Phillip Runciman, managing director of Runciman, Ltd., London, United Kingdom representatives of the new line. Dawson said the Jefferson Myers sailed via San Francisco and Los Angeles, and will leave the latter port September 2. Sister ships, he said, will follow every twenty-six days.

Grief Overcomes Actor's Widow

CHANEY BORNE TO TOMB

Small Group of Friends Hears Noted Film Actor Eulogized as "True" and "Kind"

They placed Lon Chaney in his last resting place yesterday—placed him there reverentially with hands that trembled as gentle tears dropped upon them. A little handful of those who were nearest and dearest to the great character actor in life surrendered him to the silence of the tomb at Forest Lawn Memorial Park, and thus wrote the end to a career as spectacular and arresting as any in the annals of motion pictures.

The entombment took place an hour after simple but impressive services at 2 p.m. in the mortuary chapel of Cunningham & O'Connor at 1031 South Grand avenue. There in the presence of but a few hundred of his intimates the body of "the man of a thousand faces" reposed in a silver-plated casket of solid bronze, as the services were solemnized in tribute to his memory.

CROWD ILL-BEHAVED

Outside the funeral parlors in the street police shoved and pushed with a crowd of several hundred idly curious. Scattered about in the throng were many giggling, chattering girls and women, and not a few men whose conduct was decidedly ill-behaved and frivolous.

The disgraceful demeanor continued as the pall-bearers brought the casket into the street. They stared and pointed rudely as the weeping widow came forth. Finally the throng surged through the police lines in a public demonstration of incivility not heretofore seen in Los Angeles.

SERVICES WITHOUT POMP

They were wholly devoid of pomp—the services—as Mr. Chaney himself would have decreed them and as the widow had requested in deference to the tastes she knew so well. Two musicians, Jack and Sam Feinberg, who had supplied the inspirational music on most of the Chaney sets in the studios, played "Dear Old Pal o' Mine" from a flower-banked retreat; then muted their violins as Lieutenant-Commander H. S. Dyer, United States Marine Reserves, chaplain of the San Diego marine base, arose to deliver the eulogy.

The military clergyman prefaced his tribute by reading I Corinthians, xv, xx-cviii, beginning, "Now is Christ risen from the dead" and ending, "Oh, Death, where is thy sting; oh, grave, where is thy victory?" He then reviewed briefly the life of the departed actor, sounding his praises for the two

TWO NAMED BY PORTER CONFIRMED

Council Approves Line for Humane Commission and Hall as Defender

Mayor Porter's nominations of Arthur L. Line as a member of the Humane Commission, and Frederick M. Hall as City Public Defender, both were confirmed yesterday by the City Council, but a long argument over Line ensued.

Councilman Webster made a vigorous attack upon the commission's method of executing dogs, declaring that the system of forcing an automobile exhaust into a chamber really "chokes" them to death. He was supported by Councilman Williams, while Councilman Ingram defended the commission. In the end, Webster and Williams alone voted against the confirmation. Line was reappointed.

Hall takes office September 1, succeeding Ernest Orfila, resigned. The position is under civil service.

DUNCAN FEUD FIRES WANE

Rex Lease Nurses Black Eye Given by Vivian's Brother but will Not Renew Fight

A truce between Rex Lease, motion-picture actor, and members of the Duncan family appeared probable last night in the aftermath of a Hollywood cafe battle in which the actor received a drubbing from Harold Duncan in retaliation for having slapped Vivian Duncan several weeks ago.

Lease, in seclusion in Hollywood waiting for a black eye to clear up so he can go before the cameras again, announced he is "all washed up with the Duncans" and he trusts they will leave him undisturbed in the future.

Young Duncan feels that he has avenged the blow against his sister, but he appears quite willing to renew the battle any time Lease wishes. Otherwise he has no offensives planned.

The latest engagement in the Lease-Duncan feud occurred in the McHuron Grill on Hollywood Boulevard when the two met Wednesday night.

The actress's brother was there with his father, S. H. Duncan, and Alan McNeil, a director. They were seated at a table when Lease and Emory Duncan, another director, passed on their way leaving the cafe. Duncan says Lease sneered at him, but Lease denies that.

A moment later young Duncan stepped up to Lease and landed a smashing left to the actor's eye. There was a general scuffle, to the bewilderment of patrons, and the upsetting of tables and chairs.

When they were separated Lease was taken away to be washed and Duncan went back to his table.

"I didn't know who he was until McNeil told me," Duncan said. "Then I went to him and knocked him down. When he was on the floor I had a vision of him striking my sister. Well, I'm glad there was someone there to separate us. It might have been worse for Lease."

Lease said he did not know Duncan, either, and that he made no resistance, for he did not wish to prolong the brawl in a public place, fearing adverse publicity. He said he principally wanted to get away from the place.

"I am all washed up with the Duncans now," Lease said. "If

SCHOOL GAINS TO BOOST TAX

Levy for County will Go Up 5 Cents Per $100

State Law Specifies Amount for Each Pupil

Supervisors Give Details of Budget Paring

Los Angeles county's total tax rate for the fiscal year 1930-31 for general and special purposes will be $1.73 on every $100 of assessed valuation of property, 5 cents higher than last year.

The increase comes in the school rate outside incorporated cities in the county. Last year it was 45 cents. This year it will be 50 cents, the raise being caused by a 10 per cent increase in the school population.

Announcement of the total county tax rate was made yesterday by Supervisor Wright, chairman of the Budget Committee of the Board of Supervisors, who is busy preparing the tax rate figures for official adoption by the board September 2.

FIXED BY LAW

The school tax rate is the only one which will be increased, all the others for general and specific purposes being the same as last year. It is the one rate over which the Board of Supervisors has not absolute control. The amount of money to be raised per pupil in all high school and junior college districts is set State law, hence an increased school population means a raise in the tax rate for school purposes.

After cutting and slashing at the total figures of the tentative budget listing proposed expenditures for the coming year, totaling $62,729,789, the board was successful in lopping off sufficient amounts to keep the tax rate for general county purposes down to 88 cents, the same as last year. The rates for specific purposes, including flood control, library and roads in unincorporated territory were also kept the same as last year.

FIGURES COMPARED

Following is the table of the figures this year compared with last:

	1929	1930
General purposes	.88	.88
Roads	.20	.20
Flood Control	.10	.10
Libraries	.05	.05
Schools	.45	.50
Total	$1.68	$1.73

The reductions made by the board in the preliminary budget, to keep the tax rates the same as last year, were accomplished in the face of a decreased valuation on property in Los Angeles county amounting to 10 per cent. This deprives the county of more than $1,000,000 in revenue. The county, however, this year, will have some revenue from sources other than taxes, including $217,000 received from the sale of the old Hall of Justice Building to the city in the extension of Spring street and a $2,000,000 surplus from last year from the general fund.

BUDGET DETAILS

The figures of the final county budget as adopted by the board for 1930-31, general and specific purposes, is $56,377,015 as against $62,729,789 in the tentative document, the total reductions being $6,352,774. While the budget was officially adopted several days ago the figures were made public yesterday for the first time.

The totals given out by Supervisor Wright yesterday show:

Deductions from budget	$5,256,075.00
Additions to budget	1,120,300.21
Net reductions	4,135,774.79
Add sale of old Hall of Justice	217,000
Add surplus (general fund) ..	2,000,000.00
Total reduction of budget requirement (general county funds only)	$6,352,774.79

Heavy cuts were made in the preliminary budget on funds set aside for the proposed new institutional buildings, including a new nurses' home at the General Hospital, new infirmary building at the County Farm and a new service building at Juvenile Hall. The new buildings, while badly needed, will not be built until financial conditions are better for the taxpayers, members of the board stated.

DISTRICT TAX RATES ADOPTED BY COUNCIL

The tax rates for the eleven districts into which the city is divided were adopted yesterday by the City Council, immediately upon submission by City Controller Myers.

The rate in District No. 1, the old city, is $1.60, representing a decrease of 3 cents from last year. The other districts more or less conform the highest being District No. 8, Eagle Rock, $1.68, and the lowest No. 11, Green Meadows Addition, $1.55. The rate varies due to different bond charges, many of them acquired prior to annexation.

In the old city, general purpose bonds increased by 1⅓ cents and the St. Francis Dam refunding bonds cost 2½ cents, while the harbor department and the Bureau of Water Works and Supply this year

MAN HELD IN ROBBERY LINKED TO OLD MURDER

A solitary fingerprint resurrected from the archives of the police department yesterday linked a recently arrested robbery suspect to the slaying of a man during a burglary here more than three years ago. The prisoner involved, according to police, is booked as Percy Eberly. He is in the County Jail awaiting trial on robbery charges. He was rebooked last night on charges of murder and robbery.

On the night of April 8, 1927, police records disclose, a burglar entered the home of Dr. M. A. Hatch at 2149 Echo Park avenue, and after locking Dr. Hatch in a closet sat down in the darkened house to await the arrival of Mrs. Hatch, whom he evidently knew to be carrying about $400 in receipts from a dance academy she operated. Presently Mrs. Hatch entered, accompanied by her son, E. M. Hatch. As the burglar leveled his gun at the mother and son, young Hatch leaped at him. During the struggle the burglar fired and Hatch fell with several bullets in his body. He died a few days later.

Although he escaped and no trace of him ever was found, the killer left a clew—one fingerprint on the polished surface of the closet door behind

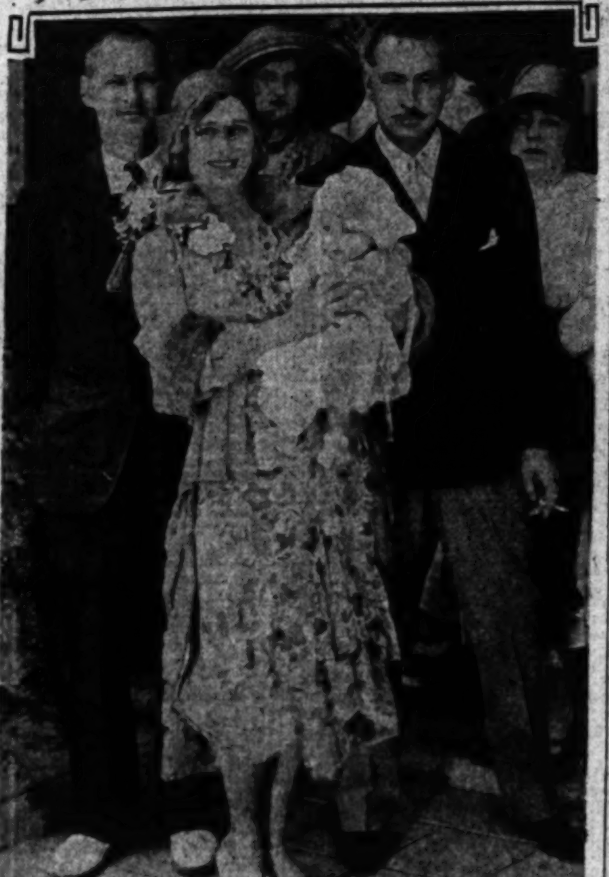
BARRYMORE BABY CHRISTENED

Thespian Families United in Her Name



Principals in Church Ceremony
After the christening of Dolores Ethel Mae Barrymore, 4-months-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Barrymore. The four principals of the christening party, Lionel Barrymore, the godfather; Dolores Costello Barrymore, the mother; Dolores Ethel Mae, the center of attention, and John Barrymore, the father, with friends who witnessed the ceremony.

THE 4-months-old daughter of two of America's foremost theatrical families, Dolores Ethel Mae Barrymore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Barrymore (Dolores Costello,) was christened yesterday morning. The baptismal ceremony was conducted at St. Andrew's Church in Pasadena with the members of the family and a few close friends in attendance.

Lionel Barrymore, the baby's uncle, stood as godfather while Ethel Colt, daughter of Ethel Barrymore, being unable to come out from New York for the ceremony, was the baby's godmother by proxy.

The Barrymore baby's name is a combination of family names: Dolores for her mother, Ethel for her aunt, Ethel Barrymore, and Mae in remembrance of Mrs. Barrymore's mother, Mrs. Maurice Costello.

DR. WOOD'S CHARGES SUSTAINED

Civil Service Commission Upholds Hospital Head in Dr. Hohanshelt Case

Charges of Dr. N. N. Wood, superintendent of the Los Angeles county General Hospital against Dr. Anna S. Hohanshelt, accusing her of insubordination and disloyalty, were sustained late yesterday by the County Civil Service Commission.

The report, which will go to the Board of Supervisors, says the decision of the commission in upholding the charges of Dr. Wood is in nowise to reflect upon the professional skill and ability of Dr. Hohanshelt as a physician.

Dr. Hohanshelt was given a hearing before the commission, comprised of George C. Mattison, president; Rev. Warren Mottern and James K. Reid, on July 24.

Specific charges of disloyalty and insubordination were filed against Dr. Hohanshelt, former chief resident surgeon of the hospital. Dr. Wood accused her of lack of cooperation with other members of the staff.

In her answer to the superintendent, Dr. Hohanshelt criticised the business administration of the hospital and accused Dr. Wood of removing her to make a place for an old army friend.

Inquest Today in Zoo Death Case

An inquest will be conducted in the Coroner's office at 10 a.m. today into the fatal mauling of Alfred Hill, 12 years of age, by a tiger at Luna Park Zoo Wednesday night.

The boy, who lived at 873 Paola street, and several companions had unwittingly strayed into the den of the cat, which tore his head with its claws. Alfred was taken to Georgia-street Hospital, where his mother submitted to a blood transfusion in the hope of saving his life. The boy died soon afterward, however.

PARKING LIMIT PROTESTED

The Universal Pictures Corporation yesterday protested to the City Council against the establishment of one-hour parking limit in Lankershim Boulevard between the interurban tracks and the bridge. The protest was referred to the Traffic and Street Lighting Committee.

Rites Conducted for C. N. Howard

Funeral services were conducted Wednesday for Charles N. Howard, pioneer in the auto-parking business here, who died unexpectedly last Sunday while at the wheel of his automobile at Lake Arrowhead. Mr. Howard was buried at Forest Lawn Memorial Park, Glendale, following services at the Wee Kirk o' the Heather. Dr. John Snape, pastor of Temple Baptist Church, officiated.

Mr. Howard was 63 years of age and had lived in California thirty-seven years. He came to Los Angeles in 1913, after having been in business for twenty years in Chico. With the growing need of automobile parking space, he organized the firm of Howard & Nunn, operators of about seventy-five parks in the city.

Besides his widow, Mrs. Arnelda Howard, Mr. Howard leaves four brothers and one sister.

SETBACK LINES FIXED

The general ordinance establishing setback lines in Barrington avenue between Montana avenue and Pico Boulevard was adopted yesterday by the City Council, as well as the ordinances of intention for the improvement of One Hundred Ninth Place between Broadway and Figueroa street, and for the improvement of Denker avenue from Eighty-fifth street to Manchester avenue.

KEATON'S MOTIVE QUOTED

Story Told Police by Slayer of Flint Read to Jury Which will Decide Sanity Issue

"I lost a lot of money on some stock of a local bank and they told me that Motley Flint was to blame." This statement contained in a police stenographer's notes and made by Frank D. Keaton, slayer of the retired banker, and now on trial before Superior Judge Schauer on a sanity hearing, was the motive for the killing, according to Dep. Dist.-Attys. Burgess and Russell, who are prosecuting the case.

Two of Keaton's statements, taken down in shorthand by police stenographers shortly after the stock speculator had walked into Superior Judge Collier's courtroom and shot Flint down as he left the witness stand after giving testimony in a civil action on July 14, went to the jury of six women and six men late yesterday afternoon in the sanity hearing.

The first statement, many pages long, according to E. J. Bechtel, who transcribed it, was made less than an hour after the shooting. The second, transcribed by F. J. Sullivan, was given some hours later after Keaton had been returned to the scene of the slaying by the police detectives. Both of them are rambling accounts of what led up to the shooting.

As read by Russell to the jury the second statement gives what the prosecution claims to have been the motive that caused Keaton to seek out Flint and murder him. Some forty-five shares of bank stock, according to Keaton's statement, dropped more than $100 a share. The stock came to him, according to his account, at the death of a former wife. He was told, he declared, that Flint was to blame for the drop.

In other portions of the two statements Keaton said that he went to the courtroom to attempt to obtain jury service and there Flint was pointed out to him. As Flint was leaving the courtroom Keaton declared, "I got a pain in my head." Later, he told the police officers, he learned that he had shot the former banker.

Defense Counsel Paul B. D'Orr and Thomas Reynolds closed the attempt to prove Keaton insane by

MAYOR RECALLS POWER NOMINEE

Fleming's Name as Scofield Successor Withdrawn

Question Raised as to Attorney's Residence

Ousted Member Writes Letter to Council

Mayor Porter late yesterday afternoon withdrew from the City Council his nomination of Edward J. Fleming, an attorney, to succeed to the vacancy on the Board of Water and Power Commissioners created by the summary dismissal of E. M. Scofield. This dismissal, however, needs the approval of the Council.

The Water and Power Committee, Councilmen Jacobson, Cooke and Williams, had scheduled a public hearing for yesterday afternoon, but due to an extended session of the Council, this meeting was postponed until next Tuesday afternoon.

SCOFIELD LETTER

Meanwhile, the committee had before it a letter from Scofield, now in the high Sierras, in which he vigorously attacks Mayor Porter's actions. He says harmony can come only if Mayor Porter appoints "a board consisting of all friends or all enemies of the department," and intimates that Commissioners Brooks and Johnson are "enemies." Scofield has allied himself with Dr. John R. Haynes, president of the board, to work for the aggrandizement of the power bureau at the expense of the water bureau.

Scofield then sets forth what he terms five ways and means by which the "enemies" of the power bureau can handicap the bureau. In his letter he does not at all concern himself with the water bureau.

WITHDRAWAL ASKED

"I have nothing to say," was Mayor Porter's comment, in regard to Scofield's letter. At the same time he evaded questions about the withdrawal of Fleming's name. An hour later it was withdrawn. Fleming filed a letter with the Mayor asking for the withdrawal, inasmuch as there is a question of his being an elector. His home is in San Marino. Lately he has been residing at the Rosslyn.

An effort to suspend the rules and confirm the renomination of Haynes met with failure yesterday in the Council. Eight members voted to suspend the rules but ten votes were needed. The confirmation will come up after one week in the normal routine.

Mayor Porter yesterday issued a long formal statement in which he stated it is his purpose to work for harmony in his commissions.

ENDURANCE PLANE CREW COMPLETED

R. V. Howard, Radio Man, Joins Mendell-Reinhart for Flight Here

R. V. Howard, Western Air Express radio expert, will be the third man in the Mendell-Reinhart air refueling endurance contest crew, scheduled to take off from Grand Central Air Terminal September 7, it was announced yesterday by airline officials.

Loren Mendell and Pete Reinhart, former endurance champions, are grooming an Albatross high-winged monoplane, powered by a Wright Whirlwind 300-horsepower engine, for the flight they hope will keep them in the air a month. This would shatter the O'Brine-Jackson record of 647h. 28m. 30s., set at St. Louis, Mo.

The two local pilots established a world's record last year in the Angeleno over Margaret Perry's Airport in Culver City. A special soundproof booth in their present ship will enable the crew to broadcast news of the flight in the air. Four broadcasts are scheduled during every twenty-four hours the craft is aloft.

The same day of the scheduled take-off Mendell will appear in Federal court here to have his trial date set on charges to which he pleaded not guilty of attempting to smuggle Japanese from Mexico into the United States by air. It is expected by Richard Cantillon, his attorney, that trial date will be set far enough in advance to allow time for the proposed endurance grind.

The Lancer

MY WANDERING feet started out in the direction of Bodie, the old ghost town.

It turned out to be the most interesting automobile trip I have made in California.

I will pass it on to some other fellow—or fellowess—with wandering feet.

THE JOSHUA COUNTRY

We started on a Thursday afternoon—San Fernando—up through the lands of the old mission—hay trucks booming down the paved highway—Hoot Gibson's transplanted Wild West ranch—up the long slope to Antelope Valley—Joshua trees standing gaunt against the desert—county water carts giving drink to thirsty trees by the roadside—lively little desert towns—Mojave, where they say the wind blows so hard the chickens can't keep their feathers on—

FORGOTTEN TRAGEDIES

We turn off to the right and whirl along a long gray ribbon road toward Owens River Valley.

We shoulder into the mountains—Red Rock Canyon, which is like a slice of the Painted Desert transplanted—mountains of lovely pastel colors against the sky line—"purple and ash of roses, cinnamon, umber and dun"—to quote Kipling—old, old hills—the oldest in the United States—the country of forgotten volcanoes—great ridges of lava—it is as though a divine hand had stopped rivers of red-hot volcanic spume with a gesture—mile after mile of level plane sprinkled with great lava rock—some time there occurred here one of the mightiest cataclysms of nature—one grand rough house—there is one hill whose sides are hot to the touch . . .

VASQUEZ LOOK-OUT

Over there Mt. Whitney rears against the hot desert sky—to the south and east is Death Valley—over there a sharp headland where the bandit Vasquez watched for the ore trains from Cerro Gordo.

BLOOD DRENCHED

This is a blood-stained country—Owens Lake, now nearly dried up, where the whites drove the Piutes to drown—Charley's Butte, where a negro servant made the supreme sacrifice to save his master and his master's wife and children—he put them on the horses, tried to lasso the last one for himself, missed and was tortured to death by the Piutes.

NEW TREASURE HUNT

Now and then we meet prospectors trailing after their packed burros. One has abandoned the search for gold; he says he spends his time looking for bottles that have turned hyacinth color in the desert sun. They are the fad of the moment in Hollywood. They assay better than ore.

BIG MINNIE

Independence—a colorful, tree-shaded little town. It was one of the outposts of the white men in the long, bloody Indian wars. Fort Independence is now a crumbled trace of an old wall.

In the jail at Independence Big Minnie and Jim Sport, two Piutes, await trial for the murder of a young World War hero—Logan Watson. He was a Piute boy who fought for the white men; then slipped back to the old Indian ways. There was a grand pow-wow party at the old sweat baths at Big Pine. Watson's skull was

MANIAC HUNTED IN DUAL MURDER

Clews Link Madman to Crime at Ensenada Beach

Trail Followed to Serra on Report from Woman

Man Fitting Description of Suspect Seen There

Search for a mysterious wild-eyed stranger, whom Mexican and American authorities believe to be the insane killer of 23-year-old Lois Kentle and her Pasadena fiance, Francis Conlon, in their romantic beach retreat near Ensenada, was under way on both sides of the international line last night.

The authorities are reported to be in possession of clews that will link the presumed madman directly with the brutal stabbing of the young man and woman and the burial of their bodies in shallow graves in the beach sand.

The search for the mysterious stranger centered at Serra when Mrs. Harry Ainsworth, 6515 Fifth avenue, reported to acting Captain of Detectives Condaffer and Detective Lieutenant Sanderson yesterday that she, her 15-year-old daughter, De Etta, and her daughter's girl chum, Dorothy Bryant, were accosted by the man on the Serra beach three weeks ago.

DE WILDE'S STORY CHECKED

Deputy Sheriff Jack Tillery of San Diego county flew here yesterday from San Diego with Maj. Louis Cubrillas and L. Tenorio, Mexican officers, to obtain specimens of Conlon's and Miss Kentle's handwriting to compare with the signature one of the couple inscribed on Mexican immigration records when the couple went over the border last Sunday.

The southern officer declared that John De Wilde, at whose wedding Conlon was best man two months ago, will be requestioned in connection with the case. De Wilde, according to Tillery, said Conlon signed the border record, while comparison of signatures obtained here indicate it was the girl who wrote "Francis and Lois Conlon" in signing for a ten-day permit to remain in Mexico.

Mrs. Ainsworth made her statement after reading in The Times the description of the man who last Sunday picked up Mr. and Mrs. William De Tarr, 717 South Westlake avenue, at San Juan Capistrano and took them to Tia Juana—threatening to cut them up and bury them in the sand.

GIRLS ANNOYED

His description and that of the old touring car bearing a Utah license fitted with that given to police by the De Tarrs. The woman declared that the man—about 40 years of age, evidently a dark-complexioned American, with black hair streaked with gray, and a gold front tooth—made his appearance at her camp on the beach on the 7th inst. Repeatedly he came back, Mrs. Ainsworth stated, attempting to engage the girls in conversation and requesting that they go down the beach with him.

The trio of women were warned that the man was demented and dangerous, by some young men who are employed at a gasoline station and in a restaurant at Serra, Mrs. Ainsworth told police. She said that she gathered he was a local character there.

EVIDENTLY INSANE

Kenneth Groff, cafe employee, located by The Times last night in Serra, admitted that he is one of the men who warned the trio of women about the dark stranger.

"The man evidently was insane," Groff said. "He had been hanging around the beach for some time, but he is not a native down here and I haven't seen his car.

"The last time I saw him he was wearing dirty white beach pants and sort of a sailor cap with a visor on it. I did not like his looks and warned Mrs. Ainsworth and the girls. I believe he was afraid to return to this beach when he found out some of the men here were watching him."

The point where the mystery man invited the De Tarrs into his automobile is several miles inland from Serra.

POLICE CREDIT STORY

Police were of the belief that the man described by the informants is the same and announced that they may go to Serra to make a further check there and at San Juan Capistrano, a few miles up the Inland Highway from Serra.

Mrs. De Tarr yesterday feared for her life after joining her husband in informing police of their harrowing Sunday experience. The dark stranger, the De Tarrs said, displayed a knife on the Tia Juana trip and told them he had hangouts all the way down the coast—one that he liked best at Torrey Pines, sixteen miles north of San Diego. When he finally let them out of his car at Tia Juana, they reported, he wanted to meet them again and take a tour through Mexico. They fled.

Tillery arrived at Western Air Express field yesterday afternoon with Maj. Louis Cubrillas, representative of Gov. Tapia of Lower California, in whose territory the double slaying was committed, and L. Tenorio, special Mexican government police officer.

Accompanied by Condaffer and Defective-Lieutenant Pilkas, they went to Conlon's room, where he resided alone at 339 North Alta Vista street, Monrovia. There the officers obtained specimens of Conlon's signature.

Maj. Cubrillas flew back to San Diego, but the other officers working on the case announced they were going to question Miss Kentle's mother, Mrs. Mary Kentle, with whom the girl resided at 1246 North Berendo street. They expected to scrutinize a copy of the girl's signature there, to further establish the statement by Mexican authorities that the co-ed signed for herself and her fiance as Francis and Lois Conlon when they crossed the border in Conlon's small coupe.

RELATIVES FACE QUIZ

Local investigation yesterday marked the first time that Los Angeles homicide squad officers had entered the case. They declared that relatives of the girl, the mother, a brother and three sisters, all residing here, will be questioned. They also planned last night to question Conlon's only known relative, Miss Margaret Moran, his aunt, with whom he resided at 1100 Mar Vista avenue, Pasadena, until being promoted three weeks ago to the managership of the Monrovia Mathews Paint Store.

Miss Kentle met him when they both worked at the Pasadena branch. The girl was a member of the art department there.

Mexican officials still are of the opinion that the double murder may have been an act of jealousy or revenge. The officers who came here yesterday said the girl's body had been placed carefully in a scooped-out sand couch and her hands folded over her breast. Conlon's body, they said, evidently had been hurled into a shallow pit.

AUTO TRACKS TRACED

Tracks of a larger automobile than Conlon's were found leading from near the tent to an inland road. Evidence around the tent the local couple had pitched on the beach indicated they were slain in the tent about 4 a.m. Tuesday. Conlon's hunting knife was missing from its scabbard. He was believed to have had $100 when he left on his vacation. No money was found on his body, according to Mexican authorities.

Funeral services for Miss Kentle will be conducted today at 9 a.m. from the Wee Kirk o' the Heather, Forest Lawn Memorial Park. No arrangements were announced for Conlon's services. Both bodies were returned from San Diego yesterday.

Vivian Duncan, playing in Chicago with her sister, Rosetta, announced in dispatches that she is "tickled to death" because her brother took up her feud with Lease.

With much hand clapping and cries of "Great!" the actress said: "That's the best news I've had since I was married. That's the kind of a brother to have. I'm mighty proud of him."

Young Duncan revealed that this is the second fistic affray he has had in McHuron's Grill. About three months ago he had a brawl there with an income tax expert over some financial difficulty relating to his sisters.

Police Officer Arraigned for Killing of Boy

Luther R. Weyant, Los Angeles police officer charged with murder for the fatal shooting of Willie Teems, Negro youth, was arraigned before Superior Judge Wood yesterday. Judge Wood ordered the officer to return to court next Tuesday to enter his plea.

Witnesses to the shooting charge Officer Weyant shot the Negro while the latter was fleeing from a raid on a dice game at Watts on the 2nd inst.

BANKER POSTS BAIL

George L. Browning, banker, appeared before the District Court of Appeal yesterday and posted $1000 bail to insure his appearance at a habeas corpus hearing Tuesday to answer to a charge, preferred by his divorced wife, that he kidnaped toeir son, Thurlough, 9 years of age.

MADHOUSE CAFE GIVEN NEW CHANCE

Abatement Proceedings Withheld on Promise to Correct Conditions

Closing his investigation into charges of vice conditions asserted to have existed in the Madhouse Cafe, 617 South Main street without the interference of police, William McKay, chief of the District Attorney's complaint department, yesterday advised Mayor Porter, Police Chief Steckel and the Police Commission that abatement proceedings against the establishment will be withheld for a sixty-day probationary period upon the promise of the proprietors to correct the conditions.

The investigation was ordered after several Main-street merchants complained that conditions existing in the restaurant were such that the volume of business in adjoining addresses was greatly depressed.

During a hearing on the case testimony was given by investigators that on numerous occasions they had purchased liquor in the place. It also was charged that the place was frequented by bootleggers and women of questionable character.

Since the inquiry, these conditions have been corrected, according to McKay, and no abatement action will be taken if the place continues to operate on a satisfactory basis.

The investigation is the first of a series that will be made by the District Attorney's office in cooperation with police to curb asserted vice conditions in Los Angeles.

High Humidity Blankets Heat

High humidity was coupled with a maximum temperature of 90 deg. here yesterday, according to the United States Weather Bureau records which showed 42 per cent at noon. At 5 a.m. the reading showed 80 per cent humidity and at the same hour yesterday afternoon the reading was 43 per cent.

Last year a maximum of 92 deg. was registered on August 28, with a minimum temperature of 69 deg. Yesterday's minimum was 66 deg. Continued fair weather is promised with fog along the coast for today and Saturday.

Normal rainfall to date is .02 of an inch. No rainfall has been registered since the start of the official year on July 1.

Actors Accused in Suits on Tax

Many persons who failed to make out proper income-tax returns, according to Collector of Internal Revenue Welch, were made defendants in income-tax liens filed yesterday in the United States District Court by Mr. Welch's office. Among them were six motion-picture actors and actresses.

John Barrymore was cited for asserted failure to pay $28.21 additional tax for 1929; Norman Kerry for $140.08 for 1929; Olive Borden, $519.95, 1929; Ford Sterling, $1066.42, 1927; Alice Day, $306.59, 1929, and William Collier, Jr., $284.55, 1929.

FUNERAL RITES FOR WRITER TOMORROW

Through an error the funeral services for Mrs. Elizabeth Baker Bohan, author, who died last Wednesday, were announced in The Times as having been set for 2 p.m. today. The services should have been announced for 2 p.m. tomorrow. They will be conducted at the home of Mrs. Bohan's son, Edmund R. Bohan, 2315 North Vermont avenue, with Rev. Thomas H. Harper officiating. The body will be cremated and the ashes placed in Woodlawn Cemetery.

SUSPECT SEEKS FREEDOM WRIT

Joseph R. Adkins Applies for Habeas Corpus

Held as Fugitive Convict in Oklahoma Murder

Jail Escape Thirty-three Years Ago Asserted

Application for a writ of habeas corpus for the release of Joseph R. Adkins, arrested by deputy sheriffs last Wednesday as a fugitive from Oklahoma for the last thirty-three years, was made yesterday by his attorney in the court of Superior Judge Aggeler. Hearing on the application is scheduled for today at 4 p.m.

When he learned last night that a writ for Adkins's release is sought, Capt. Bright, head of the Sheriff's homicide detail, stated that he will seek a fugitive complaint from the District Attorney's office today.

The question as to whether Adkins may be considered as a State or Federal prisoner arose yesterday when it was recalled that at the time John R. Atchison, who officers assert Adkins to be, escaped from the Canadian County Jail while under a life sentence for murder, Oklahoma was a Territory not yet admitted to the Union as a State.

Word was received here yesterday that Oklahoma officers will leave for Los Angeles today with requisition papers asking for Adkins's return to the eastern State. Meanwhile papers pertaining to his arrest here are en route east, Bright said.

Adkins was arrested by Deputy Sheriffs Brewster and Bell on information supplied by Harry Atchison of Los Angeles to the effect that he had been threatened by Adkins, who, he asserted was his brother, John R. Atchison, who escaped from the Oklahoma authorities on December 9, 1897 while under a life sentence for the killing of August Coonts, cattle rancher, during a range dispute in October, 1897.

TWO DEAD, ONE INJURED IN SHOOTING

Jealous Husband Kills 'Other Man,' Wounds Wife and Takes Own Life

Two men are dead and a woman is in a critical condition at Georgia-street Receiving Hospital as result of a jealous shooting affray last night in an apartment at 431 West Sixty-third Place.

The dead men are George F. Green of 1409 Maple avenue and Guy Davis, 31 years of age, who lived where the shooting occurred. Mrs. Betty Green is badly wounded with a bullet in her neck fired by the husband after he fatally wounded Davis and before he turned the weapon on himself.

J. W. Swind, a room-mate of Davis, who was a witness to the shooting, told Detective Lieutenant Mozena that the members of the party had been drinking home-brew at Green's home and had gone to Davis's apartment to continue the party.

Swind said Green previously had asserted to him that Davis was trying to break up his home. Shortly afterward, Swind said, Green began flourishing a .38 caliber revolver and fired the shots that wounded his wife and Davis. Then he turned the weapon on himself.

Police surgeons say Mrs. Green has a chance to recover. Bodies of the two men were taken to the County Morgue.

On July 1, last, Eberly was taken in custody as a suspect in connection with a recent pay roll robbery. At his preliminary hearing he was held to answer and placed in the County Jail.

Yesterday, continuing his comparison of old fingerprints with those of prisoners of recent date, Police Fingerprint Expert Barlow placed one of Eberly's fingerprints alongside that taken from the door in Dr. Hatch's home. The two are identical, he reported to Capt. Condaffer.

Rites Today for Veteran Pastor

Funeral services for Rev. Thomas P. Swift, veteran Episcopal clergyman, who died Wednesday at his home in La Crescenta, will be conducted at 10 a.m. today at St. Paul's Cathedral, 615 South Figueroa street. Interment will be in Forest Lawn Memorial Park.

Mr. Swift had been rector of the Episcopal Church at Tujunga for the last six months. Previously he was in charge of the parish at Wilmington for many years. He was 70 years of age and had resided in Southern California since 1912, coming here from Brooklyn, N. Y. He leaves his widow, a son, Dr. Edward Swift of Glendale, and a daughter, Mrs. Edna Keim of Los Angeles.

Theft Follows Peddler's Call

A half-hour after Mrs. H. L. Richards had told a persistent peddler she would call the police if he did not leave, her home at 6622 Lexington avenue was robbed yesterday. She reported jewels valued at $2000 and $35 in cash had been taken.

Mrs. Richards told police the burglary took place while she was at a neighborhood store. The screen on a rear window had been cut.

SURVEY ENDS ON AQUEDUCT

Engineer Scheduled to File Report on Work Today

All Data Expected to be Ready by This Fall

Weymouth Says Reservoir Storage Space Ample

With the prospects of having all engineering material available within the next two months for the final selection of the route to be followed by the Metropolitan Aqueduct from the Colorado River, Chief Engineer Frank E. Weymouth of the Metropolitan District is scheduled to file today with the District Board of Directors a report announcing the practical completion of all field survey work on the various routes being investigated.

Ample reservoir storage space physically is available for the water to be brought to Southern California cities by the Metropolitan Aqueduct, Chief Engineer Weymouth stated yesterday following a careful checking of the great mass of data collected by his field force.

ROUTES SURVEYED

A number of possible routes for the aqueduct were studied by Weymouth and his engineers. In December of last year these routes together with all of the supporting data were referred to a board of review for recomemndation as to the best and most economical route. The board of review is composed of Thaddeus Merriman, chief engineer of the New York City water system, A. J. Wiley, engineer of Boise, Idaho, and Richard R. Lyman, engineer of Salt Lake City.

These three engineers, following a study of the data, selected four routes and recommended that each of the four be subjected to minute investigation on the ground by engineers of the Metropolitan Water District.

NEW PLANS TALKED

This investigation is nearing a close and it is planned to have the board of review here this fall to make the final selection. Since the original four routes were selected, combinations of these routes with others in various arrangements have been suggested and studied.

Although the proposed gravity route was virtually doomed in the original recommendations of the board of review, further studies were suggested and it is expected that the board when it is here will have something further to say on that route.

FLINT MURDER MOTIVE CITED

returning Mrs. Keaton, who testified as the first witness for her husband, to the witness stand.

"After this terrible thing," declared the woman, "I checked up on my husband's property and bank accounts as well as his stock account and discovered that out of some $30,000 he had just $800 left."

Before Mrs. Keaton closed her husband's case, prosecution counsel completed the cross-examination of Dr. Cecil Reynolds who testified Wednesday that Keaton was insane at the time of the shooting and still is demented. Dr. Reynolds after a somewhat heated cross-examination clung to his opinion that Keaton is insane.

PICTURE BLOCKED

Dr. J. H. Shaefer, assistant autopsy surgeon, was the first prosecution witness. He identified pictures of Flint and then launched into a description of the three bullet wounds inflicted by Keaton. He said that any one of the three would have caused death. An effort by Burgess to place in evidence a photograph of the body showing the three wounds was blocked by objections of the defense.

The revolver used in the slaying together with the bullets extracted from Flint's body also went into the record through the testimony of Capt. E. C. Crossman and then came the two statements made by Keaton. At the close of the court session the first statement, which was introduced after the second, was still to be read to the jury.

Ted Doner Wins Fight Against Paying Alimony

Ted Doner, who a few years ago delighted thousands of theatergoers with his dancing, appeared in Superior Judge Westover's alimony court yesterday to declare he is almost destitute and will never be able to dance again because of injuries received in an automobile accident near San Diego more than a year ago.

Mrs. Peggy Doner, the former dancer's wife, through Attorney Otto Emme, applied for alimony pending the trial of her divorce action. After some questioning she admitted she is making $60 a week as an actress.

Judge Westover held that the husband does not have to pay as the evidence showed the wife is earning more money than he is.

KING'S OLD CAR TO COST COUNTY $257 FREIGHT

A limousine of ancient vintage formerly owned by King George V and used to transport him and his royal family about merry old England will probably be made one of the exhibits at the Los Angeles County Museum in Exposition Park, providing the Board of Supervisors digs down in the county's jeans and produces $257 freight bill due on the machine.

The old automobile, a Daimler-Knight model, series of 1910, is now resting in the basement of the museum. If the freight bill is ratified it will be brought to the light of day and the view of visitors to the institution. The machine is painted a dark maroon, carries five passengers, a driver and a footman. The engine has six cylinders.

King George used the car for himself and family from 1910 to 1924.

According to Sidney T. Graves, chairman of the Board of Supervisors, the freight bill will be paid so that the county can acquire the relic, which, he says, will be as much of a curiosity in years to come as the old California stage coaches are now.

The King's coach was brought to this country several years ago by the Willys-Knight Motor Company and exhibited in various cities of the United States before being brought to the west coast.

LEISURE KILLING PEOPLE, CENTENARIAN'S THEORY

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

PASADENA, Aug. 28.—Modern mothers "don't know much" and giving them the power to vote hasn't improved them a bit, according to Mrs. Eliza Judson Adams of 545 East Claremont street, who will celebrate her 100th birthday tomorrow at the home of one of her twelve grandchildren.

"I've never voted and never belonged to any church because I think women have a big enough job at home and because I could never swear I'd love my neighbors as well as myself," she declared in an interview this afternoon at the home of her granddaughter, Miss Helen B. Smith, with whom she resides.

Hypocrisy and too much leisure are the things that kill people nowadays, the centenarian believed. She ascribes her own longevity to the fact that she has never associated with older people, being content to associate with the younger generation, including her twenty-eight great-grandchildren.

Despite her desire to be with children, she has no use for flapper mothers who spend all their time "painting and powdering just to look nice."

Mrs. Adams is believed by her relatives to be the only woman in this city who clings to the theory that men should boss the world.

"When a man can't carry on the business of the world, including politics, I think he should sell out," she declared.

"The woman's place is to make a real home, but such homes are very scarce in these times. Making a real home is the hardest job in the world, and a woman who does it has no time to mix up in politics.

"In the old days when my mother was churning butter and my father was pulling stumps on our Michigan farm, they had no time to fight. The trouble now is that people work only a few hours a day and the devil finds more work for them later.

"I eat what I want, but pickles and sour-tasting things have always been my favorites. The only thing I've failed to do in keeping my health is exercise and I'm trying to get more of that now."

Mrs. Adams admitted that she was invited by a young aviator to go for a ride, but she confessed she refused when she learned he had been married.

Mrs. Eliza Judson Adams

Born on a farm in Ulster county, New York, August 29, 1830, she went with her parents to Kalamazoo county, Michigan, when she was 6 years of age. After attending the Cedar Park Seminary for Girls in Schoolcraft, Mich., she taught in the rural schools. September 27, 1853, she became the bride of H. Dale Adams, who died in 1914, when Mrs. Adams came to this city.

Her husband was instrumental in inducing Gov. Bagley of Michigan to set aside Arbor Day for general observance.

Only one of Mrs. Adams's four children is living, her son, Dorr Burnham Adams of Albany, Or. The others died in middle age.

Twelve grandchildren will congratulate Mrs. Adams at her birthday party tomorrow at the home of a grandson, Frederick Bradley Wright of 2227 Pepper Drive, Altadena, from 4 to 6 p.m.

Besides Mr. Wright and Miss Smith, the grandchildren include Mrs. Ruth Ford of Galesburg, Mich.; Mrs. Paul Clapp of Galesburg; Mrs. T. E. Sauters of Cleveland, O., and Mrs. C. C. Small and Benjamin, Phillip, Harry, Jack and E. O. Adams, all of this city and Oregon.

DIGGING FOR NEW SCHOOL UNDER WAY

Steam Shovel Starts Work at Site of Projected Military Academy

A construction project expected to set new records for celerity got under way yesterday when steam shovels cleared the way for the foundations of the new Urban School for Boys, a pioneer Los Angeles institution, on Beverly Boulevard, a short distance west of Sepulveda. The Austin Company of California, contractors, by the terms of its contract are called upon to place the keys of the completed principal structures, three in number, in the hands of the president of the school, P. G. McDonnell, in time to open Urban's twenty-seventh year of training boys September 29.

The undertaking is reported to involve an expenditure of $200,000. the three principal buildings, administration, residential and classroom, are two stories in height and of brick and concrete construction. They are patterned after the early architectural concepts of California, featuring patios, exposed galleries and tile roofing.

Cadet John Schumacher, son of Joseph Schumacher and Urban's shortest student, was on hand yesterday morning bright and early, delegated by President McDonnell to signal the steam shovel operator and inaugurate the project on behalf of Urban.

PROTEST HEARING DELAYED

The City Council yesterday continued until September 11 the hearing of protests against the improvement of Lincoln Way between Armadale avenue and Eagle Rock Boulevard. The Council also refused to accept the improvement of Cabrillo avenue between First and Sixth streets, continuing the hearing until September 2.

EVANGELIST ON ROAD TO RECOVERY

Mrs. McPherson Still Weak, Says Her Doctor; Rose Gift Brings Tears

That the crisis of Aimee Semple McPherson's illness has been passed successfully was the statement of her physician, Dr. Edward H. Williams, yesterday. He declared that the pastor of Angelus Temple, who has been ill in a cottage at Las Tunas Beach, while quite weak, is definitely on the road to recovery.

No effort will be made to move her, he said, for several days at least, and possibly not until the first of the week. It is planned to take her to a mountain cottage away from the noise of traffic and surf.

Crashing of the breakers at high tide, directly beneath the McPherson cottage, is proving annoying to the evangelist, her attendants stated yesterday. Temple guards still maintain their vigil in front of the beach cottage. Mrs. Kennedy, mother of Mrs. McPherson, has left the Brentwood Sanatorium, where she was being treated for an asserted broken nose and a facial operation, and has gone to a beach hotel.

At Angelus Temple yesterday prayer services were conducted for the recovery of Mrs. McPherson.

Mrs. Kennedy's "gift of roses" from her daughter, Mrs. McPherson, sent to her at the Brentwood Sanatorium, was "secondhand," it developed yesterday. A nurse, cleaning the room where Mrs. Kennedy had been staying after her departure from the place, inadvertently overturned the basket of roses. The card "from Aimee with love" was attached to the handle of the basket, but when it overturned another card from a doctor fell out. It bore the inscription, according to the nurse, "To Sister, with hopes for a speedy recovery."

Mrs. Kennedy burst into tears, according to report.

LIGHT PROTESTS DENIED

The City Council yesterday denied protests against the installation of lights in Ventura Boulevard between Lankershim and Sepulveda boulevards.

CITY'S PIONEER JEWELER NOTES PASSING OF TIME

James A. Montgomery, pioneer Los Angeles merchant and head of Montgomery Brothers, jewelers, will observe his eightieth birthday anniversary today. He plans to be at his desk as usual.

He came to Los Angeles from Brantford, Canada, in February, 1881.

"My first impression of Los Angeles was a lasting one. I never saw such beauty before in my life. The little town was entirely surrounded by great orchards of peach trees in full bloom. That with orange blossoms made it a beautiful sight. The mountains were green and purple and old Bunker Hill was lush with wildflowers and grass. I said to myself: 'Here is where I want to live,' and I have never been sorry that I decided to come here."

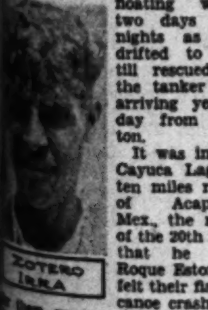
His first little store, a combination of watch repairing and jewelry business, was located on the outskirts of the town, on Spring street, near Main, away out in the country. He came to Los Angeles on one of the first trains to draw into Los Angeles and it took him eight days to make the journey from his home in Canada.

"One day I bought a copy of a new newspaper that was being sold on the streets. It was The Times," he said yesterday. "I have read it ever since."

He was married here in 1888 to Ann Tierney, who is alive, and who plans to help him observe his arrival at the fourscore milestone today. His establishment grew and since its inception has been in seven locations, changing as the center of business moved. It is now at Seventh and Hope streets. Mr. Montgomery has a steady hand and if necessary can yet tinker with the "innards" of a watch. He is one of the oldest Knights Templar in the city and is active in the work of the Immanuel Presbyterian Church.

TANKER SAVES MEXICAN ADRIFT AT SEA ON WEEDS

[illegible] companion couldn't hold out, [illegible] Zotero Irra, Mexican Irishman, [illegible] remains to tell of clinging to floating weeds two days and nights as he drifted to sea till rescued by the tanker Lio, arriving yesterday from Boston.



ZOTERO IRRA

It was in the Cayuca Lagoon, ten miles north of Acapulco, Mex., the night of the 20th inst., that he and Roque Estoralva felt their fishing canoe crash un- [illegible] them on a submerged reef. [illegible] floating lagoon weeds as [illegible] swam the pair were carried to [illegible] the current.

Villagers lighted fires ashore to guide their way, but they couldn't turn. Canoes came in search, but always too far away. Another day and a night passed and they were out in the open sea, still clinging to their weeds. Big ships passed close enough to hail but they were too weakened to shout.

Astoralva's grip loosened and he was swallowed by the sea three hours before the Lio loomed near by. Capt. M. S. Swiber yesterday said he first thought a seal was poking his nose out of the weeds, till a hand went up. He turned his ship around, maneuvered it to the weeds, and, lowering the life boat, lifted the exhausted survivor aboard.

Yesterday at the immigration station Irra was taking off and putting on his shoes and his big black hat, the gift of the crew, which he will proudly show his family when he is shipped back to Mexico.

WOMAN WHO SLEW MATE LOSES PLEA

Mrs. Reynolds Held by Appeal Court to Have Been Sane Day of Crime

Finding that Mrs. Effie Reynolds was not of unsound mind or insane at the time she killed her husband, Alger, by slashing his throat with a butcher knife, Division One, District Court of Appeal, yesterday affirmed the woman's conviction before Superior Judge McComb. Mrs. Reynolds was sentenced to life imprisonment.

The opinion, which was written by Presiding Justice Conrey, points out that the sole ground of appeal relates to the issue of facts raised by the plea of not guilty by reason of insanity, with Mrs. Reynolds contending that the evidence proved she was insane at the time of the offense.

From analysis of the testimony of physicians, however, the decision continues, "it plainly appears that the defendant was not of unsound mind, or insane, in any way or degree that can relieve her from responsibility for the crime committed by her."

Late Models to be Highlight of Radio Show

Thousands of dollars in the latest models of radio reception equipment today will begin moving into Ambassador Auditorium in preparation for the National Radio Show Beautiful, which opens there Monday, to run until the following Saturday night.

Scores of the new models have not yet been displayed publicly, the management of the show stated, and thus are due to make their world premieres at the coming event. Many departures in general appearance of the sets are reported.

All booths have been done in jet black and silver, a new color scheme for the annual exhibition.

DEATH CHARGE OVER AUTO CRASH DROPPED

Manslaughter charges against Robert E. Gruell, 1923 East Fourth street, were dismissed yesterday by Municipal Judge Ballard at the request of Mrs. Roy Seals, 1129 Orme street, wife of his asserted victim. Mrs. Seals told the court that the two men were close friends and that the accident, which occurred at Fifty-first street and Santa Fe avenue on the 1st inst., was unavoidable. Seals was a passenger in Gruell's automobile at the time.

FIRE HERO'S FAMILY SENT NEW FUND CONTRIBUTIONS

Contributions for Mrs. Donald Hugh Miller, widow of the heroic truck driver who sacrificed his life last week to prevent the explosion of a huge oil truck, continued to arrive yesterday and were forwarded to Mrs. Miller at 8969 San Juan street, South Gate.

Before Miller died from burns received in his gallant last act he said:

"I'm not insured. I hope somebody will help my wife and four small children."

The response to his dying hope was started by Harry L. Masser of the Los Angeles Gas and Electric Corporation, who gave $20. Yesterday Stephen G. Snuggs, a druggist at 4401 West Pico street, sent a check for $5, and C. Starr of 649 South Cochran avenue also gave $5 to the fund.

The donors gave their sums with the hope that others would join them in relieving Mrs. Miller's financial burden in her hour of bereavement. She and the four small children are robbed of support by the tragic but heroic death of the husband and father.

Miller was unloading gasoline from a truck when the flames burst about him. Heedless of his own safety he braved the fire to stop the inflow from the truck's tank, but incurred burns that caused his death.

"This poor chap thought first of his duty," Mr. Masser wrote. "He went through the flames to shut off the gasoline so that greater injury would not result."

SON OF FRED NIBLO TO WED MISS HENRY

Fred Niblo, Jr., son of the motion-picture director, Fred Niblo, Sr., appeared yesterday at the marriage license bureau and filed his intention to wed Miss Patricia Henry. He gave his age as 27 years and his profession as a motion-picture writer. Miss Henry is 19 and resides at 159 North Clark Drive, Beverly Hills.

INQUEST IN TRAFFIC DEATH SET FOR TODAY

Inquest into the death of Emmett W. Black, 34 years of age, of 3526 Mentone street, Palms, who was fatally injured in a collision between his automobile and another machine yesterday morning, will be conducted at the Coroner's office at 9:30 a.m. today. Frank Keys of 4809 West Eighteenth street, driver of the other car, according to police, was not held, but will appear at the inquest as a witness. He was not injured, police said.

POLICEMEN SHIFTED TO CURB CRIME

Capt. McCaleb to Head Central Robbery Detail Beginning Next Monday

Captain of Detectives McCaleb, commander of the Wilshire detective bureau, and who, as detective lieutenant specialized for many years in robbery investigations, was ordered by Chief of Detectives Taylor yesterday to take command of the central robbery squad in a special effort to curb this summer's unusual increase in crime. The transfer becomes effective Monday.

Inspector of Detectives Longueven, who has been "filling in" as captain of the squad, has been ordered back to inspector's duty.

Captain of Detectives Cahill, commanding the narcotic detail, will take McCaleb's place in the Wilshire division, while Detective Lieutenant Chitwood, recently assigned to the robbery squad, will assume charge of the narcotic detail. The total number of robberies so far this month stand at 153, an increase of ninety-one when compared with sixty-two for the same period last year, according to statistician's office records. Burglaries this month total 465, an increase of 106 as compared with 359 for the same time last year.

CONTINUOUS PUTT-PUTT

Who will be the first to attempt a baby golf endurance record? That's about the only thing that hasn't been tried.

FACING BOTH WAYS

The Democrats in Ohio named a wet candidate for United States Senator and a dry for Governor. This is what they call catching 'em coming and going. The wet nominee is expected to vote for a repeal of the Volstead Act while the dry will plan its strict enforcement.

ELECTRICITY IN DISEASE

Doctors have reported considerable success in the use of the electric current in the treatment of pneumonia. Anything that can hurl a harpoon into this disease will be richly welcomed by America. It carries fear and dread in its wake and has claimed many notable victims.

THE CLIMBERS

Texas gained 25 per cent in population during the last decade while California advanced at the rate of 65 per cent. With a population of 5,821,272 Texas is the fifth State in the Union. But California now has 5,672,845. At the rate we are gaining we will have passed the Lone Star State in another year. Wow!

MODERN MEXICO

President Ortiz Rubio of Mexico is signing orders whereby practically all the big land holdings of the government are being cut up and split into tracts for communal development with small individual holdings. With a great educational program also under way the country will be able to take care of its own prosperity. The Mexico of the next generation will be worth looking at.

CLEANING NEW YORK

New York City not only seeks to become noiseless, but smokeless. The war on radios is on and now lookouts are being placed in the towers of the tall buildings to locate offenders against the new smoke ordinance. Not only are they curbing the smoke, but they are trying to cut down the smut that envelops the Broadway theaters. New York will become so calm and decent after a while that strangers will prefer to go to Boston for their excitement.

SAFETY FIRST

The national conference on highway safety came out strongly for general legislation which would provide periodical inspection of motor cars. A preliminary survey showed that more than 25 per cent of the cars now running on the streets have imperfect or inadequate brakes. Here is an ever-present hazard that is responsible for many of the worst accidents. Also there are lights to be looked after. If every car had to pass an inspection every six months it might ease up the business of the hospitals.

CAN'T ENTER CANADA

All southern and central European immigrants have been temporarily barred from Canada. This action is the first fruit of our northern neighbor's new policy of "Canada for Canadians." An order has been issued by the dominion government drastically restricting immigration from all parts of the world. Great Britain is given preference, with Sweden second.

If an American goes to Canada to live he must show that he is able to support himself. But it is unlikely that many of our people will migrate thither, as it is generally known that business is finding it harder to make the grade in Canada than in this country.

One reason why Canada has restricted immigration is that there have been more people flocking in there since the war than could be comfortably accommodated. As many as 402,000 were received in a single year.

According to a recent report of the Canadian bureau of statistics, Canada has a population of 9,655,000 in a land area of 3,504,688 square miles, or only 2.7 persons to the square mile. So it has plenty of room for newcomers and they eventually will find homes there in the habitable regions. Doubtless it will not be long before employment improves in Canada, and then immigrants again will be welcome there.

A VOTING-MACHINE LESSON

California and Los Angeles have just been furnished another object lesson, in the slow count of the paper ballots used in Tuesday's primary as compared with the swiftness and ease of learning the result in those parts of the State and county where voting machines were used. San Francisco was complete early Tuesday evening and in Los Angeles the last district to report, where voting machines were used, came in at 8:20 p.m., the polls closing at 7. The Los Angeles county count as a whole was not completed, even approximately, until twenty-four hours later.

There were 147 machines in use here in 147 Los Angeles city and county districts, and within forty-five minutes after the voting stopped fifty-four of these turned in their complete count, correct and unassailable. Had machines been used throughout the State generally, the result, instead of being in doubt until late Wednesday, would have been ascertained before midnight and all nominees known.

In all 11,754 voters used the machines in this county Tuesday, without a single complaint or bit of confusion. They had to fuss with no messy rubber stamp or smeary ink pad, they had to do no unfolding or folding of a paper blanket; the pulling of a few levers sufficed. Voting by machine is quick and easy and there is no doubt as to the correctness of the count.

For the convenience of the voters as well as for the convenience of election boards and a waiting public anxious to know—and entitled to know at the earliest possible moment—how the election came out, the voting machine is the thing. It has demonstrated its usefulness fully and completely.

Because of the necessity for economy, the Board of Supervisors has had to cut down the program for the purchase of voting machines for the time being, but the extension of machine voting should be pushed as rapidly as possible. The machines in the long run will be an economy to all concerned. They make possible a reduction in the number of polling places and of election boards, they eliminate long hours of sweating over confusing piles of ballots and the possibility of mistakes, they eliminate disputes as to whether ballots are properly marked, they eliminate voting for too many candidates—easy to do where groups are chosen. They make recounts a matter of a few moments where any question arises. They eliminate a good deal of expensive printing and waste of paper. They are simple enough to be operated properly by anyone with intelligence enough to vote—certainly anyone who can mark a paper ballot as he wants it marked can vote with a machine.

The object lesson of Tuesday's election, as of every other in California for a score of years, is that voting machines ought to be put in use everywhere and especially in so populous a county as ours and where long ballots are as frequent as in California.

A less important matter, but one for consideration, is the number of voters who did not cast their ballots because they did not know the location of their polling places and did not know how to find out, or failed to take the trouble to do so. The number of such inquiries which were received by the various newspapers and at the office of the Registrar of Voters is a sort of inverse indication that these were many.

The present custom of the Registrar is to send out to each registered voter, some time in advance of the election, a small slip bearing the location of the polling place to which that voter is assigned according to his place of residence. This goes out with the sample ballot and sometimes other literature and experience shows that it is frequently lost before the time comes to use it. In such case the prospective voter is put to some trouble to find out where he is supposed to vote and if, as in many cases, he is indisposed to go to that trouble, he does not vote at all.

Just what would be the best way to obviate this difficulty is not so clear, but there should be some fairly simple one, not much if any more expensive than that now used. We spend enough on elections now so that a trifle more would be well invested if it made possible a larger vote.

PICKING A SUCCESSOR

Now that Edison has finished picking another bright boy, it may be in order to sympathize with him in his futile efforts to find a successor. Great geniuses come but once or twice in a thousand years.

A successor just can't be picked. Shakespeare had no successor. A few like Shaw have suspected themselves of it; but the world does not accept them. Napoleon's Eaglet tumbled into his father's mighty footprints and the fall almost ended him. Caesar left no imitator, not even his own flesh and blood.

Successors are born, not picked. Poverty is a mighty picker of Presidents. She usually hunts up some Iowa blacksmith's boy after he has been orphaned, or pounces down upon a Kentucky carpenter's son. This is not the way we would pick our princes. Poverty is a marvelous picker of publishers. Franklin hiked into Philadelphia with a roll of clothes under one arm and a roll of bread under the other. The Saturday Evening Post today would not have made him even its "devil."

What Edison should do is, go to Michigan, pick out a hayseed and plant it. After it has sprouted, he should transplant it to a train as a news butcher. If it likes electricity well enough to have broken acid jars around in the baggage car, he should stir up a trainman to pick him up by the ears and make him stone deaf. This will keep his candidate free from hearing many distracting noises the remainder of his life.

Then instead of giving him a questionnaire involving seven persons lost in a desert to discover his humanitarian instincts, he might have him handy for the station agent's little child toddling upon the track in front of an approaching express. If he rush out and sweep the babe across the track into safety, it may help him to qualify.

We do not presume to instruct the Menlo wizard in picking his successor; but necessity is the mother of a great scientist. You can't get them by coddling them. If they love anything well enough and have gumption enough to surmount every obstacle, they may arrive.

Don't Let Inability Stop Them

A statistician says that one out of every five Americans can drive a car. But go out on the highways of Los Angeles county any Sunday and you'll meet three of the other four out driving.

On With the Dance

Announcement that the dancing masters of America will hold their 1931 convention here calls attention to the fact that Los Angeles has become a center for pupils of ballet and stage dancing. There are several schools of acrobatic dancing as well as notable schools of what is commonly called classic dancing, and some of the most remarkable dancing to be seen anywhere is seen here. There are 7-year-old children who have danced big-time engagements for important motion pictures and the recent ballet in the Hollywood Bowl, given by pupils of Michio Ito, was a demonstration of society's interest in dancing. When one considers that the pupils from several different schools, not used to working together, were used, that ballet looms as a notable achievement.

Ever since Ruth St. Denis started a school here Los Angeles has been the home of notable dancing teachers. Many who have taught abroad are teaching here and there is no kind of dancer the studios may desire that is not immediately available. In restaurants and coffee houses which have dancing floors one may see a dozen patrons at once doing stunts on the dancing floor which would win professionals applause if done on the stage. And in a beach dance pavilion the other night a young man who tried to get gay with a dainty little thing he'd just met got the surprise of his life. She leaped out of his encircling arm with a back handspring, did three cartwheels around him to get herself properly limbered up, gave him an accidental kick in the chin which sent him sprawling on his back and wound up with an airset which brought her heels down squarely in his undefended stomach.

No girl who has taken a course in acrobatic dancing has to get out of the car and walk home. She can just make the man get out.

Many things take a lot of talking over, but nothing else equals a back fence in that respect.

The advertisement announcers seem convinced that the average intelligence of radio audiences also is that of a 12-year-old child.

This is the season when parents count the days till school starts just as the kids soon will count the days till Christmas.

Hard Falls For Good Riders

Where are stars of "yesterday"?

A man who has just come in from a visit to one of the studios tells us that he saw eight men and four women who used to be fairly well-known actors in the days when "westerns" were in high favor, all working as extras or in very small "bits."

ELIMINATING STOP SIGNALS

Proceeding upon the assumption that its traffic signal system has been greatly overdone, the State highway department of Pennsylvania has ordered the elimination of many hundreds of stop signs and lights. In the East red lights are largely used as stop signals. As one motors from city to city the stops are of exasperating frequency and they slow down traffic. To speed it up in a desirable way the authorities began on August 1 to remove what they considered unnecessary signals, and by November 1 all of these will have come down.

Along Pennsylvania's 13,600 miles of roads there will be left but 400 of the red signals, none being permitted to remain where the "peak load" is less than 500 cars an hour on a main road and 125 on a cross road.

Compared with the East, we have few stop signals on rural highways in California, but in the cities it is pretty generally agreed that there are altogether too many, particularly where there is little travel. Many local motorists would be glad to see a reduction in their number.

BOTTLES OR BIBLES?

Dr. John Lewis Gillin recently gave an address to the summer students at the Trojan University in which he said that we should treat criminals as patients rather than sentence them as convicts.

He thinks we should ask, "What is the matter with him?" rather than question, "What has he done?"

There are few but what will grant that the present system has not reduced crime. We are spending $6,000,000,000 to $10,000,000,000 annually on criminals. If they can be renovated by medicine, it would be a great relief to the taxpayer.

Instead of reforming them, 45 to 50 per cent return for a second term. As a school, the hoosegow is a dead flunk. Our jails are bursting with inmates. Our lawmaking bodies are frantically passing more laws to curb crime. Commissions without number investigate and report.

If crime be but a disease, then churches and preachers are all wrong. The heart does not need a sermon; the stomach needs a pill. They do not need conversion; they need an operation. And yet if it should affect them as it did Irvin S. Cobb, that would be a crime.

There are cases where criminals are crazy. And we should exercise the greatest care in sentencing them.

But is there any physic for Mrs. Macbeth's crime? Will giving a pickpocket gland treatment return his cache of your property? Can a surgeon relieve pressure on the brain and straighten every life? Is there a panacea for jealous rage, other than honorable living?

However, give the learned doctor a chance and see what he can do on a small segment of prison life. If he can turn men out completely rehabilitated, we are willing to leave Missouri and come to California.

And yet we are curious to know what he would prescribe to cure a bootlegger. Should we turn our churches into hospitals and our schools into clinics? Does the druggist have the hope of the world corked up in his phials? Does the world need a bottle instead of the Bible?

WHY IS A GNAT?

An Idaho editor asks with evident feeling, "Why is a gnat?" It is a little insect that is fuzzy and important at one end and hot at the other. It is a tabloid edition of a fly and a pest to the vacationist. However, it serves the high and noble purpose of helping a man to be glad it is over.

A gnat has many noble impulses. Among others it keeps a man awake so that he does not have to live off his relatives. It begins early in the morning and teaches what the break of day is made for. Gnats awaken folks and impart the information. Then flies come in swarms and reinforce the knowledge obtained from gnats. Otherwise some would never see the sunrise.

Men come to know the difference between a vacation and the regular routine of life through the good offices of the gnat. Along with sand in the sugar and ants in the butter, this little pestiferous insect helps us to recognize the difference between a picnic and a regular meal at home.

They help make you glad to return to civilization again and be satisfied with your job. Anything is a relief from little bugs buzzing around your air-intake.

So the gnat is a valuable member of society and, next to grapefruit, is found most frequently in the public eye. Although its affection is not reciprocated, it loves man and delights to be near him. It knows no leisure and appears to be jealous of any who is taking the same.

EXPLAINING HALL CAINE

By James J. Montague

There are no "swear" words in the Manx language.

The Isle of Manx! The Isle of Manx!
Where folks would look at you with wonder
And faint away if you should say:
"My Gosh!" or "Sugar!" or "Oh, Thunder!"
Where even any British tar
Emitting the most mild profanity,
Would be regarded near and far
As suffering from stark insanity.
In that lone island in the sea
How dull and listless life must be!

The Isle of Manx! The Isle of Manx!
The spot that gave the world Hall Caine,
And all his yarns, yet looks on "Darns!"
With shrugs and gestures of disdain.
Where, when a tourist stubs his toe,
And murmurs "Drat the Luck!" or "Gee!"
Men pale with fear from ear to ear,
Or faint or turn away and flee!
One curse would decimate the ranks
Of all the folk that dwell in Manx!"

The Isle of Manx! The Isle of Manx!
Oh, what an island to be in!
You'd break the law if you said "Pshaw!"
When you fell down and barked your shin.
How do the Manxmen get along?
How do they bear a sorry fate,
If, when they've struck bad runs of luck,
They don't know how to imprecate?
No wonder that, from zone to zone,
The Isle of Manx is little known!

CHINA: YELLOW OR RED?

I

BY FRED HOGUE

Oranges do not grow on date palms, nor prunes on potato vines. Tell me but the name of the tree and I will tell you the kind of fruit it bears. This is as true of peoples as of prunes.

Strange things, incredible to the occidental idealist, have been taking place in China since the fall of the Manchus. To understand one must reflect that the Chinese family tree is older than our giant sequoias; that a generation is the fruit of a single season and that the fruit cannot belie the tree.

Grafting western thought in oriental intellects is a process, despite our altruistic illusions, that is yet to be perfected.

At the Washington conference four western powers sought in all sincerity to find an occidental solution for an oriental problem; but the process they devolved for producing unity has brought dissolution.

For a period of 100 years missionaries and educators have sought to cultivate Christian virtues in Chinese soil. Regardless of whether the fault was with the seed or with the climate, the results have been disappointingly meager.

In the Chinese has developed a spirit of violent resentment against the presence of foreigners, for any purpose, in Chinese territory and the missionaries and educators have been forced to flee for their lives from the cities and villages of Central and Southern China, to find refuge on foreign war vessels and in the treaty ports.

Yet the Chinese are not savages per se. Their culture antedates that of any of the western peoples. They wore silks when the tribes from which the Latins, Teutons and Anglo-Saxons descended still wore animal skins. They lived in castles when the peoples of Europe and the two Americas lived in tents and caves.

The scholars of the west have always had a high reverence for Chinese philosophy; but I am convinced that this reverence has been due in a large part to a misconception, if not of the philosophy itself, at least of its application.

Since my visit to China last year I have devoted considerable study and research to the moral and political theories on which Chinese government, misgovernment and lack of government are based.

I have found that the Chinese do not apply the evolution theory to states; that they consider the intellect of the scholars of the present generation vastly inferior to that of the generations 1000 years prior to the Christian era.

What we consider progress in modern thought and in modes of living is to them a decadence. What we exalt as Christian virtues were condemned by their political economists as reprehensible vices, as worms that gnaw the vitals of a state and cause its collapse.

Consider this quotation from the writings of Lao-tze, a sage to whom Confucius is said to have gone in his youth for instruction in moral precepts:

"Abandon virtue and discard wisdom, and the advantage to the people will be a hundredfold. Abandon benevolence and discard justice, and the people will become filial and loving."

Lao-tze was the founder of one of the largest religious cults in China at the present time. His temples are numbered by the thousands and the followers of his faith by the tens of millions.

When the son of a Taoist father comes home from a mission school and tells his father what he has been taught about the virtue of benevolence and justice, it is not surprising that the father should condemn such teaching as rank heresy, as an insult to the gods.

Let me quote again from Lao-tze:

"The good rulers of the olden times did not enlighten the people, but stultified them. That the people are difficult to govern is because they have too much knowledge. To rule a state by means of knowledge is to poison it; to rule it not by means of knowledge is to benefit it."

Here is another quotation from the same source:

"If you govern a state with justice, then you have to resort to force and apply craft. But if you do nothing, you will gain the world."

These quotations are perhaps as exact as a translation from Chinese ideographs into English words can be made. I have followed the English text of Kuo-Cheng Wu, native of China and graduate of Princeton University.

From a course of reasoning that is too subtle, too involved, for my occidental logic, the ancient Chinese teachers arrived at a special aversion for justice and benevolence. They inveighed against the vicious tendencies of their age; but they listed justice and benevolence among the vices.

They advocated virtue; but not political virtue. I find Chwangtze, a noted Chinese philosopher and moralist who lived in the third century before Christ, writing as follows:

"Abandon benevolence and justice and the whole world will share a common virtue."

Lao-tze is known to literature as the greatest of the Chinese mystics. His religion is one of the three popular faiths in modern China—Taoism, Confucianism and Buddhism. Lao-tze is the author of more Chinese moral maxims than Confucius. He taught the simple life, the elimination of desire.

But to one who professes his political maxims, a government based on justice and benevolence, a government that makes education compulsory, is worse than the worst form of despotism.

Even more contradictory to our western ideas of government are the teachings of Shang Yang—the great Prince Shang of Chin, statesman and legalist, who lived about 350 B. C.

Wu writes of him: "It may be said that Shang Yang alone started the Dukedom of Chin upon a path of expansion and conquest and laid the foundation for the triumph of the first emperor."

Here are some extracts from the political writings of Shang Yang.

"Love and benevolence—they are the parents of evil."

"There are certain so-called virtues which are only worms gnawing at the vitals of the state. Unless they be expelled the state will be exterminated. These worms are: ceremony and music, poetry and history, cultivation of virtue, benevolence and justice, denunciation of armaments and condemnation of war. When a state tolerates these things the people will no longer farm and fight."

These were the sentimental vices which must be destroyed root and branch if Chin was to conquer the five other states of the central kingdom and unite them under a single ruler.

Shang Yang occupies a place in Chinese history as one of the greatest of the long line of Chinese statesmen and legalists. He is one of the few who united the Chinese states from within. His code of political economy was simple. Two things should be taught the people, to farm and to fight. All the rewards of the state were to go to those who led in these two indispensable virtues. As for the rest—education and the fine arts served only to effeminate the people and make them easy prey for simple and powerful neighbors.

He wrote: "The reason why a state is respected and a sovereign is feared is this—force."

"When the people were simple-minded he who had wisdom could make himself emperor. When the times are permeated with wisdom, then he who has force can make himself emperor."

Shang Yang was a logician, after his fashion; and his philosophy, founded on force, was not markedly different from that of Bismarck.

Shang Yang insisted that the laws should be simple, because they were to be obeyed by an uneducated people. Of lawmaking, he wrote:

"If it takes a wise man to understand an idea, then it should not be made law; not everybody is wise. If it takes a virtuous man to understand it, then it should not be made law, for not everybody is virtuous. In making laws, never fail to make them simple, clear and easy to understand, so that all the people, stupid as well as wise, virtuous as well as base, cannot miss their meaning."

In one chapter of his writings he attempted to explain why benevolence and justice are not to be desired. "The benevolent," he asserts, "may be benevolent to others, but may not make others benevolent. The just may be just to others, but may not make others just. Therefore, I know benevolence and justice are not sufficient to govern the state."

Our western idea of justice is to reward virtue and to punish crime. Shang Yang reverses this principle. In a treatise to his sovereign on government he wrote:

"He who is worthy of imperial dignity prohibits evil by means of reward; and encourages good by means of punishment."

Shang Yang desired the extermination of evil as devoutly as any occidental reformer. But his method of exterminating evil is purely oriental. He established in Chin a universal system of espionage. His idea of "prohibiting evil by means of rewards" was to make every subject a spy on his neighbor. Whoever reported the commission of a crime received a substantial reward.

This system of rewarding informers is a fixed policy of oriental government that has been observed for more than 2000 years. Oriental systems of government are founded on espionage. Similar systems have been adopted in autocratic government in Europe; but none of them has served to abolish evil. Shang Yang did not claim to be able to abolish evil; he was content to prohibit evil.

Some may find a similarity between the Shang Yang theory and that of modern prohibition. We have enacted laws prohibiting drinking; but we have not yet been able to abolish drinking. Shang Yang paid his informers by the piece; our government pays them by the day.

I am not writing this in condemnation of prohibition. I am simply stressing that informers are employed in all modern governments and rewarded for their aid in enforcing the prohibition of evil. We have our secret-service system in municipal, county, State and Federal government.

Government by espionage is repugnant in theory; but we have not yet been able to discard it in practice.

English Poets Laureate

The origin of the poet laureate of England is involved in obscurity. In early days the word "laureate" came to mean in English "eminent." It was thus generally, although not always, applied in a literary sense. Medieval kings had poets or minstrels attached to their households, who received pensions, although their appointment was not official. In this way Ben Jonson was looked upon as the first laureate, but the title seems never to have been really conferred on him. John Dryden was the first English poet to receive the title by letters-patent in 1670. From that time the post became a regular institution.

One million tons of sweet potatoes were grown in the Netherland East Indies last year.

Of Interest to Women

Society

by MYRA NYE

White water lilies in profusion, pom-pom dahlias, yellow roses and yellow, long-stemmed pansies were the lovely adornment for the long table in a private dining-room at the Victor Hugo recently, when Mrs. William H. Gilbert, patroness of the opera, entertained a group of persons similarly interested.

Informality marked the affair and delightful conversation concerning the musical history of Los Angeles was the feature. Mrs. Gilbert, who is the new president of the Opera Reading Club of Hollywood, announced that Leon Rains, who has been in Germany throughout the summer, will return next month prepared to resume his work as lecturer for the musical organization, the first opera to be analyzed being "Rigoletto" in October.

Invited guests include L. E. Behymer, Edwin Schallert, Patterson Green, Mrs. Charles S. Reed and Mrs. Robert Hoyt, Frank H. Colby and Mrs. William M. Moon.

Aviation Writer Guest

Mrs. Elizabeth Hiatt Gregory of New York, a pioneer writer and lecturer on aviation, is the guest of her sister, Mrs. G. W. Kinnaird in Glendale. Mrs. Gregory was the first writer to specialize as a writer on aviation and reported all the early flights of Glenn H. Curtiss, the Wright Brothers and others. In the old Waldorf-Astoria in New York Mrs. Gregory gave her first lecture before a distinguished audience including such patrons as Glenn H. Curtiss, Mrs. J. Borden Harriman, Mrs. Anthony Drexel, Jr., Miss Caroline Duer, Mrs. Clifford B. Harmon, Cornelius Vanderbilt, Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt, Miss Eleanor Sears, Frank N. Doubleday and Robert J. Collier.

Engagement Announced

Complimenting Miss Marion M. Tufeld, Mrs. B. J. Tufeld, her sister-in-law, entertained thirty guests at a bridge-luncheon recently, when she announced Miss Tufeld's engagement to Lewis G. Fiskin.

Mrs. Guy Bush Is Honoree

Mary Carr Moore gave a delightful musicale-tea in honor of Mrs. Guy Bush at Mrs. Moore's new home on Heliotrope Drive, recently. Seta Eid, soprano, who is a visitor in this city; Neil Begley, tenor; Mrs. Moore, who is a distinguished composer, and Mrs. Bush appeared on the informal program.

Wednesday of next week Mrs. Bush is honoring Mrs. Crittenden Calhoun of Washington, D. C., and Signor and Signora Pietro Gentile with a musicale and buffet supper at her home in South Serrano avenue.

Returning Tomorrow

Miss Helen J. Sherman and her sister, Mrs. Edna R. Thomas, are returning Monday from a two-months' tour of Europe, where they spent the greater portion of their time in Madrid and Barcelona. Miss Sherman is a member of Alpha Delta Pi Sorority.

Mrs. T. J. Scott, secretary of the same sorority, has just returned from an extended vacation at Lake Louise and Banff.

The Misses Ibez and Fleeta Hodge of Mansfield avenue returned this week from Honolulu, where they have sojourned since the latter part of June.

Wedding Anniversary

A beautifully appointed dinner party was given Sunday evening by Mrs. Bella Due and Miss Auda Due at their home on Kenmore avenue in celebration of the wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. William L. McAllister.

Betrothal Told

Announcement of the betrothal of Miss Marian Morse of Santa Monica and H. C. Noble was made at an attractively appointed bridge party given Monday evening by Miss Miriam Hart at her home in Santa Monica. Small cards hidden in a bridal bouquet which formed the centerpiece for a table revealed the news of the betrothal. Miss Morse and her fiance were both graduated from Occidental College. The wedding will take place next summer.

Among the guests were Mrs. H. B. Morse, the bride-elect's mother; Mrs. George Hart, Mrs. Francis Hart, Mrs. Francis Hull, Mrs. Robert Fuller, Mrs. Earl Cady, Miss Katherine Marles, Miss Edith Morse, Miss Margaret Mitchell, Miss Margaret Watt, Miss Roslyn Virgil, Miss Clara Speiman, Miss Louise Tyson, Miss Gertrude Tyson, Miss Charlotte Jean Cox, Miss Marjorie Zoul and the honoree.

Return from Trip

Robert E. Callahan, president and founder of the Ramona Supper Club, and Mrs. Callahan have just returned from a visit to the Indian reservations where they attended the Indian snake dances at Hotevila, Shumpovi and Shipalovi, about ninety miles north of Winslow, Ariz. Mr. Callahan is one of three persons invited to witness the rehearsal of the dances in the sacred kiva.

Informal Suppers

Upon their return from a vacation divided between Santa Barbara and Del Mar, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Bettner Meloth have entertained groups of friends with delightfully informal garden suppers at their home in Bel-Air.

For Bride-elect

Two charming affairs were given recently for Miss Catherine Forbes, who has just announced her engagement to Harold Anderson of Long Beach. Mrs. Clifford Wright and Mrs. Lillian Bellah entertained for the bride-elect at Mrs. Wright's home on Muirfield Road with a beautifully appointed tea with Mrs. Wallace B. Wood and Mrs. Bert R. Fleming presiding at the tea tables. Mrs. Wallace B. Wood complimented Miss Forbes with a bridge-luncheon.

The wedding will be an event of September 10 at St. Paul's Cathedral.

Complimentary Affair

Mrs. Douglas P. Maitland entertained recently with a delightful bridge-tea and shower at her home, 5025 West Twentieth street, in honor of Miss Virginia Burdick, 1525 North Van Ness avenue, who will become the bride of H. David Gordon tomorrow at the Wee Kirk o' the Heather, Glendale. The guests were Mmes. W. C. King, Harry Williams, L. W. Wilson, C. J. Thenhaus and C. A. Littleton and the Misses Gwendolen Kik, Shirley Johnson and Norma McLeod.

"NEUTRAL" HOME IDEA DOESN'T PLEASE WIFE

A neutral home for a husband hesitating between his wife and "the other woman," where he could make his choice, was a suggestion which did not appeal to Mrs. Ida L. Henderson, she testified yesterday. She said another woman proposed this scheme to let Charles W. Henderson, proprietor of a dancing academy, choose between them without being influenced unduly. Superior Judge Yankwich granted a divorce to Mrs. Henderson.

MASONS TO CONDUCT SERVICES FOR MEAD

Last rites for Joseph P. Mead, Beverly Hills real estate broker, will be conducted tomorrow at 1:30 p.m. from the LeRoy Bagley chapel, 5440 Hollywood Boulevard. Burial will be in Inglewood Park Cemetery, with Masonic services.

Mr. Mead died at his home at 244 South Canon Drive, Beverly Hills, at the age of 51 years. He was a Shriner, a member of the 233 Club of Hollywood, Beverly Shrine Club, and of St. John's Episcopal Church. He was born in Suzan Grove, Pa. He had lived in California twelve years. He leaves his widow, Mrs. Gertrude E. Mead.

MUSICIANS DECLARE INTENTION TO MARRY

A musical romance was revealed yesterday when Louis Hintze, a composer, filed a notice of intention to marry Clara Dorster, a music instructor. Hintze formerly was violinist with the Philharmonic Orchestra of Los Angeles. Born in Germany, he has lived here several years. This is his first marriage and Mrs. Dorster's second. They gave their address as 1801 Garfield Place, Hollywood.

WHEN THE SANDMAN COMES

by THORNTON W. BURGESS

IMPY FINDS A WONDERFUL PLACE

'Tis well to put one on his own,
For then he learns to stand alone.
—Old Mother Nature.

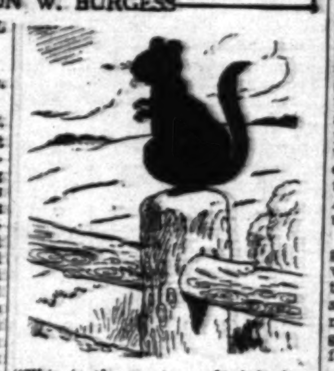
When Impy, the black Chipmunk, awoke very early in the morning, it took him a few minutes to remember where he was. Instead of being down under ground, as he always had been every morning before, his bedroom had wooden walls. Finally, it came to him how he had started out to see the Great World and how just before dark he had found a nest in a hollow post of the old fence. Impy scrambled up to the hole just above him and looked out. Jolly, round Mr. Sun was just beginning his climb up in the blue, blue sky and there was every promise that the day would be fine. Impy climbed to the top of the post and there very carefully made his toilet. When this was finished, it came to him that he was hungry; so he scampered down to look for something to eat.

Impy stayed there for two or three days. It was a very nice place. But it didn't quite suit him. It was all right to stay in for a while, but it was no place for a regular home.

"My cousins, Happy Jack the Gray Squirrel and Chatterer the Red Squirrel may like wooden walls, but I don't," said Impy, talking to himself. "I like earth walls better. Yes, sir, I like earth walls better. When I get my real home, it is going to be in the ground, with a nice, long hall leading to it and two or three nice little storehouses opening from the hall. Anyway, I feel safe here and it is a good thing to feel safe."

So Impy used his home in the post to sleep in and rest in and to go exploring from. He felt a great deal easier when he was exploring than he had felt when he had had no place to run to. So he made little trips off, first this way, then that way, then the other way. From these trips he would return to the post with a hole in it. It was his temporary home.

Now, that old fence was almost as good as a stone wall to run along. One day, when he was feeling unusually bold, Impy ran along it to the very end, or rather to where it turned and thus made a corner. Just beyond was a road. And in that corner, or rather just outside the fence, was a great pile of stones. Impy's eyes twinkled when he saw those stones. There were big stones and little stones. There were places between them to slip down into. Impy stayed so long that it was dark before he thought of going home. Then he was afraid to go home. So he worked his way down between the stones until at last he came to the ground; and there he spent that night. He wasn't real comfortable and he didn't sleep as well as he might have.



"This is the most wonderful place in all the world!" cried Impy.

In the morning when he had a chance to more thoroughly explore that pile of stones and the country around it, he decided that he had seen all of the Great World that he wanted to see.

"This is the most wonderful place in all the Great World," cried Impy. "There is everything that a Chipmunk could ask for. Already I have discovered that there is plenty to eat. There is a wonderful place to run (he meant the rail fence) and there are all sorts of places to pop in and out of amongst these stones. I am going to make me a home here. When I get it done, I'll have as fine a home as a Chipmunk ever had. Now I'm glad I started out to see the Great World. It was a very fine place where I was born, but this is finer. I'll get busy at once and get that new home started."

Your Baby and Mine

by MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

Mrs. Eldred will be glad to answer all questions pertaining to babies and children. A stamped and self-addressed envelope forwarded to this office will bring a personal reply.

This department offers leaflets on weaning and feeding the child from 6 weeks to 6 years, prenatal care and diet for the nursing mother, constipation, eczema, outfits for the new baby, sleeping, walking, teething, thumb sucking, ammoniacal urine, bed wetting, training in cleanly habits, periods of nursing, cod liver oil, orange juice, hives, worms, vomiting, refractory children, prune juice, lime water, rupture, styes and boils and cradle cap. Before asking a personal question about one of these subjects, it is better to send a self-addressed stamped envelope for the leaflet you need. If your particular problem is not covered in the above list, Mrs. Eldred will be glad to give you a personal reply.

WHAT SHOULD COMPRISE THE MID-AFTERNOON LUNCH?

A new crop of problems matures for the mother at the beginning of school. Mid-meal lunches have been more or less the whim of the child who ate his three meals a day during the summer and nibbled between times as his appetite demanded. Most of us discover that despite more rest and perfect freedom to run and play in the open air the child gains in height during the summer season but seldom in weight. He usually ends up the summer healthy and brown but thin as a pencil.

What can the mother give the child as an after-school lunch that won't spoil his appetite for a hearty dinner and still fill out those ill-covered bones?

A DIETETIC EXPERIMENT

Some years ago an interesting experiment was carried on with three groups of children and a control group. These children were fed at the family tables for all three meals, and got unselected food at these particular meals. The children were, therefore, under different dietetic conditions in each family, but they were alike in one particular. All the children were thin and undernourished.

The experimenter divided the groups into four parts. One group was given four pulled figs to eat in the middle of the afternoon. The second group was given a glass of milk to drink. The third group was given a whole orange to eat. The fourth group had nothing at all.

Their gains in weight at the end of the period were checked against the group given nothing to eat and it was discovered that the children given the whole orange to eat had gained the largest total number of pounds.

This is extremely interesting from several standpoints and while we need not drop the child's afternoon glass of milk because of this experiment, we should have an added respect for the orange and its place in the menu as a mid-meal food.

KEEP FRUIT BOWL FILLED

We feel that breakfast is the school child's most important and often most neglected meal. (Breakfast menus for the school child are listed in a leaflet which may be obtained from this department. Send a self-addressed and stamped envelope with your request for it.) School lunches are very apt to be sketchy affairs and ill-suited to keep the child satisfied from then until dinner. The choice of the mid-meal lunch is therefore vital, not only to add to his nutrition, but because it should be filling and nourishing and yet not deprive the child of an appetite for dinner.

Instead of the well-filled cookie jar which lives in fiction as the source of the most desirable after-school "snack," we might suggest a well-filled fruit bowl. A whole orange, a whole banana, or a red apple all answer the child's appeal for "something to eat," without robbing him of the desire for a filling dinner when mealtime arrives.

CHEF WYMAN'S RECIPES

The Times' free cooking school conducted by Chef Wyman has been discontinued for the summer. Date for resuming has not been set but will be announced later.

FRENCH PANCAKES

Sift one cup of flour with one-third teaspoon of salt, and two-thirds teaspoon of sugar. Place the mixture in a bowl, make a well in the center, and drop in two eggs, and start beating with a wire whip. While beating, add gardually one cup and two tablespoons of milk, and one teaspoon of melted butter, the batter should be thin enough to run freely. Heat a small French saute pan, the size of an individual salad plate, add a small piece of butter, spread the butter over the pan, but do not let it brown, add two tablespoons of the batter, raise the pan so the batter will spread evenly over the bottom, as soon as cooked on the bottom, turn and bake until a delicate brown. Dust a board with powdered sugar, slip the pancake onto it, spread with jam or jelly, roll up like a jelly roll, and dust with powdered sugar.

TOMATO SOY

Peel and slice one gallon of sound, ripe tomatoes, and place in a preserving kettle, with four cups of chopped onions, two tablespoons of sugar, two tablespoons of salt, two teaspoons of paprika, two teaspoons of white pepper, and two cups of celery hearts chopped fine, one teaspoon of cloves, one teaspoon of cinnamon, one teaspoon of nutmeg, and a teaspoon of mace. Stir over a slow fire, until reduced about one-half, then add four cups of vinegar, allow to come to a boil, skim, and bottle hot. Seal and store in a cool, dark place, ready for use in one month.

CRAB CANAPE

Beat to a cream a half a cup of butter, and gradually beat into it a half a cup of grated Parmesan cheese, and a seasoning of salt and paprika, place in a sauce pan, four tablespoons of butter, and cook in it until a light golden color, one finely chopped challot or young green onion. Stir in one tablespoon of flour, blend well, and gradually add one and one-half cups of cream, add two cups of crab meat that has been shredded fine, a seasoning of salt and paprika. Heat until it just starts to bubble, spread six large rounds of bread toasted on one side, with the crab mixture, cover with the cheese mixture, and place the canape on a buttered baking pan and brown in the oven, this is also called a Canape Lorenzo.

CHOCOLATE SANDWICHES

Melt two ounces or two squares of chocolate, add to it two tablespoons of hot cream, one teaspoon of vanilla extract, remove from the fire, and add enough XXX sugar to make a consistency to spread. Cut thin slices of sponge cake, and spread them with the chocolate mixture, sprinkle over this finely chopped salted nut meats, and cover the top with whipped cream.

HOME DECORATION TALKS

by CHARLEMAGNE'S TABLES

If we all could have three tables like Charlemagne possessed—one of silver, one of gold and the other of jewels—no doubt none of us would ever worry about their appearance.

Although, perhaps, if the truth were known, Charlemagne's Queen probably became pretty tired of seeing the same old gold and silver tables year after year around the castle. Today, the modern wife knows that it is easy and economical to change the color scheme of her breakfast set when time dims its appearance.

I recently suggested a very striking dining room design for Mrs. Hauptman in Bakersfield, which she liked. Her dining room set was dingy and cheerless. We set it in Ojai Gray Flex with trimmings of Forest Green Flex. Because Flex, that marvelous new color-coating, is flexible, we were able to paint the leather pads of her chairs with Gray Flex.

I do want to recommend Flex to your attention. It is neither an enamel nor a lacquer—but Flex. The newest thing out in paints. Any one can paint

[illegible] WYMAN'S ANSWERS

EGG NOG PIE

[illegible] Huntington Park, Cal.: The [illegible] of three eggs, one and a half [illegible] of cornstarch, two [illegible] sugar, two-thirds cupful of [illegible] one and one-half teaspoon[illegible] gelatine, one and a half [illegible] of cold water, one [illegible] cupfuls of milk. Beat [illegible] of the eggs, and the two [illegible] sift the cornstarch and [illegible] together, and gradually beat [illegible] the eggs. Scald the milk in a [illegible] boiler and pour it slowly over [illegible] eggs and cornstarch, and continue [illegible] beating. Return to the [illegible] boiler and cook until the [illegible] is thick and smooth. Soft[illegible] gelatine in the cold water, [illegible] to the hot mixture, and [illegible] dissolved. Remove from [illegible] add one-half teaspoonful [illegible] and one tablespoonful of [illegible]. Fold in the stiffly beat[illegible] of the three eggs, while [illegible] is still warm, beat well, [illegible] pour into a baked pie shell. [illegible] over the top with whipped [illegible] or a meringue.

[illegible]: Am sorry your letter did not reach me in time so I could be of assistance to you in regards to the hors d'oeuvres, but nice ones can be made with the creamed anchovies, or the whole anchovies, used on salted crackers, or a paste made of avocados, to which lemon juice, salt and paprika have been added, and the edges decorated with the chopped whites of eggs, also pate de foie gras, there are so many, that it is hard to know just what you want, and it is a rule of the office that I do not answer questions by mail.

GRAHAM CRACKER PIE CRUST

F. C., Los Angeles, Cal.: Twelve medium-sized graham crackers, one and one-half cupfuls of sugar, one-fourth cupful of melted butter. Crush the crackers very fine, add the sugar to them and the melted butter, mix well, and line the sides and bottom of a pie tin with the mixture, pressing it down tightly with the hand.

MAYONNAISE DRESSING

J. L. S., Owensmouth, Cal.: If you will take my advice, you will not attempt to put a mayonaise dressing on the market, as it is something, unless you are making in very large quantities, and making it with machinery, that there is no profit in. Considering the amount of manufacturers, that are putting it out, and the keeping quality, but herewith a recipe:

One and one-half teaspoonfuls of mustard, one tablespoonful of powdered sugar, one tablespoonful of salt, one teaspoonful of white pepper, three and one-half cupfuls of salad oil, six tablespoonfuls of cider vinegar, the yolks of three eggs, and the stiffly beaten whites of three eggs. Place the powdered sugar, mustard, salt and pepper in a bowl, gradually add the egg yolks, stirring constantly, then add a little at a time, part of the vinegar,—then beat in one teaspoonful of the oil, and beat hard, and continue until half a cupful has been used, then very gradually add the last. Beat in one at a time three tablespoonfuls of boiling water, and then stir in the stiffly beaten whites of the eggs, or a little more oil may be added, and the whites not used.

Any one of the salad oils that are on the market are good, but some prefer one and some another.

SPONGE CAKE FOR SHORT CAKES

G. E., Baldwin Park, Cal.: I have never eaten short cake that you speak of, but am under the impression it is a sponge cake, as nearly all of them are. Try this recipe and see if it meets with your approval.

The yolks of four eggs, the whites of four eggs, three-fourths cupful of water, one cupful of sugar, one and a half cupfuls of flour, three teaspoonfuls of baking powder, and one teaspoonful of extract. Sift the baking powder with a half a cupful of flour, three times. Beat the yolks of the eggs until light and thick, and add the sugar gradually and continue the beating, add the water, and the cup of flour, that has been sifted three times, alternately to the mixture, then the baking powder, and flour, and lastly fold in the stiffly beaten whites of the eggs. Bake the mixture in layers in a moderate oven, for twenty to twenty-five minutes.

FRENCH APPLE PIE

Line a pie dish with a good short pastry, place in the oven, and bake, having the oven for the first ten minutes very hot, then reduce the heat until the crust is brown. Peel, core and cut in quarters twelve medium sized tart apples, place them in a saucepan with three tablespoonfuls of powdered sugar, two tablespoonfuls of butter, one teaspoonful of grated lemon rind and a half teaspoonful of cinnamon. Let simmer slowly until they have been reduced to a smooth, thick paste. Remove from the fire and beat in the stiffly beaten whites of two eggs. Pour into a baked pie shell and cover with browned bread crumbs, that have been fried in butter, or grapenuts that have been crumbed fine. Some chefs place in the pastry lined tin a layer of thick, apricot jam, before adding the applesauce.

WAFER DESSERT

M. M. O., Los Angeles, Cal.: Have never eaten the dessert you mentioned in your letter, and therefore do not know the name of it, no doubt it is something the hostess has made up herself, but my idea of it would be, to place a row of the chocolate wafers that you speak of in a long pan, or in the freezing tray, and cover them with a stiff custard, and then adding a layer of whipped cream, placing another layer of the biscuits on top and serving them with the whipped cream, and garnished with the cherry. It would also ve very nice to use some finely chopped nuts in the custard.

CITY TO QUIT AS AUTO LAUNDRY

Park Sprinklers Ordered Set So They'll Moisten Grass and Not Cars

Supt. Shearer of the Park Department yesterday was directed by the Park Commission to instruct park employee to set sprinklers back from curbing so that water will fall on the grass only and not into parked automobiles.

Commissioner Griffith reported seeing a sedan, with windows open, near a curbing of a city park, receiving most of the contents from a sprinkler. He said there was enough water in the car and on the seats to fill a good-sized bathtub.

Mrs. Mabel Socha, president of the commission, reported similar occurrences had been reported to her.

Employees will be instructed to keep the water not only out of automobiles but off the sidewalks, so pedestrians may not be showered.

SCATTERING OF FLOWERS MADE EASY

Quick and Cheap Plan of Sending Cheer to Any Part of World Told by Florist

Anyone having a sick friend in Timbuctoo, or any other remote corner of the world, can send him flowers almost as quickly as if he lived right here in Los Angeles, and at almost the same price.

This was revealed yesterday by H. Reeve Darling, president of the Florists' Telegraph Delivery Association Unit No. 2, as he put the finishing touches on plans for the reception of 500 members of the association who are speeding to Los Angeles for the annual convention. The first delegation arrived at 10:30 p.m. yesterday via special trains on the Santa Fe and two other trains were following.

Although the convention proper will be held in San Francisco, the visitors will spend two days in Los Angeles warming up for the affair.

Plans for today call for a trip to Catalina as guests of the Los Angeles florists and tomorrow they will be taken on a motor-bus tour of Hollywood, Beverly Hills and the larger studios. In the afternoon they will be entertained at a barbecue at Fryman's Ranch in Laurel Canyon and at 5 p.m. they will leave for San Francisco. The session there will open Monday, and will continue for five days.

Prizes will be awarded for the most artistic floral designs and many of the country's foremost craftsmen will enter the competition.

More than $9,000,000 worth of flowers are now "shipped" by wire annually, Darling said, to all parts of the world.

NEWS OF THE CAFES

For the final night of the highly successful engagement of Ben Bernie, popular "jesting maestro," in the Blossom Room of the Roosevelt Hotel, a special gala au revoir affair has been arranged for the departing musical organization. The occasion will be Saturday night, September 6. Johnny Johnson and his Victor-recording orchestra, famed for their broadcasts over the Columbia radio network, will succeed Bernie in "the playground of the stars" for a limited engagement, commencing Monday night, September 8. Next Monday night in the Blossom Room will be a gala holiday featuring a galaxy of stage and screen celebrities, including Grant Withers and Loretta Young, both as guests at the affair and as participants on the stellar program of entertainment. Also special festivities are planned because of the fact that it will be the final Monday night event in the supper room at which Ben Bernie and his group will play their inimitable dance rhythms and offer musical entertainment.

SWIM PARTIES GIVEN

Midafternoon swimming parties with 4 o'clock tea served from the Restaurant Francaise right to the edge of the palatial bathing pool are helping Hollywood pleasure seekers combat the heated weather of the week at the Garden of Allah on Sunset Boulevard. Special service has been arranged by Harry M. Miller, maitre d'hotel of the recently opened institution, to provide refreshments of this sort to the social elite who are making the Garden of Allah either their dwelling place or midsummer playground. Table d'hote luncheons and dinners are featured by the Restaurant Francaise, while special accommodations have been arranged for afternoon bridge parties as well.

DANCE ACES TO COMPETE

Many of the ace ballroom couples from society, filmland and collegiate circles will compete in tonight's dancing contest at George Olsen's new club, Culver City, for the weekly award of $100 in gold prizes. This event will be staged as an added feature with the new fall revue. Charita Alden, brilliant young specialty dancer from the Royal Hawaiian Hotel, Honolulu, will act as judge in this competition, and will make the awards to the winning couples. George Olsen and his music will introduce a new group of dance rhythms during tonight's contest, including popular numbers, theme melodies from recent screen musicals, and selections from current New York revues and musical comedies.

PARIS INN STILL OPEN

When Bert Rovere, proprietor with I. Pedroli of the Paris Inn Cafe, left on his vacation a week ago, he departed with fond memories of his establishment resounding with the harmony of good music and the congenial uproar of many pleased patrons. In fact, it was packed to the doors. Now, alas, he returned to find it quiet. In the place of hundreds are to be seen scores, simply because many think the new inn is closed.

To the contrary, the Paris Inn is very much open. The singing waiters, each personally trained by Bert, himself a former grand opera baritone, have been impatient to sing lustily for the edification of the many friends of the establishment. According to Rovere and Pedroli, dancing will continue and delicious spaghetti will be served despite a threatened Federal injunction.

NEW HEAD AT GRILL

The French Grill, West Sixth street at Witmer, is now managed by Mrs. C. Fano and was formerly known as the St. Regis Coffee Shop. Cleverly decorated in French blue trimmed in silver and black the cafe serves as dining-room and coffee shop connecting the Teris Hotel. French and Italian dinners are featured.

EVENING CLASSES PLANNED

Fifty-five courses in the study of trades and academic subjects are to be offered at Garfield Evening High School, 5101 East Sixth street, beginning Tuesday, it was announced yesterday.

LIBRARY SETS NEW RECORDS

Total of 9,682,305 Books Circulated in Year

Gain of 1,200,000 Volumes for Period Reported

Calls for Better Quality of Reading Increase

What people are reading and how much they are reading are two questions answered in large measure by the forty-second annual report of the Los Angeles Board of Library Commissioners.

A recorded gain in quantity is shown for the year ending June 30, 1930, with circulation of 9,682,305 books, in the face of book clubs, circulating libraries and the many fine book stores of Los Angeles. This is a gain of 1,200,000 over the circulation of the preceding year and this figure is only an indication of the actual use of books in the library for it is estimated that seven times as many reference books as circulating books are called for in the central library.

HIGHEST RATING

Card holders now number 319,000. Each card holder averages thirty books a year from the library and every man, woman and child of Los Angeles averages 7.8 books a year, which gives Los Angeles Library the highest per-capita library rating of any large city.

In book stock the net increase exceeded 100,000 volumes, bringing the collection to 1,100,000 books.

"In an analysis of this sort," said City Librarian Everett R. Perry, "76 per cent of our circulation is carried on by our branch system of forty-nine branch libraries supplemented by ninety-two book stations. Community libraries are used more largely for recreational reading than is the central library, which is becoming known as an informational center with its specialized reference collections on all subjects. Of the 9,600,000 books borrowed 5,900,000 were fiction and 3,700,000 nonfiction.

SERIOUS BOOKS READ

"Our department of philosophy and religion, now completing its second year as a separate department, circulated 117,000 volumes on serious subjects and sponsored a series of fifteen free lectures on philosophy which were attended by 6000 people. The best sellers in this room are: 'Art of Thinking,' 'Mansions of Philosophy,' 'Preface to Morals' and 'Treatise on the Gods.'

"Although book sellers bewail the decrease in enthusiasm for poetry and drama, the literature department of the library reports more calls than could be filled for such plays as 'Strange Interlude,' the war play, 'The Journey's End,' and the Negro Bible play, 'Green Pastures.' The light touch is introduced by a persistent demand for "Is Sex Necessary?" by Thurber and White.

BIOGRAPHY POPULAR

"Biography holds its own, probably because of the wealth of excellent material being written in this field. Popular titles were: Maurois's 'Byron,' 'Disraeli' by the same author continued in popular demand, while such diversified subjects of biography as, 'Mrs. Eddy,' 'Hetty Green,' 'Elizabeth and Essex' and 'Sam Houston' supplied writers and readers with historical interest. 'Beethoven, the Creator' and 'Leonardo the Florentine' supplied the leading biographies in music and art. Clemenceau's 'Grandeur and Misery of Victory' gave the statesman's picture.

SCIENCE RUNS HIGH

"Popular interest in the new discoveries of science runs high with long lists of reserved calls for such titles as Millikan's, 'Science in the New Civilization,' Jeans', 'The Universe Around Us,' and Menninger's, 'The Human Mind,' and Eddington's, 'The Nature of the Physical World.'

"Two outstanding titles in education were 'The Meaning of Culture' by Powys,' and 'Creative Power' by Mearns.

"In the field of the novel, which still accounts for 50 per cent of the library's circulation, the leading titles were as follows: 'All Quiet on the Western Front,' 'All Our Yesterdays,' 'Great Meadow,' 'Cimarron,' 'Scarlet Sister Mary,' 'Laughing Boy' and 'The Woman of Andros.'"

Labor Day will be observed by the public libraries throughout the city Monday. The central library and all branches will be closed from the evening of Saturday until Tuesday at 9 a.m.

MISSOURIANS PLAN PICNIC

A picnic will be given at Sycamore Grove Park Sunday, September 7, by former residents of Cedar county, Missouri, it is announced by Dr. C. G. Hawkins.

LASKY PREPARES NEW PROGRAM

Lubitsch Takes Charge in East; Clara Bow Migrates; R.-K.-O. to Cofeature Cawthorn and Sparks in Comedy; Mrs. Fiske Plays Role in "The Royal Family"

BY GRACE KINGSLEY

That Paramount is starting out on one of the largest production seasons of its entire career, with studio expansion plans unparalleled in its history, is indicated by some highly important announcements forthcoming from the studios yesterday.

On the eve of Jesse L. Lasky's departure for New York, a conference was held yesterday morning, with Lasky, B. P. Schulberg and Walter F. Wanger participating.

As a result, B. P. Schulberg announced that some seventy feature productions including several specials, are to be made within the next few months. And to this end new stages are under construction in the East, to be completed within a few weeks. This will leave the western studios more room in which to make the big special outdoor features.

Clara Bow, Ruth Chatterton and Claudette Colbert are all to work in the East in special productions, according to Schulberg's announcement. Hector Turnbull, associate producer on Schulberg's staff, will be transferred to New York to take charge of the productions of these stars.

Another highly important announcement made by Schulberg is to the effect that Ernst Lubitsch, director of "The Love Parade," has been appointed to the post of supervising director at the eastern studios and will remain there for a long period. Immediately on his arrival in New York, Lubitsch will start work on a new all-star production, adapted from a noted stage play, and a satire of the sort that has made him famous.

"The moving of important star and directorial personalities to the eastern plant will give the Hollywood studios an opportunity to concentrate on the making of a greater number of outstanding special productions," explained Schulberg.

Lasky expressed gratification over the improvement of general conditions in every industry and predicted that an era of genuine prosperity is rapidly approaching.

"The reception being accorded such pictures as 'Monte Carlo,' 'Anybody's Woman' and 'Animal Crackers,' all of which are breaking box-office records, is complete evidence that the public wants the modern brand productions which we are endeavoring to make," declared Lasky.

R.-K.-O. TO COSTAR NOTED COMEDIANS

Teaming of popular comedians goes on apace. Now it is that popular pair, Joseph Cawthorn and Ned Sparks, who are to be cofeatured by R.-K.-O.

NED SPARKS

They are to appear together in a picture called "The Accordeon Man," which is to have some musical features. Both comedians have been fairly stealing all pictures in which they have appeared.

Before starting work in the production, however, Sparks is to make a personal-appearance tour to occupy about five weeks. He is leaving immediately for Montreal, whence he will travel to New York and Chicago, appearing at various theaters in those cities.

Mary Duncan Departs

Having covered herself with glory, we hear, with her interpretation of an exacting rôle in "Boudoir Diplomat" for Universal, Mary Duncan is departing for New York Monday.

MARY DUNCAN

Miss Duncan states that she wants to do some shopping in the eastern city, but it is also understood that she has several stage offers awaiting her. Whether she will accept any of them, or whether she will return at once to Hollywood, remains to be seen.

It is said that Universal officials are greatly pleased with Miss Duncan's work in "Boudoir Diplomat," and that there is a possibility she may sign a long contract with the organization.

Pathe Borrows Rita La Roy

That rising young actress, Rita La Roy, has just been borrowed from R.-K.-O., we learn, to play a featured role in a Pathe picture.

RITA LA ROY

Miss La Roy is to play the vampire part in "Sin Takes a Holiday," in which Constance Bennett is star, Kenneth MacKenna portrays the leading male rôle. The young actress recently finished the leading feminine role in the Amos and Andy feature film produced at the R.-K.-O. studios.

Mrs. Fiske Cast

No less famous an actress than Mrs. Fiske, we hear, is to play the mother role in Paramount's "The Royal Family," when that picture goes into production in New York with Ruth Chatterton and Fredric March in the leading roles.

Jean Hersholt is to play the part of the manager, provided he can finish his current Universal characterization in time.

Lloyd Whitlock Is Sheik

The skillful player, Lloyd Whitlock, who has just finished a role for Universal in "See America Thirst," has been cast by that organization in the role of an Egyptian sheik in "The Cohans and Kellys in Africa," which is the next story in the series of adventures related of the two amusing families.

Charles Murray and George Sidney have the male leads, and it is understood that Vera Gordon and Kate Price will probably play their original roles.

Lita Chevret in It

That charming young actress, Lita Chevret, seems in a fair way to win a big name for herself in pictures.

Having just completed a rôle most successfully in R.-K.-O.'s "Losing Game," Miss Chevret has just been cast for a leading role in the "Nick and Tony" series which R.-K.-O. is producing.

Divorce Judge Cites Woman's Party Platform

Husbands won't have to support wives when the Twentieth Amendment passes, Superior Judge Yankwich commented yesterday while trying Mrs. Margaret W. Midyette's suit for divorce from Dayton Ralph Midyette. The wife had testified that her husband had left her.

"He wouldn't work," she testified.

"Well," said Judge Yankwich, "if the Woman's party succeeds in passing the Twentieth Amendment of the Constitution, abolishing all privileges of women, no man will be compelled to support his family. Your husband evidently assumes that that is the law now."

The judge granted a decree to the wife.

WOMAN ENDS LIFE BY TAKING POISON

The motive for her act shrouded in mystery, Mrs. Irene Moberly, 29 years of age, ended her life yesterday afternoon with poison in her home at 2029 South Main street, according to Detective Lieutenant Hamlin. She died at the Angelus Hospital. The body was removed to the County Morgue.

ESPERANTO MEETING TONIGHT

The Esperanto Club of Los Angeles will hold a public meeting in the assembly room of the Hotel Rosslyn Annex this evening at 8 o'clock. Mrs. Doherty will be chairman. The speaker of the evening will be the former Persian Ambassador, followed by Ted Stewart, tenor, who will sing in Esperanto. Joseph R. Scherer, president of the Los Angeles Esperanto Club, is about to leave on an extended world tour in furtherance of Esperanto.

Four Marx Brothers on Screen at Paramount

Fast-Stepping Ensemble Hit in Stage Show

BY EDWIN SCHALLERT

The dancing and the scenic embellishments are the best in the stage show.

The comedy of Harpo and Chico Marx is outstanding in "Animal Crackers."

This goes for the new program at the Paramount Theater. It is a good bill, taken by and large, with humor enough in the feature picture and pep enough in the footlight presentation to please.

I would give Groucho Marx a big line of credit for his rapid-fire talk in "Animal Crackers," did it not become, at times, just a little wearisome. He is the most amusing of the quartet at many moments, but his wisecracks pall on account of their very abundance.

The film is the first follow-up for the original Marx Brothers harlequinade, "The Cocoanuts," and as an accomplishment in direction and quality is ahead of its predecessor. The comedy is also better. The one pre-eminent fault is the length, and the all-too-persistent demands on the audience for laughter. It simply is impossible to keep up the hilarious pace for an hour and a half, with scarcely a real interlude.

The picture is an adaptation of the musical play by George S. Kaufman, Bert Kalmar, Morrie Ryskind and Harry Ruby. The continuity was done by Pierre Collings and Victor Heerman, an able maker of comedies, furnished the direction. Lillian Roth, Margaret Dumont, Louis Sorin, Hal Thompson and various others appear, Miss Roth being featured. Zeppo Marx plays an incidental role.

The plot is all about a week-end house party given by a social climber, and the theft of a very valuable painting, of which there are two duplicates. It is in the cards from the beginning that Harpo Marx, with his taking ways, will turn out to be the possessor of not only the pictures, but everything else that happens to be missing.

Groucho Marx is cast as a big-game hunter from Africa; Zeppo as his secretary, and Harpo and Chico as musicians. That gives Harpo the chance to live up to his name by playing the harp for a good-sized sequence. Chico mostly pings the piano.

The funniest scenes are perhaps the ones which show Harpo "shooting up" the house party, Groucho Marx doing a travesty on "Strange Interlude," a nut argument between that individual and Chico over discovering the identity of the culprit who purloined the painting, the earlier fantastic scene where Chico and Harpo do the purloining, and a few others. All of the comedy is pretty much of a melee and nothing stands out so brilliantly that it is unforgettable. If one could rest up more between laughs "Animal Crackers" would undoubtedly be the king-pin bit of mirthful enjoyment in many months. As everything stands, it's sufficient uproarious to provide plenty of relaxation.

The chorus dancing in the stage revue is an achievement. The production is presented by Busby Berkeley and was devised at the Paramount studios here. A fast-stepping, fast maneuvering ensemble has been gathered together. They do a veritable dance marathon to close the show.

Comedy principals misfire at times, even though they include those three amusing knockabout gentlemen, who were with Ted Healy, namely Howard, Fine and Howard. This time they are associated with Ted Leary. The dancing principals are good and the eye appeal of the flower number is rather notable.

International Theater will Open Tonight

Tonight will witness the opening of the International California Theater, the first playhouse in the world dedicated to the showing of foreign language talking pictures.

The opening attraction is Paramount's Spanish production, "El Cuerpo del Delito," featuring Antonio Moreno, Barry Norton, Maria Alba, Ramon Pereda, Andreas de Segurola and other Spanish-speaking players. On the same program will be a full list of short subjects.

Ramon Pereda, one of the featured players of the picture, will act as master of ceremonies and introduce the cast of the picture and other popular actors and actresses, including Adolphe Menjou and Rosita Moreno from the stage following the presentation of the picture.

The opening night promises to be a brilliant event and diplomatic and consular corps representatives of Latin American countries will attend.

Majestic will Screen Talkies

Saturday marks the reopening of the Majestic Theater as a film house. The theater has been remodeled in the period of Louis XVI, and the latest sound equipment has been installed.

Warner Brothers and First National pictures will be shown and the first will be "The Matrimonial Bed," a farce comedy, with Frank Fay, Lilyan Tashman and Florence Eldridge in featured parts. The theater will be operated by American Theaters, Ltd., of which Fred W. Siegel is president.

TRIP PLANNED

In order to secure local color for his next novel, which is to have the sea as a background, Wallace Smith, prominent author, artist and globe-trotter, is planning a three weeks' auto and boat-cruising trip.

Brilliant Actor Stars in Film

George Arliss

Enacts the leading role in "Old English," John Galsworthy's drama, which starts a run at Warner Brothers' Hollywood Theater today.

YOUTH FROLICS AT BOULEVARD

In defiance of the prevailing heat, or perhaps in sympathy with it, the Boulevard opens its doors this week with "Cheer Up and Smile." This is a youthful song-and-dance guided by Sidney Lanfield for Fox.

The collegiate atmosphere which permeates the opening sequences does not continue. It serves really to establish an existing romance between the adolescent Arthur Lake and the trifle more sophisticated Dixie Lee and to demonstrate Arthur's agility at the drums.

Lake, if not destined to be a perpetual Peter Pan, has an engaging quality of youthful spontaneity and awkwardness. He could stand a little age with its accompanying dignity, however, for it is scarcely believable that one so totally naive could conquer New York overnight or think seriously of matrimony.

Suspended from college because of an unavoidable indignity, Lake remembers his pal in Broadway, "Whispering" Jack Smith. He is next located at Pierre's, the night haunt of the idle rich. This gives ample opportunity for incidental musical and dance numbers with Arthur drumming away in the orchestra. Smith favors a screen public with several songs which will probably add to his popularity.

All is serene until a trio of gunsters hold up the place and force Lake to "go on with the show" by singing into the microphone at pistol's point. There is a quaver in his tones which jaded New York mistakes for "It" and Arthur is made.

Things might have ended here, but don't. Dixie comes on to her hero and then there are frame-ups and misunderstandings and French hysteries from Pierre until there doesn't seem to be anything else to do but end it all.

"Cheer Up and Smile" boasts nothing in the way of weight, and it shouldn't. Its value is purely entertainment and with that in mind, it is built only for laughs. It is a series of "gag" situations and lines which, however, did not seem to displease the audience.

However, the role which is handed to Miss Lee permits her one song, which she manages nicely, and after that she hasn't much to do but be true to Arthur, a task that entails its share of grief.

Charles Judels plays the part of Pierre, an excitable Frenchman who hasn't time for anything but to follow his wife hither and yon.

Olga Baclanova covers the flirtations of this wife with a charm which gains her a sympathy she does not deserve. Franklin Pangborn and Johnny Arthur also have moments.

The uncertain position of a judge at a dog show is brought out in "Prize Puppies," a Lloyd Hamilton comedy. A Fanchon and Marco revue is held on the stage with Jackie Souders leading the Boulevard band.

SOUTH SEA PAGEANTRY PERFORMED

Eichheim Presents Music of Java with Fascinating Gongs and Bells

BY ISABEL MORSE JONES

The center of interest in last night's Bowl concert lay in the Javanese rhythms of "Burma" as transcribed and made into an orchestral suite by Henry Eichheim. Senor Arbos conducted a full program of "Le Carnival Romain" (Berlioz,) the Beethoven seventh symphony, Wagner's Funeral March from "Gotterdamerung" as a tribute to the late Siegfried Wagner and "Three Dances" from "The Three Cornered Hat," by De Falla.

Of the "Burma" suite, the "Grotesquerie" and the "Dance of the Maids of Honor" were most effective in the out-door amphitheater. Gongs and bells of mysterious beauty added to the delicate traceries of atmospheric sound which Mr. Eichheim called forth from the orchestra. The audience laughed with delight at the oriental clowning of the "Dance of the Councillors" and found the graceful musical scene of the dancing maidens all too short a finale. With his modern orchestration and mastery of synchronized rhythms Mr. Eichheim bridges the vast expanse of difference between oriental and occidental life expression.

Of Mr. Arbos's program "The Three Cornered Hat," which came after 10 o'clock, was most interesting. The Beethoven Symphony No. 7 was done in a straightforward and simple way, without sentimentality and without any special effects of dynamics or tempo. Arbos's classics are invariably done with reverence to the composer and with an admirable self-effacement. The first two movements of the Beethoven were given more clarity than the last two which were rather hurried and did not carry so well.

Tonight Arbos will conduct the charming music from Schubert's "Rosamunde," the Mozart E flat symphony, two numbers by the Spanish Granados and "Espana" by Chabrier. Alfred Wallanstein, eminent violoncellist of the New York Philharmonic-Symphony will be welcomed in the Lalo concerto.

'Throw of Dice' Screened Today

"A Throw of Dice," photographed entirely in India, will be the feature at the Filmarte Theater for a week, starting tonight. It tells a story of two powerful kings who stake their kingdoms on a throw of dice in the rivalry to win the hand of a princess.

LIGHT FILM FARE PLAYS AT R.-K.-O.

Girl's Search for Rich Husband Amusingly Told in Columbia Picture

BY JOHN SCOTT

"Ladies Must Play" is light but intelligent screen fare at the R.-K.-O. Theater, where it started a week's run yesterday. The Columbia film offers for approval an airy little yarn of Newport society and the complications of a secretary who finds "good hunting" in her search for a millionaire husband.

Although "Ladies Must Play" has a drawing-room locale for the most part, action finds its place in the story to good effect, in that it breaks up the monotony of the ball-room and parlor repartee. For this successful distribution of motion, Raymond Cannon, the director, takes credit. Cannon moves his players about in such a manner as to hold interest throughout the picture.

The meat of the plot is scanty and consists of how a young business man becomes financially embarrassed and makes a deal with his secretary, who is looking for a rich husband, to introduce her into the exclusive upper circle of society, with the provision that he receive a 10 per cent agent's fee. He accomplishes his purpose only too well and finds that he loves the girl himself. She being of like mind, the final scenes find agent and client in each other's arms.

Comedy is interpolated into the story cleverly by the use of dialogue and character studies of the gentlemen of means who attempt to win the young lady.

The cast of "Ladies Must Play" is headed by Dorothy Sebastian as Norma, the ambitious secretary, and Neil Hamilton, the business man-matrimonial agent. The two are well teamed. Miss Sebastian is being given more vivacious roles than fell to her lot in the past and seems to be improving with each characterization. Her vivacity is in no way forced which is so apparent with some. Hamilton plays the well-groomed business man with ease and ability. Other members of the cast are Natalie Moorhead, John Holland, Harry Stubbs, Shirley Palmer and Pauline Neff.

The story is credited to Paul Fox. Dorothy Howell did the screen treatment and Jo Swerling the dialogue, which is bright. Cannon's direction is noteworthy.

The stage program at the R.-K.-O. this week is fair. Don Santo and Exie Butler presented an act of singing, clowning, in conjunction with an orchestra. Santo's "Hot Cha," a dance, was the highlight of the offering. Milo entertained with imitations of birds, beasts and fish, and Will Higgie presented his "bevy of beauties." Walter Walters and company, ventriloquists, rounded out the bill.

NOVARRO A TROUBADOR OF SEVILLE

"Call of the Flesh," New Loew's State Film, Wins Tribute of Tears

BY PHILIP K. SCHEUER

The way of a man with a maid—a singer of Seville and a novice in a nunnery—is told again, and beautifully, at Loew's State. The frame carries the sensation-seeking legend, "Call of the Flesh," and the succession of soft, white-and-black pictures is filled mostly by Ramon Novarro, exquisite prankish minstrel, and petite Dorothy Jordan, though Ernest Torrence, Renee Adoree, Nance O'Neil and Russell Hopton move in and out as well. Expressively Latin in mood and telling, the new film is one not to be missed by any admirer of the star . . . or of romance.

And this, I think, is the chief distinction of "Call of the Flesh," that it talks of love and escapes insipidity. Besides which, it is mounted with taste and a fine regard for the camera's eye, and the voice of its caroling protagonist falls gently upon the ear. Novarro sings often in the course of his pilgrimage to happiness; there are new melodies that strum well in obligato, and a final anguished burst of "Ridi, Pagliaccio," that, for all its inescapable theatricality, is the best thing of its kind they have done. Can this be an achievement?

Charles Brabin directed the picture. Like his earlier "The Bridge of San Luis Rey"—but less mystical, less obscure—it is atmospherically rich, its vantage ground ranging from cantina and convent in Seville to the artist quarter and opera houses of Madrid.

The scene opens gayly, with Novarro a mischievous Til Eulenspiegel of the market place, aiding the street urchins to steal fruits and even making way with a costlier treasure himself. A temporary fugitive, he meets another: Maria, runaway from the dim religious halls of San Agustino, and the two are in love. How they, in the company of Tio Esteban, the music teacher, go to Madrid; how they are pursued by Nola, the dancer, and Maria's angry brother, is told in vivid and affecting detail.

"Will you give her back to God, or will you hold her here for damnation?" pleads the brother at last; and the two are parted. The ending, happy without being forced, reunites them. Yesterday's audience, glad, laid aside its handkerchiefs and applauded mightily.

Novarro needs no apologia. A splendid, sincere actor, he is as intense in his tragic reversals as in the unexpectedness of his delight. Miss Jordan, again his vis-a-vis, reveals a simplicity that soon grows wholly disarming. You cannot, I mean, help liking her. Miss Adoree, fiery and vivacious, provides a welcome contrast.

Ernest Torrence, who—keepsake of his Gilbert and Sullivan days—owns a voice that booms powerfully through the microphone, plays the music teacher. Russell Hopton, a bit stagey, is the girl's brother, and Nance O'Neil the Mother Superior. An unnamed actor, cast as the great impresario, merits singling out.

Dialogue by John Colton is a reasonable mixture of the archaic and the colloquial. The story is Dorothy Farnum's. Stothart and Grey wrote and arranged the music, the love theme of which should be heard again.

Like most stage shows, too long, Fanchon and Marco's "Rhythm-a-tic" is the idea this week. A mental acrobat—Harry Kahne—embarrassed me by getting his arithmetic in an almost hopeless tangle, and then, thank heaven, getting it out again. A group of precocious youngsters was approved; and the Georgia Lane Dancers exhibited some unusual tactics. Rube Wolf, in his second return week, already seems never to have gone away.

"ALL QUIET" OPENS AT CRITERION

Remarque Story of War Told on Screen Today; Starts New Season

"All Quiet on the Western Front" begins a limited engagement at the Criterion Theater today.

The Criterion management considers itself more than fortunate in obtaining "All Quiet" because the patronage possibilities of the production were only scratched during the interrupted engagement at the Carthay Circle Theater, according to an announcement.

The picture was selected by Fox West Coast Theaters to open the theatrical season of 1930-1931 in seventy-six houses.

Ann Harding to Join Hollywood Hall of Fame

Ann Harding will make her mark in the Hollywood Hall of Fame Saturday night at the Chinese Theater. The actress has accepted an invitation to stamp the impressions of her hand-prints, footprints and signature in the forecourt at the Hollywood showhouse.

The motive in inviting her was inspired by her work in "Holiday," which is now playing to capacity houses at the Carthay Circle Theater, according to an announcement.

Motion-picture sound cameras, arc lights and other accessories will help record the event. The Chinese management has made plans to handle the large crowd expected for the occasion.

"Moby Dick" to Continue Run at Warner Theater

After breaking theater attendance records, "Moby Dick," starring John Barrymore, starts the third week of its run at Warner Brothers' Downtown Theater today.

During the first two weeks of the run of this production the attendance at the Downtown was 87,564, the theater reports. Records show that of this attendance over 56,000 were women.

DOCTOR WOUNDED IN FIGHT WITH BANDIT

Shot through the left hand by one of two bandits who accosted him early yesterday morning, Dr. William A. Patrick, 5409 Pine avenue, Maywood, is recovering, it was stated at his home late yesterday.

The doctor, according to a Sheriff's office report, was shot while en route home from a country club about 3 a.m. when the bandit car forced his automobile to a stop on Slauson avenue between Garfield street and the river.

Alighting from his automobile at the same time as one of the bandits stepped out with a gun in his hand, the doctor reported that he struck the man with his fist, the bandit retaliating by shooting the physician in the hand. As the doctor fell to the ground, the man reentered the bandit car and fled.

Dr. Patrick then drove his own car to the Corby Hospital in Bell for emergency treatment. He described the man who did the shooting as being a foreigner about 19 or 20 years of age and wearing dark glasses.

Bar Plans to Carry on Cause of Candidates

Plans to carry on its campaign in behalf of the five indorsed candidates for Superior Court judgeships who failed of election at Tuesday's primary were announced yesterday by the judiciary committee of the Los Angeles Bar Association. The announcement followed a dinner of the committee at the Alexandria.

The candidates indorsed by the association who must be voted upon again at the final election, are: Judge Arthur Keetch, for Office No. 1; Judge Hartley Shaw, Office No. 5; Judge Edward T. Bishop, Office No. 6; Judge J. Walter Hanby, Office No. 9; Judge William Hazlett, Office No. 10.

In its announcement the committee said: "All of these men have for years served this county well on the Superior bench. It takes time to train a judge for this important work and it is an economic loss to the community to change where the incumbent is performing his duties in a satisfactory manner."

ATTIC CASE UP AGAIN TODAY

Attorneys for Mrs. Oesterreich Expected to Fight Retrial with Dismissal Motions

Numerous motions for dismissal of the murder charge against Mrs. Walburga Oesterreich, accused of murdering her husband, Fred Oesterreich, are anticipated when the defendant appears in Superior Judge Hardy's court this morning to have her case set for retrial.

Although Jerry Giesler, defense attorney, declined to state his plans or to discuss the case, it was understood that the defense has prepared several motions for dismissal to be presented when the case is called today.

Mrs. Oesterreich went on trial before Judge Hardy on the 4th inst. The jury was discharged on Monday, last, when it reported itself deadlocked after being locked up for three days.

James P. Costello and J. Thomas Russell, deputy district attorneys prosecuting the case, announce that they are prepared to resist any motions for dismissal and will insist that the case be set for retrial at an early date.

When the trial date is fixed the prosecution hopes to obtain new evidence from additional witnesses in Milwaukee to strengthen the State's case, according to Costello.

Mrs. Oesterreich is charged with shooting her husband to death in their Los Angeles home on the night of August 22, 1922. Otto Sanhuber, mysterious attic man of the Oesterreich household, already has been tried on a charge of murdering Oesterreich but was found guilty of manslaughter and subsequently released under the statute of limitations.

When first arrested, Sanhuber admitted living hidden in attics and secret rooms in the Oesterreich dwellings for more than ten years to be near Mrs. Oesterreich. He also stated in his asserted confession, that he fired the shots that killed Oesterreich.

At his trial, however, Sanhuber repudiated the confession and testified that he did not fire the shots and that he was hidden in his attic room at the time the shots were fired.

In her defense Mrs. Oesterreich maintained that the shots actually were fired by Sanhuber as he is asserted to have confessed when first arrested.

SCHOOL SCHEDULE FIXED

TRIAL LEADS TO FIST FIGHT

State Rests in Case of Accused Slayer of Officer; Attorneys End Quarrel in Blows

Punctuated by heated legal arguments and one fistic encounter between prosecution and defense attorneys, the trial of Juan Reyna, charged with the murder of Verne Brindley, Los Angeles police officer, reached the halfway mark yesterday when the prosecution rested its case and the defense was started in Superior Judge McComb's court.

Details of the fistic encounter, which occurred Wednesday night after court adjourned, were not disclosed until yesterday morning when C. V. Rude, defense attorney, appeared in court with his hand bandaged.

Witnesses assert that Rude and Ugene U. Blalock, deputy District Attorney prosecuting the case, engaged in an argument on legal points after court adjourned. The argument ended in a fist fight when it became of a personal nature. The two combatants were separated by Bailiff Clark Reeder and Edward Boyd, court clerk. According to those who saw the encounter, Rude suffered an injured hand when Blalock ducked his blow and received it on the top of his head.

The first defense witness called in the case last night was Dr. A. E. Saverein. He testified to treating Reyna for a head injury which the defendant asserts was inflicted by a blow on the head from Officer Brindley's revolver.

The complaint charges that Reyna, when arrested, seized Brindley's revolver and shot him to death at the same time wounding L. E. Williams, another officer.

FACE ALLISON, VAN RYN TODAY

National Doubles Champions Defend Net Title

Helen Marlowe, Miss Nuthall Enter Final Round

Midge Gladman, Van Ryn Lose in Quarterfinals

BY W. R. KING

Associated Press Sports Writer

BROOKLINE, Aug. 28. (AP)—History repeated itself here today, when hard-driving George Lott and Johnny Doeg, defending champions in the national doubles tennis tourney, gained the final round again by defeating those wise old veterans, Big Tilden and Francis T. Hunter, in a sparkling five-set match, 3-6, 6-3, 6-2, 9-11, 6-2.

JOHNNY DOEG

Tilden used up most of his stamina in rushing to Hunter's rescue during the first four sets and when the finale rolled around he was so tired the champions blasted both of his services and clinched the victory early.

Lott and Doeg must upset Johnny Van Ryn and Wilmer Allison, Davis Cup doubles team, on Saturday to retain their title, for those Wimbledon champions gained the last bracket with a four-set victory over another Texas-New Jersey combination, Berkley Bell and Gregory Mangin, by scores of 6-8, 6-4, 6-4, 6-3.

The defending champions' struggle with Tilden and Hunter was an extremely tense affair. The veterans took the first set when Lott erred enough in the eighth game to drop his service. The second was almost the same, but it was Hunter who cracked in the fatal eighth. Three sharp placements against Tilden and his double fault broke that seven-times national champion's service in the first game of the third set and when Hunter lost his in the seventh, Lott and Doeg took command of the match.

Games went with service nineteen times in the fourth set. Many times during this marathon set, which ended when Lott netted three times and double faulted the set point, the champions had Hunter cracking but Tilden, who reached amazing heights, even for him, several times in this series, came to his rescue with timely placements.

The big break came in the first game of the fifth set, when Lott and Doeg launched such a furious attack against Tilden that he cracked badly. From then on his play was unsteady. He dropped his next service, thereby enabling Lott and Doeg to coast easily to the end.

Because of the overtime men's matches, only two brackets in the semifinals round of the mixed doubles could be filled. Mrs. J. D. Corbiere, Boston, and Fritz Mercur, Bethlehem, Pa., gained one of these berths by defeating Marjorie Gladman, Santa Monica, Cal., and Van Ryn, 6-4, 2-6, 6-4. The other be-

HERO OF CUB-CARD CLASSIC

Have a look at Andy High, St. Louis third-sacker, whose rousing single to center yesterday scored Taylor Douthit from second base with the run that broke up a twenty-inning battle between the league-leading Chicago Cubs and climbing Cardinals. High's hit prolonged the Cards' winning streak to nine straight and ended the longest game played in the majors this season. [P. & A. photo]

STARS DEFEAT MISSIONS

Four Consecutive Walks in Ninth Inning Give Vitt's Team 4-to-3 Win Over Bay City Outfit

BY BOB RAY

After overcoming a three-run lead in the first of the ninth when "Fuzzy" Hufft clouted a home run into the right-field bleachers with two men on, the Mission Reds stood idly by and watched two of their young southpaws by the names of Johnson and Darrough walk four straight Stars, with one away, in the home half of the inning, to give the Hollywood club a 4-to-3 victory last night at Wrigley Field.

Johnson, who had replaced Lieber, when the Stars came to bat in the eighth inning, retired Augie Johns on a roller to Burns, but then lost control and walked Hill and Lee. Manager Wade Killefer jerked the young portsider, and called in Darrough, another youthful forkhander, who proceeded to pass both Brannan and Barbee to force Hill across the plate, with the winning run.

DAVE BARBEE.

The contest started out as a mound duel between "Hank" Hulvey, Hollywood veteran, and "Dutch" Lieber, 20-year-old knuckle-ball hurler of the Reds. Lieber yielded a run in the third, and two more in the sixth before he was lifted for a pinch hitter in the eighth.

HUFFT BELTS ONE

Hulvey breezed through the first eight innings with only one Red getting to third base, and appeared all set for a shutout, until the ninth, when Rodda and Monroe singled, and Hufft followed with his circuit wallop. Johns, who replaced Hulvey, retired the Missions in the ninth, and gained credit for an easy victory, because of the two Red southpaws' wildness.

A crowd of about 8000 turned out for the contest, and saw Oscar Vitt's Sheiks retain their two and one-half-game lead over the second-place Seraphs.

Dave Barbee banged a home run in the sixth inning, to bring his total to thirty, while Hufft's long drive in the ninth also was his thirtieth, so the two rival outfielders are still tied for the Coast League four-base batting leadership.

Hollywood started the scoring in the third inning when they bumped Lieber's knucklers for three hits and a run. Severeid led off with a single to left, and on a perfectly executed hit-and-run play, Hank scored when Gazella doubled to left center. Hulvey hit to Rodda, whose throw to Mulligan nipped Gazella at third. After Hill had fanned, Lee singled to left, but Brannan ended the round by lining to Kelly.

THRILLS FANS

Barbee gave the fans a thrill in the fourth inning when he ran in to snare Monroe's line drive, and then made a perfect throw to Green to double Rodda, who had singled, off first.

The Stars threatened after two were out in the home half of the fourth, when Green doubled down the left-field line, and Severeid was purposely walked, but Lieber leaped high in the air to spear Gazella's smash through the box, with one hand,

Mrs. Hill, Miss Page Clash in Feature Match

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 28. (AP)—Sub-par golf was stroked again today by Mrs. O. S. Hill of Kansas City as she won her quarter-finals match in defense of her women's western golf title. The breaks of the game helped the champion at crucial moments in subduing the western open title-holder, Mrs. Lee Mida, Chicago, 3 and 2.

MRS. GREGG LIFUR.

In the semi-finals tomorrow Mrs. Hill will have as opponent Miss Dorothy Page, Madison, Wis., who eliminated another golf luminary, Miss Virginia Van Wie, Chicago, 2 and 1, in a gruelling match.

Mrs. Gregg Lifur, Los Angeles, the only Californian left in the tournament, had the biggest advantage of the day, a 4-and-3 margin over Miss Betty Bruen, Kansas City, and tomorrow meets Mrs. G. W. Tyson, Kansas City, who won from Miss Florence Beebe, Chicago, one up. Mrs. Lifur, runner-up to Mrs. Hill in the finals a year ago, was forced to shoot three under par on the first nine to gain a two-hole advantage over the youthful Kansas Citian and maintain a fast pace on the six holes played on the last nine.

Broken Ankle Ruins Rumler

Bill Rumler, veteran Hollywood slugger, has played his last game of the season for the Stars and may be through with baseball forever. The hard-hitting Rumler broke a bone in his right ankle sliding into second base in the ninth inning of Wednesday night's game. Bill has been removed to the Cedars of Lebanon Hospital and is under the care of Dr. Early, club physician.

Veteran Third Sacker to Join Club at Once; Turner Gets Hubbell

PORTLAND (Or.) Aug. 28. (AP)—Thomas L. Turner, Portland baseball club president, announced today the outright purchase of Sammy Hale, veteran big league third baseman, from the St. Louis Browns. Turner said Hale would report here immediately.

Turner, who also announced the purchase of Wilbert Hubbell, right-handed pitcher, from the Seattle Indians, said the purchase price for Hale was $7500. No price was announced regarding Hubbell.

HIGH'S SINGLE ENDS STRUGGLE

Douthit Scores with Tally that Decides Clash

Both Teams Put Across Two Runs in Fifteenth

Victory is Ninth Straight for St. Louis Crew

CHICAGO, Aug. 28. (AP)—Andy High's single with Taylor Douthit on second base, as dusk settled over Wrigley Field this evening, gave the St. Louis Cardinals an 8-to-7, twenty-inning victory over the National League champion Cubs. The battle was the longest fought out in the major leagues this season and brought to a climax a sizable list of overtime games for the Cubs. Four hours and ten minutes of baseball left the members of both teams almost exhausted and even Kiki Cuyler walked in from left field at the finish, breaking his custom of sprinting for the Cub dugout.

TAYLOR DOUTHIT

With one out in the twentieth Douthit singled and went to second as Sparky Adams was thrown out. High then caught one of Bob Osborn's pitches for a blazing single to center.

Reister Loses to Fernandez

Bobby Reister tired badly in the eighth round of his bout with Ignatio Fernandez at Pasadena last night and as a result his seconds tossed in the towel in order to save Bobby from further punishment at the hands of the veteran Filipino. The fight went on even terms for the first six rounds, during which Reister had Fernandez on the floor for a short count in the fourth. Reister tired badly after the sixth round and was taking quite a bit of punishment from the Filipino when the towel ended the bout. From the beginning it was evident that Fernandez was too smart for the Alhambra schoolboy. Reister's only chance to win would have been by a kayoe.

In the semi-wind-up Don Trevis won the decision from Pete Marino. Manuel Victoria stopped Art Butler in the third round of the special event. In the preliminary bouts Happy Romero kayoed Terry Van Lopez in the first and Chuck Smith stopped Sammy Marx in the fourth round. In the curtain-raiser Cliff Campbell finished Manuel Reyes in three rounds. Reg Gilmore refereed.

MORGAN BEATS MACK

SEATTLE, Aug. 28. (AP)—Tod Morgan, Seattle, former junior lightweight boxing champion of the world, won a clean-cut decision over Eddie Mack, Denver, in a six-round bout here tonight. Morgan weighed 136 pounds and Mack 133½.

Angel Mound Staff Lets San Franciscans Down Four Hits and Bats Over Lone Run of Tilt to Conquer Zinn in Brilliant Mound Duel

CISCO, Aug. 28. (Exclusive)—Jimmy Zinn and Ed Baecht, pitchers of the Coast League, hooked up in a fine pitching duel today and Baecht won for the Angels, 1 to 0. It was his nineteenth win of the year. Zinn has won twenty. He pitched well enough to win, but no pitcher can win unless his team makes runs.

JIMMY ZINN.

The game was in sharp and pleasing contrast to the affair of the day before. The pitching was good; the fielding was perfect, so the only run of the game was earned. The game was reeled off in jig time with only one substitution made. Baker batted for Coleman in the ninth and Baecht tossed him out.

Oana hits hard at times, but with a chance to be a hero he popped out to Jacobs. Coleman followed with a roller to Jacobs to retire the side.

Zinn did some fine pitching in the sixth when the Angels made a double and two singles, but did not score. Haney opened with a double. Schulmerich drove a liner into the hands of Crosetti. Haney tried to steal third, but Gaston threw him out. Jacobs and Statz followed with hits but Rawlings lifted a fly to Coleman for the third out.

Schulmerich got a double with one man out in the eighth, but Jacobs popped to Crosetti and Statz fouled to Pinelli to retire the side.

BOESEKE GETS TRIAL

California Polo Ace to Ride on First Team Again in Final Practice Match Today

NEW YORK, Aug. 28. (AP)—The battle for the No. 2 position on the American polo "big four" will be carried into the final test match this Saturday at the Meadowbrook Club.

The return of Earle A. S. Hopping to the varsity fold yesterday was regarded as a forerunner of his selection for the No. 2 post but two other candidates, Elmer J. Boeseke, Jr., of California and Herbert W. (Rube) Williams of Texas will be given final chances Saturday to show what they can do.

James Davis Wins Honors

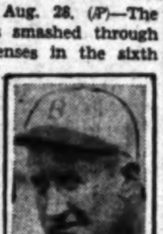
One point behind Davis came George A. Marshall, Portland (Or.) policeman, with 264. John H. Young of Pittsburgh was third with 262 and Alfred Heming, Detroit, won fourth with 259.

DODGERS PASS GIANTS AS VANCE TWIRLS WIN

NEW YORK, Aug. 28. (AP)—The Brooklyn Robins smashed through the Giants' defenses in the sixth today and made their way into second place by scoring seven runs in that frame for an 8-to-7 victory. This triumph clinched the season's series for the Robins with twelve victories over the Giants and only six defeats.



DAZZY VANCE.

Dazzy Vance gave nine hits, of which three were home runs. Circuit clouts by Lindstrom, Ott and Jackson accounted for four Giant runs, Jackson's coming in the ninth with Ott on base.

Homers also played an important part in the Brooklyn scoring. Mickey Finn hit one with the bases empty in the fifth, while Glenn Wright ended Hubbell's stay in the box in the sixth when his homer with Herman on base put the Robins ahead for the first time. The score:

Paul Pirrone of Cleveland Takes on Pete Meyer in Hollywood Main Event To

WELTERS TOP LEGION CARD

Sub Bout Necessary Because of Cancellation

Chet Shandel Ordered Off Stadium Program

Easterner is Rated Better than Lawless

BY KAY OWE

Paul Pirrone of Cleveland will meet Pete Meyer of San Francisco in the ten-round main event at the Hollywood Legion stadium tonight.

TOM GALLERY.

The bout is a substitute for the scheduled Les Kennedy-Chet Shandel engagement which was barred by the State Athletic Commission at its meeting in San Francisco yesterday.

The commission held that Shandel was not a fit opponent for Kennedy.

Matchmaker Tom Gallery of Hollywood was in the north for the meeting, and Gene Doyle did the quick pinch-hitting for tonight's fight.

Meyer has fought here several times, and is rated a tough welterweight.

Pirrone is a newcomer, who arrived here a week ago, and is said to be better than Bucky Lawless.

Lawless got over big when he whipped Babe Anderson at Hollywood, and gained a match at the Olympic next week with Sammy Jackson on the strength of that showing.

The semi-wind-up will show Tommy McGough and Sammy Seaman, bantamweights. McGough was originally matched with Tommy Gardner, but the latter contracted the flu, and Seaman, a sharpshooter with his left, was substituted.

Another pair of banties, Jimmy Mack and Mickey Romo, fight the six-round special.

Gene Mullen and Frank Rowsey, middleweights, are down for one four-rounder and "Mugs" Beer fights Joe Doaks in the opener.

Ducks Capture Easy Contest

PORTLAND (Or.) Aug. 28. (AP)—Portland gained an easy 10-to-6 win over Sacramento tonight through the early wildness of two young pitchers, Hamilton and Musedo. The series now stands 2 to 1 for Portland.

Cohn, Lynch Win in East

OCEAN CITY (N. J.) Aug. 28. (AP) Two California boys today gained semifinal brackets in both the junior and boys' divisions in the Atlantic Coast tennis championships. Jay Cohn and Jack Lynch, the national boys' doubles champions, are the two youngsters. Cohn is also the national boys' singles champion.

Cohn defeated Charles Ricksecker of Landsdowne in a quarterfinal match, 6-1, 6-4, while Lynch bowled over William Babcock of Wilmington, Del., 6-0, 6-4.

Tomorrow Cohn will meet Eddie Jacobs of Baltimore, the top seeded player in the junior division, while Lynch will clash with Donald Morrison of Washington, D. C.

VINES AND GLEDHILL TO TAKE ON BRITONS

NEW YORK, Aug. 28. (AP)—The United States Lawn Tennis Association tonight announced the schedule of matches for the one-day international series between the United States and Great Britain at the West Side Tennis Club Saturday. Three singles matches and two in doubles will be played. The schedule follows: Singles, H. G. N. Lee, England, vs. Clifford Sutter, New Orleans. S. J. Perry, England, vs. Ellsworth Vines, Pasadena. J. S. Olliff, England, vs. Sidney Wood, New York. Doubles, L. A. Godfree and Lee, England, vs. Vines and Keith Gledhill, Santa Barbara. Perry and Olliff, England, vs. Wood and Frank Shields, New York. The first match will start at 12:30 p.m. (E.S.T.) with the others following at hourly intervals.

PENN TO PLAY BUCKEYES

COLUMBUS (O.) Aug. 28. (AP)—Ohio State University has entered into a two-year home-and-home football contract with the University of Pennsylvania, the athletic department announced late today. Under the contract Pennsylvania will play here in 1932 and Ohio State will go to Philadelphia in 1933.

The last blows of summer are now almost over,
Concerning the scrap of the weak and the strong;
And some are in briars—and some are in clover,
For that is the way that the world moves along.

For Sharkey and Schmeling—for Babe and for Hack—
But why make the reader continue to suffer?
The last blows of summer are now in the sack.

Touching Wood—But Who Can?

Last fall the daily dispatches were full of words concerning one Barry Wood of Harvard. It seems he was tossing passes all over the landscape and driving his team along after the manner of a high-class quarterback. As winter came along there was more gossip about the same Barry Wood in connection with Harvard hockey, if we recall the details. And here again he was a star.

Then spring arrived with its primrose and its base hits and once again the dispatches were relating the active maneuvers of the same Barry Wood on Harvard's baseball team, where he was hitting and fielding up with the elect.

There will be no more about Mr. Wood, we thought until another football season is on again. But this guess was entirely incorrect. In picking up the papers today we see where Barry Wood and a teammate gave Lott and Doeg, the national doubles champions, all they can handle at tennis at Longwood. And against Mr. Wood was extremely active, this time with a tennis racket.

There is little doubt that Barry Wood would be heard from at Merion, in the amateur golf championship, if this did not conflict with Arnold Horween's football practice. The trouble is, there are not enough months in a year for Barry Wood. It might be mentioned on the side that he is also an honor student, up around the head of his class, and that he is about as fine a sportsman as you would care to meet.

The British Chance

The British polo team now has just a week in which to get ready for one of the hardest traveling, hardest walloping young polo teams that ever took the field.

Maybe the invaders can make the grade. But they will have to play entirely different polo from the type their predecessors played on the last trip over. No careful, safe, sane, conservative tactics will have any chance at all against the power and speed and control of the American four. The team that came over three years ago would be crushed—something like 15 goals to 3, or 18 to 5.

Few would begrudge a British victory after so many years of failure and such hard trying. But there will be none of this feeling on the American side and only hard, driving, smashing polo will have even an outside chance. The last international matches were too one-sided to be even interesting. Half a dozen United States teams could have made a far better showing.

This next international, starting next Saturday, may be entirely different. But if so an entirely different type of polo will have to be played. One might as well expect to stand on the tee with a midiron against Bobby Jones using a driver as to try to win with the brand of polo Great Britain uncovered on her last trip across. The British side must understand by now that it will be up against a dashing and a smashing outfit, always on the offensive, knowing what it is about.

That Pennant Race

There should be a much better line on the National League pennant race after Labor Day. Here are the contests that will take place before the mob swings back to work next Tuesday:

Cubs—Friday, Saturday and Sunday, St. Louis at Chicago. Monday, Chicago at Cincinnati two games.

Giants—Friday and Saturday, Brooklyn at New York. Sunday, Boston at New York. Monday, New York at Philadelphia—two games.

Brooklyn—Friday and Saturday in New York. Sunday, Philadelphia in Brooklyn. Monday, Brooklyn at Boston—two games.

and threw Mike out at first, for the third out.

The sheiks did some heavy cannonading in the sixth to batter across two more runs and give Hulvey a 3-0 lead. With one away Barbee cracked one of Lieber's low offerings on a line over the left-field fence for his thirtieth homer of the year. Carlyle followed with a single to center, and, after Green had fanned, romped all the way home when Kelly failed to make a shoestring catch of Severeid's liner that went through him for a triple.

After two were out in the seventh the Stars filled the bases when Monroe booted Lee's grounder, Brannan singled, and Barbee walked, but Carlyle was thrown out by Monroe to prevent any scoring.

FANS MULLIGAN

The Missions made an attempt to spoil Hulvey's shutout in the eighth when they got a runner as far as third, but Hank fanned Mulligan for the third out. With one away, in this round, Kelly walked, and Killefer sent in Cole to bat for Hoffmann. Cole popped to Gazella. Ted Pillette, batting for Lieber, singled to center, and Kelly sprinted to third, but Mulligan whiffed.

A strapping 19-year-old southpaw, by the name of Johnson, whom the Missions picked up out of Santa Rosa High School, pitched the eighth and disposed of the Stars in order.

All of Hulvey's great work went for naught in the ninth when the Missions broke out with a three-run rally to tie the score. After Rodda and Monroe had opened the inning with singles, "Fuzzy" Hufft, with a three-and-two count, dropped one into the right-field bleachers for the circuit, to knot the count. Johns then went to the mound, and disposed of the next three Reds to end the inning.

Indians Annex Ragged Clash

SEATTLE, Aug. 28. (AP)—The Seattle Indians won a ragged game from Oakland, 19 to 7, here tonight, collecting twenty-one hits off three Oakland pitchers. Seven Oakland errors contributed to the lopsided score. Lombardi, Oakland catcher, drove out a homer in the first of the fifth and Ruether, Seattle pitcher, pounded out another in the last of the same frame.

MUSICIANS TO STAGE TENNIS TOURNAMENT

The saxophone and the piccolo will be cast aside in favor of the tennis racket next month, for the musicians of Los Angeles will engage in a tennis tournament at the Palomar Club. Three days will be devoted to the contests starting September 8.

The harmony purveyors plan to stage an annual tourney of which this will be the first, there being scores of court devotees among Los Angeles' professional musicians. All players engaged in the musical profession in Southern California are eligible to enter and should forward their entries before September 5 to Vic De Lory, 1135 Poinsettia Drive, or to the Palomar Club.

MOVIE STARS TO PLAY IN STATE AMATEUR

DEL MONTE, Aug. 28. (AP)—Douglas Fairbanks, Jack Coogan and other movie celebrities have entered the California State amateur golf tournament to be held here September 1 to 7. Fairbanks, of the Riviera Country Club, has an eight-stroke handicap and Coogan, of the Rancho Country Club, has ten.

ENTERPRISE WINS HONOR

Vanderbilt to Skipper Yacht in America's Cup Defense Against Shamrock V Next Month

BY TOM HORGAN
Associated Press Staff Writer

NEWPORT (R. I.) Aug. 28. (AP)—The honor and responsibility of defending the America's Cup rested gracefully tonight on the shoulders of Harold S. Vanderbilt, skipper of the Enterprise, which has been selected to meet Shamrock V, Sir Thomas Lipton's fifth challenger for the most famous of all yachting trophies.

Enterprise's three unsuccessful rivals—Yankee, skippered by Charles Francis Adams, Secretary of the Navy; Weetamoe, the Morgan Nichols entry, and Whirlwind, the Thorne - Hammond boat—repaired to boat yards today. Vanderbilt went aboard Enterprise to supervise tuning up the defender, which he hoped would retain possession of the cup won from England in 1851.

HAROLD VANDERBILT.

On September 13, he must take her out on the ocean course to meet Shamrock V, and he is going about his task as seriously and interested as he has ever dealt with any task.

Throughout the various trials of the four cup candidates, Enterprise was consistently the best sailed. Probably her crew was imbued with Vanderbilt's own fervor.

He is a rigid disciplinarian regarding his own mode of living. During the trial races he sought the top deck of the Vara, his twin-Diesel yacht, early each morning for setting-up exercises. The morning after he had been notified that his boat would be the standard bearer in the international classic he appeared on the Casino courts for a few sets of vigorous tennis. He was so frequently interrupted with congratulations and messages of well wishers that he finally gave it up and took a party of friends out for a sail on the newly nominated defender, Enterprise.

Vanderbilt is a newcomer in the America's Cup classic. He is 46 years of age, something over six feet tall, and as he bends over the Enterprise's wheel the years flee from him. He is the son of William K. Vanderbilt and Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont and is still a bachelor.

ROVERS SEE VICTORY

Confident of Trimming Buccaneers Despite Loss of Baker; Smith Replaces Injured Star

Despite the loss of their captain, Snowy Baker, who was injured in the game a week ago, the Rovers are confident that they can even the count with the Buccaneers when the teams clash Sunday afternoon on the Beverly Boulevard field of the Uplifters' Club. Dick Smith, who played so sensationally last Sunday, will ride in Baker's position at No. 3, while Charles Crawford will go in at No. 2. Lyell Puckett at No. 1 and Carl Beal at back will retain their positions.

The Buccaneers will use the same line-up which showed to advantage last Sunday, viz.: Dr. Rex Duncan, Will Rogers, Jr., Lionel Pedley and Clair Brunson, who trailed the Rovers all through the early stages of the game only to pull a grand-stand finish and win by two goals in the eighth chukker.

The Eleventh Cavalry Army team from Monterey is due to arrive at the Uplifters next Friday for their first game against a picked team on Sunday, the match being under the auspices of the Los Angeles Junior Chamber of Commerce. An army band, military display and a special match race between the two fastest ponies from the rival strings are some of the special features now being lined up by the polo committee of the Junior Chamber.

The army riders are bringing thirty-one ponies with them, thirteen of which are privately owned. The team will line up with Lieut. Jerry Jernigan at No. 1, Lieut. Thomas Thornburgh at No. 2, Maj. D. S. Wood at No. 3 and Capt. W. Falck, back. Lieut. C. S. Hughes is the alternate player. The local team will be strengthened by the addition of Hale Marsh, Santa Barbara star, who will ride at No. 2.

All games at the Uplifters' field are open to the public.

Here are line-ups for Sunday:

ROVERS		BUCCANEERS
Lyell Puckett	No. 1	Dr. Rex Duncan
Chas. Crawford	No. 2	Will Rogers, Jr.
Dick Smith	No. 3	Lionel Pedley
Carl Beal	Back	Clair Brunson

TRIPLETT FEATURES AUTO RACE PROGRAM TOMORROW

With Ernie Triplett's return to the wheel of a racing car following his recent illness occupying the spotlight, auto-racing fans are expected to be offered a wild evening of entertainment tomorrow night at the Legion Ascot Speedway when six races, topped by a forty-lap sweepstakes, will be presented by Dr. Fred Loring and his fellow service men.

Triplett, conceded to be one of the most daring as well as capable pilots in the country, yesterday told Al Guiberson that he feels in the 'pink' of condition again and is ready to get back behind the wheel of the Guiberson special. The lanky 'Belvedere Bad Boy' went to the hospital to have a minor operation performed immediately following his return from the East a month ago. While he was on the shelf, Walt May took over the pilot assignment on the Guiberson car and three weeks ago attempted to drive it as a two-seater; however, the mount proved too bulky for the steeply banked curves of the Ascot oval and May was unable to handle it properly.

During the past two weeks the machine has been cut down to a one-seater. The car has a powerful Miller motor with which Triplett, who drove it at Indianapolis, Altoona and Detroit, is well acquainted.

While Ernie got 118 miles an hour out of the machine when it was much heavier, what speed he will attain at Ascot remains to be seen.

Jimmy Sharp still looms as the "lion" of the local array of talent as a result of his winning streak. The San Pedro ace has six victories in a row to his credit and will be out after his seventh tomorrow night. However, the dopesters appear to be of the opinion that Jimmy will face his toughest test this week. Triplett is to be reckoned with, Walt May should be up in front at the wheel of his Padre Special, while Francis Quinn, Melvin McKee and several other speed kings have their cars in tiptop shape.

The entry list was closed last night by A. C. Pillsbury of the A.A.A., with thirty-one pilots and cars entered. The six races to be staged are the three ten-lap heats, Italian Helmet dash of two laps, a ten-lap consolation and the forty-lap main event.

Indications point to a crowd of 10,000, according to Ascot officials.

Harry Schmidt, caretaker of the oval, reports that the oiled lanes of the speedway are in good shape and that there is a good chance of a record or two being broken.

SHAW, MALCEWICZ SIGN FOR OLYMPIC MAT SHOW

"Wild" Bill Shaw, the red-headed grappler from Salt Lake City, who showed a great improvement in his mat work over last year when he wrestled Nick Lutze here several weeks ago, will make an attempt to get into the main-event class here when he meets Joe Malcewicz in the second bout of Lou Daro's all-star mat card at the Olympic Wednesday night.

Shaw appeared in many feature events in the East and Middle West before returning to the Coast a few months ago. He was injured in training after he had been signed to clash with Richard Shikat, and was not entirely well when he faced the popular Venice lifeguard.

Everette Marshall, who will clash with Bob (Bibber) McCoy in the finish feature event of this card, went through a light workout yesterday, and had scheduled a tough one for 2 o'clock this afternoon at the Commercial Club.

Nick Lutze arrived here yesterday from San Francisco to get into condition for his match with Frank Leavitt, 300-pound man-mountain, which will open this card.

Golfers Play at Arrowhead

Ten additional entries, bringing the list to forty-six, were made yesterday in the Labor Day match-play tournament scheduled for tomorrow, Sunday and Monday at the Lake Arrowhead Golf Club. It was announced last night by A. E. D. Trabue, secretary-manager of the club. This is the largest number of entries yet recorded for a tournament at the mountain club this season, Trabue said, and another score of players is expected on the roster by Saturday morning.

The tournament, the principal event on the summer and fall golf program at Lake Arrowhead, has attracted golfers from Redlands, San Bernardino, Riverside and Los Angeles, as well as a number from Orange county. Don Rice, a dark horse at the start of the season, who has won two week-end tournaments, is entered and is expected to give a good account of himself. Rice, a musician in one of the Arrowhead Lake orchestras, was unknown in golfing circles at the start of the season and entered his first tournament with a sixteen handicap. This has been cut to a six, but Rice continues to garner laurels.

Trabue said last night that the new road to Lake Arrowhead has been marked with signs by the Southern California Auto Club to prevent confusion among motorists expected in large numbers at the lake over the Labor Day holiday.

Brown, Sellers will Defend Doubles Laurels

Enter Pacific Southwest Net Tournament

Other Northern Stars will Face Easterners

Entries for the Pacific Southwest championships to be played at the Los Angeles Tennis Club, September 19 to 28, were strengthened yesterday by the addition of a championship doubles team from San Francisco and several northern court stars. These entries along with the definite acceptance of a number of national and international figures bring a great deal of class to the early entry returns, and should attract more in the near future, according to Perry Jones, tournament manager.

JOHN VAN RYN.

Neil Brown and Bobby Sellers, winners of last year's championship in a spectacular upset that defeated the team of Johnny Van Ryn and Wilmer Allison, are again entered—this time to defend their title against the field. Van Ryn and Allison have returned their signed entry blanks and will team up in the doubles for a return engagement against the young Coast stars.

Gerald Stratford, standby in northern net circles, along with Alan Herrington will come south to play through the ten days' tournament, it was also announced by Jones last night.

With the entry of Mel Dranga, two-times winner of the Pacific Northwest championships, the southern tournament will draw the best from its northern neighbor. Dranga, it is said, was given his choice of southern tournaments as an added prize to his successful defense of the northern title. The hard-hitting champion immediately chose the Pacific-Southwest, which will be his introduction to Southern California fans and international competition in this section of the country.

Among those of international importance who have definitely announced their intentions of entering the West's major play are Big Bill Tilden, George Lott, Jr., Johnny Van Ryn, Wilmer Allison (all members of the American Davis Cup team,) Berkeley Bell, Lyttleton Rogers, champion of Ireland and Canada, and Sidney B. Wood.

Porto De Oro Captures Race

AGUA CALIENTE, Aug. 28.—Scoring his second victory in three days, Porto De Oro, flying the colors of Bert Lamport's stable, captured the Florist Telegraph Delivery, feature event on the program here today.

The race, named in honor of a delegation of florists bound for a San Francisco convention, brought out a group of eight starters. Porto De Oro broke into the lead soon after leaving the gate and bounded under the wire alone, leading the field by a margin of three lengths.

The Miss and Chard fought it out in the stretch for the place, but the latter lost out by a nose.

First race, seven furlongs—Boot Top (Bernier,) won; Mr. Pat (Johns,) second; Shasta Bally (Fischer,) third. Time, 1:25 4-5.

Second race, five and a half furlongs—Patricia Cire (Johns,) won; Common Denominator (Dalsell,) second; Pelaika (Berry,) third. Time, 1:07.

Third race, five furlongs—Miss Sage (Moore,) won; Mary Ream (Turk,) second; Toto (Fischer,) third. Time, 1:01.

Fourth race, six furlongs—Foreign Club (Hart,) won; Flywood (Hayward,) second; Heroakra (Turk,) third. Time, 1:12 4-5.

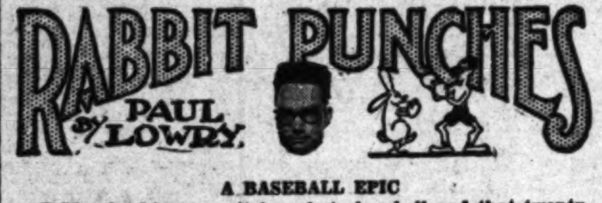
Fifth race, seven furlongs—Porto De Oro (Moore,) won; The Miss (Stanski,) second; Chard (Fischer,) third. Time, 1:26.

Sixth race, mile and one-sixteenth—Sweeping Ray (Jones,) won; Dear Sir (Bernier,) second; Belle of Winchester (Johns,) third. Time, 1:48 3-5.

Seventh race, mile and one-eighth—Burdale (Turk,) won; Waponoca (Bernier,) second; Venture (Fischer,) third. Time, 1:54 2-5.

BAKER BOXES FRANKLIN

Punchers will feature the weekly boxing card at Compton tonight. Bud Baker and Jack Franklin, 165-pounders, box the eight-round main event. Four-rounders listed are: Bert Smith vs. Bob Martin, 150 pounds; Sal Ortega vs. Dan Solas, 133 pounds; Young Ralph vs. Don Arnoth, 122 pounds; Peter Pena vs. Joe Rey, 118 pounds.



A BASEBALL EPIC

IT IS refreshing to switch reels to baseball and that twenty-inning struggle between St. Louis and Chicago yesterday.

The Cardinals' win after four hours of strenuous tussle tightens the National League race and puts them only five and one-half games out of first place.

Brooklyn is back in second, and the New York Giants are only a point ahead of St. Louis.

Most anything can happen now, and probably will. Three weeks ago Brooklyn was riding high, wide and handsome with a good lead at the top of the perch.

The Dodgers fell with a crash, and have had a tough time getting back into the scramble.

The same thing may happen to the Chicago Cubs.

They are due for a road trip shortly, and if their pitchers fail them it will be too bad for the Wrigley dream of another pennant.

The Cubs are not in the best of shape, and have pulled out many a game on their fight.

Sometimes it takes more than that, and if a none-too-strong hurling staff and a weakened infield falter on the road there will be new faces at the top of the heap soon.

THE RADIO BUNK

WHILE everybody is gallantly telling everybody else how to clean up the boxing situation, Mr. John Franklin Ness comes to bat at a most propitious moment.

Mr. Ness would clean up the radio situation as related to boxing. By way of explanation Mr. Ness is an expert on the matter. For the better part of a year Mr. Ness suffered an ailment that committed him to a bed on the flat of his back.

It is easy to appreciate that he knows whereof he speaks, as follows:

"Dear Paul:

"While you're trying to put the fight game on the up-and-up will you help de-bunk the guys who announce our fistic waltzes over the radio. Right now they've all got the same monologue and change it a trifle with the names of the principals and for the past three years every match has been a scorcher. If they ever put a round out on the air in which the boys weren't slamming each other like a couple of horn-locked mooses, the shock paralyzed the tubes—for it never got into our receiver. Here are a few extracts from the powder-puff cantata by Ace Hudkins and McVey:

"'Wow, what a smash. You could hear it all over the ring—he's fighting and clawing just like the old wildcat he is—Look at that one—McVey, crafty old ring general, shook the Ace back on his heels with a terr-if-ic smash to the chin—Now the Cat has McVey on the ropes, slamming away, and what a fighter this boy is. The colored flash can't last'—

"Then when the continued boos of the fight fans got so loud that they began to creep through the microphone, this is what we got: 'There are a few down there who don't seem to like this fight, but they must be crazy because this is a whale of a fight—both boys at it hammer and tongs—no soft punching or boxing to this' . . .

"Then Jack Kennedy throws Hudkins and McVey out of the ring for stalling. I ask you who fished for suckers with the longest line—the radio announcer or the guy who promoted the Ace-McVey fiasco?

"JOHNNIE."

THE CLEAN-UP

SOMEWHAT after the manner of the man who closed the barn door after the horse escaped the teeth of the State Athletic Commission have been restored.

Everyone connected with the unfortunate Campbell incident at San Francisco, including referee, managers, seconds, et al, and those mixed up in the Hudkins-McVey fake fight have been indefinitely suspended.

The action doesn't excuse previous shortcomings, but it does pave the way for a thorough clean-up—and a close check on future activities.

There undoubtedly will be a new commission when the new Governor takes his seat.

For one, Commissioner James Woods will resign soon.

He has tendered his resignation at other times, and it was to have been final at yesterday's meeting of the commission at San Francisco.

However, with the commission under fire his friends say he will stick with his job as chairman until the present unsavory situation clears.

New inspectors will fill the local office, Chief Inspector Frank Moran already having resigned, and Woods will see that the situation is looking up before he steps out for good.

land Beavers in 1923, led the league in hitting and was sold to the Athletics at the close of that season. The St. Louis Browns acquired Hale this season. He played regular third base.

Turner said Hale's acquisition would transfer Gene Robertson, Portland Beaver third baseman, to shortstop.

BABY SAL TAKES ON MICKEY McLOUGHLIN

Baby Sal Sorio, San Bernardino Mexican who is making a comeback, faces a real test at the Main-street tomorrow night when he meets Mickey McLoughlin, Chicago welterweight. Sal has been scoring regularly at the smaller clubs, but in McLoughlin he meets a fellow who is rough and tough and a fair puncher. Any boy who can sock a bit has a chance against the San Bernardino boy. Sal will box as a welterweight tomorrow night. He took on a lot of weight during a long lay-off following an operation, but is gradually reducing.

Six four-round bouts complete tomorrow night's card. They are: Bobby Flores vs. Phil Vrias, 122 pounds; Vinnie Green vs. Marcus Morales, 150 pounds; Leo Domingo vs. Hulet Maples, 128 pounds; Tony Ross vs. Melvin Elliott, 120 pounds; Santiago Lujan vs. June Lagera, 112 pounds; Tony Rockfort vs. Mickey Fuente, 138 pounds.

THREE BOXERS ARE SUSPENDED

in the tenth round and declared "no contest" by Lieut. Jack Kennedy.

The commission instructed Tom Gallery, matchmaker for the Hollywood Legion Athletic Club, to take Chet Shandell, San Francisco heavyweight, off tomorrow night's card. Shandell was ruled an unfit opponent for Les Kennedy of Long Beach. Gallery said he would substitute a new main bout and the program would go on as scheduled.

Frank Moran, chief inspector of the Southern California district, with headquarters in Los Angeles, tendered his resignation today, to take effect September 1, next. Moran gave no reason for his action and the resignation was accepted without comment. A successor was not named.

From a reliable source it was learned today that James Woods, commissioner for the southern part of the State, would definitely step out of the picture in the near future, probably after the Baer-Campbell hearing is concluded. Woods, formerly of Los Angeles, tendered his resignation when he moved to San Francisco several months ago, but it never was accepted.

DOEG, LOTT IN BRILLIANT WIN

came the property of Marjorie Morrill, Dedham, and Frank Shields, New York, when they eliminated the Californian team of Josephine Cruickshank and Keith Gledhill, 6-3, 6-8, 6-1.

CALIFORNIAN LOSES IN BRITISH TOURNEY

LONDON, Aug. 28. (Exclusive)—Archie Andrew of California, who is the lone American entrant in the British boys' golf championship at Fulwell, was eliminated in the third round today by H. E. Hickmott, who won 2 up.

Andrew had a good start, but finished disastrously. He took the first two holes and narrowly missed winning the third, but missed the green by a yard, and the pair turned all square. He was still even on the seventeenth, where he lost a ball, and was 1 down going on the eighteenth. He dubbed a chip shot from the bunker on the eighteenth, and Hickmott, getting down in 3, cinched the match.

THREE UPSETS IN NET PLAY

Seeded Stars Beaten by Tourney Rivals

Baiano Bows to Little in Men's Singles

Millman, Underwood Lose Alhambra Tilts

Upsets appeared in the annual Alhambra tennis championships yesterday for the first time in the tournament. Three seeded players in three different divisions suffered unexpected defeats.

Solly Baiano, motion-picture tournament player of note, succumbed to Bob Little in the men's singles, in a hard-fought match, 2-6, 6-3, 7-5. Jess Millman, one of the seeded players in the junior boys' singles, bowed to Marvin Woodside in another three-set struggle, 4-6, 6-3, 6-4. Norman Buck defeated Bob Underwood, the seeded No. 4 player in the boys-under-15 singles, in a fine battle, 7-5, 7-5.

Elbert Lewis was the only one of the leading choices in the men's singles, who played yesterday, to win handily. He defeated Battelle, 6-2, 6-4. Other possibilities for the title experienced difficulties. Summary:

CARDS CAPTURE OVERTIME DUEL

Douthit raced home, but High was nailed attempting to stretch his hit into a double.

The Cardinals had the game all won in regulation time until Burleigh Grimes blew up in the seventh when the Cubs scored three times—two runs shy of a tie. Lindsey replaced Grimes in the eighth and three more hits produced the tying runs and sent the game into extra innings.

Pat Malone, seeking his seventeenth victory of the season, was thumped for St. Louis' first five runs. Sunny Jim Bottomley rapped him for a homer in the second, and in the fourth sent a sacrifice fly to Hack Wilson to core Adams, who had doubled and moved to third as High was thrown out. Malone blew in the sixth. He hit Bottomley on the head, but the Card first baseman shook it off and went to first. Malone then hit Fisher and Watkins doubled, scoring Bottomley. Jimmy Wilson singled to send in the last Cardinal runs until the fifteenth.

Each team scored two in the fifteenth, the only really bad spots suffered by Sylvester Johnson, Card hurler, and Osborn, who had replaced Nelson in the ninth.

The victory was the Cardinals' ninth in a row, and trimmed the Cubs' lead over Brooklyn to five games. It also was the league champions' second straight beating Score:

ELMER BOESEKE TO GET TRIAL

line-up remains intact with Eric Pedley at No. 1, Capt. Tommy Hitchcock at No. 3 and Winston Guest at back.

Boeseke's trial is a recognition of his sensational play for the Reds in yesterday's test match at Locust Valley. It presents the possibility of the two Californians, Pedley and Boeseke, riding out together against the British in the series starting September 6 at Meadowbrook.

LAREDO MAY BOX BROWN

Mexican to Get Spot if Boxing Commission Fails to Order Genaro to Appear Here

Chato Laredo will probably fight Newsboy Brown at the Olympic September 9 unless the New York commission acts on the telegraphic signing of Frankie Genaro and forces the N.B.A. champion to go through with the Pacific Coast bout.

The Mexican holds a decision over Brown and has already been ordered into training. Genaro's manager, Billy McCarney, called off the bout after agreeing to take the date with no reason except he had signed Frankie to meet Midget Wolgast in New York October 17, which is a month and a half away.

Newsboy Brown

The Olympic forwarded McCarney's telegrams to the New York commission and asked for action. No reports have yet been rendered.

The club yesterday booked Billy Townsend to box the winner of the Bucky Lawless-Sammy Jackson bout next Tuesday night. Townsend is at Vancouver and will return as soon as a definite opponent and date are set.

Lawless figures to be the favorite, but may not be. The Syracuse Irishman holds decisions over Tommy Freeman, Jack Thompson, Gorilla Jones, Sammy Baker, Bruce Flowers—all top-notchers.

Jackson is a comparative youngster, but is well liked locally. Following his victory over Benny Miller here he went to San Diego last week and stopped Charley Feraci. He also stopped Harry Wills down there.

Claude Varner is here from Bakersfield to finish training for Huerta Evans in the semi-wind-up. The 21-year-old Varner is the stiffest puncher for a little fellow Matchmaker Wad Wadhams ever turned loose at the Grand-avenue club. He has twenty-two kayoes in thirty-five fights.

Hymie Miller has signed to box Johnny De Lano in the special event. The two fours are Billy Wagner vs. Evans Fortune and Tony Ross vs. Pete Armiento.

GOLF AND DANCING IN UNIQUE COMBINATION

El Patio ballroom at Third street and Vermont avenue is being rebuilt to incorporate a miniature eighteen-hole golf course. The entertainment center is to be reopened September 4 as Rainbow Gardens. Charles Swanson, designer of the unique establishment and its general manager, says that $100,000 has been spent in the work, which will afford tricky hazards for the pony golf fans who care to combine their game with dancing in an attractive environment and regardless of weather conditions.

'RUSH' MEADOWS LOSES APPEAL

Conviction in Osborne Fund Case Upheld

High Court Finds Trial Without Error

Eleven Counts of Grand Theft Sustained

Division One, District Court of Appeal, yesterday upheld the conviction before Superior Judge Fricke of George R. (Rush) Meadows, former university football star, on eleven counts of grand theft for obtaining approximately $40,000 from the family of John R. Osborne, cemetery promoter, to obtain Osborne's release from Leavenworth prison.

Each separate offense had its inception in a general foundational misstatement of facts, made by the defendant, and which applied to each of the other offenses of which the defendant was convicted, the court said.

The evidence as to each count of the information was legally sufficient to support the verdict, the opinion reads. It was found that each of the several acts charged constituted a distinct offense and that the trial court committed no error in trying the defendant upon each of the counts. It was further stated that the court was not guilty of prejudicial error.

Consideration was given to the much-discussed typewritten transcription of shorthand notes used in examination of a witness at the trial. The court found that no error had been committed by the trial court in refusing the request of the defense that the prosecution furnish a copy of the notes.

The notes were made by a stenographer at an interview between the defendant and the District Attorney. The prosecution used the typewritten transcript in propounding questions to the stenographer in an effort to impeach the testimony of the defendant as to statements Meadows was asserted to have made during the interview.
